Pacific Coast Sunset
When Men Are Lynched.
A Trial Honeymoon.
Flying Is Cheap.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HEARST RANCH,
San Simeon, Cal., Dec. 7.

SOME THINGS you cannot describe, though you see them clearly.

Nobody has really described Niagara, the Pacific Ocean, a volcano in eruption, or the wonderful look that a new child brings into this world from the eternity that lies behind us.

It is not possible to describe the sunset seen from the coast looking across the Pacific to the northwest. But for the benefit of those that haven't seen it, you can attempt to describe it, as prairie dogs chatter about an express that has gone by.

THE SUN has been down for some time, blue black darkness spreads over from the east. There is an evening star hanging high up, in the sky, of such extreme metallic, silver brightness, that it seems to stare at and reproach you. Your impulse is to say:

"I haven't done anything, don't look so hard."

THERE IS intensity in the low-red-long line that spreads low across the horizon that you never saw elsewhere. Nothing was ever like that savage dark red, fighting against approaching blackness.

The smooth Pacific Ocean spreads out—a dark, oily purple. Soon the sun will be rising on its other shore, seven thousand miles away.

The sky, without a cloud, shows every shade of blue, the long mountain range to the east changing from gray and green to black.

A SMALL lighthouse at the foot of this hill has begun its night's work, sweeping a moving beam across the water. There is not a sound, as the earth turns on its axis, 1,000 miles an hour, and flies through space around the sun, and with the sun, at fantastic speed.

A wonderful machine is this universe, and an interesting corner of it is this Pacific Coast of California. Come out and see it.

WAR VETERANS of the East have expelled Gov. Rolph, of California, from their "national advisory board" because he too hastily approved the lynching of two kidnapers, at San Jose, Cal.

It should be remembered that what a man thinks, not what he says, tells what he is.

Tens of millions in this country THOUGHT what Gov. Rolph SAID, although their second thought may have modified their first, which was:

"Thank God those kidnapers are dead."

Gov. Rolph said what he should not have said, occupying high office, but he said what at least ninety-eight per cent of those that voted for him thought when they first heard of the lynching.

If public officials were never guilty of a more serious offense than telling what they really think, there would be no need to worry.

To condone mob violence is a dangerous mistake. Gov. Rolph knows it as well as his critics do. But he and others when they heard of the lynching thought first of the unfortunate young man, kidnaped, taken to the edge of the water, knocked on the head repeatedly with a brick, in spite of piteous appeals, bound with wire and, while still alive, thrown into the water. That thought was not calculated to arouse sympathy for the kidnapers.

However, one violation of law thoughtlessly approved may lead to others a thousand times more dangerous, and that should be remembered, even when a lynching happens to please us.

Worst of all in that horrible mob outbreak, revealing the savagery that lies so close to the skins of "civilized" men, was the statement of a young man that had bragged about leading a group of the lynchers:

"We gathered up most of them in the speakeasies, that is why so many of the mob were drunk."

FIFI D'ORSAY and Maurice Hill—perhaps you know who they are, the writer does not know—were married yesterday "as a climax to the first trial honeymoon on record."

It was not actually the first "trial honeymoon" on record. The first one was the Adam and Eve trial, in the Garden of Eden. That did not work out well, but you can blame nobody but the snake. Adam and Eve did not choose each other.

No honeymoon or marriage "experiment" can be expected to work out well, for it always indicates doubt in one or both, and that is enough to spoil the experiment at the start. The least a bride can expect is that her husband shall believe her to be the only woman on earth, as Eve was.

IT IS NOT yet realized that flying is inexpensive. While saving precious time, it costs no more for gas or oil than automobiling. Ben Smith, of New York, after having made a few more millions in Wall street, wisely selects gold mines for his business.

He selects the right kind of gold mine, not the kind offered you by mail as "the opportunity of your life."

Mr. Smith, stopping here on the Hearst ranch landing field on his way via San Francisco and Seattle to British Columbia, where he has a nice mine, urged:

"Come on, you will be up there in nine hours, and I will show you, on the Fraser River, absolutely the most beautiful country in the world."

MR. SMITH declares that flying costs him less than travel

State Liquor Stores Aim to Curb Cafe Sales

STATE SHOPS TO HIT CAFE RUM SALES

Half Pints to Be Sold At 50 Cents; County Gets 21 Stores

Fond hopes developed by thousands of hotelmen and restaurateurs in Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania of solving their financial problems by the sale of whisky were deflated today.

The Sun-Telegraph learned that the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board is planning to sell the hard stuff in the state liquor stores in quantities as small as a half-pint—a half-pint for perhaps 50 or 60 cents, which is as much as some places are now charging for one drink!

Such a move, undoubtedly, would cut into the sales of the restaurants and hotels. On top of this assault, the state stores on January 1 take over the exclusive sale of pints and quarts.

LIMIT LOWERED

Before prohibition wholesale liquor houses, which occupied the same spot to be held by the liquor stores, were forbidden to sell less than quarts.

To make things worse, in the eyes of the hotelmen and restaurauteurs, the Liquor Control Board announced today that Allegheny County will have more stores than any other county in the state.

Twenty-one stores will be opened in Allegheny County the first week in January, the board announced. Eight of these will be in Pittsburgh. Luzerne County, with 15 stores, will be second. Philadelphia County will have 10.

Other stores in Allegheny County will be at Braddock, Carnegie, Clairton, Homestead, McKees Rocks, McKeesport, East Pittsburgh, Coraopolis, Dormont, Sharpsburg, Wilkinsburg, Verona and Tarentum. Robert S. Gawthrop, chairman of the board, announced that this list was tentative.

In three of these places, Wilkinsburg, Tarentum and Verona, local option applied against liquor even before prohibition. And in a fourth, Dormont, the citizens didn't bother to vote local option, but their remonstrances kept saloons out of the borough.

Sites for the Allegheny stores are being chosen by Roy MacGregor and G. G. Weissert, who have been deluged with offers of sites.

MacGregor said he planned to take the first option on a liquor store site late today. The site will be outside Pittsburgh. First, the option must be submitted to the Liquor Control Board, then the site must be publicly advertised, so that citizens who desire to pro-

Johnson Ire Aroused By Expose of $5,000 Pay to Woman Aide

MISS FRANCIS ROBINSON

"Robby"—to Gen. Johnson—whose salary as secretary to the NRA Administrator is almost as much as his own!

NRA Chief Charges 'Hitting Below The Belt'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Publication in a Washington newspaper today of a story which pointed out that his secretary, Miss Frances Robinson, receives a federal salary of $5,280 a year, or only $220 less than his own, aroused the ire of Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Six months ago, Miss Robinson was a stenographer in the Democratic national committee at $100 a month, the story said.

Johnson said, with feeling:

"That's hitting below the belt. Miss Robinson is personal assistant to the administrator. Everyone knows she is not merely my stenographer or secretary."

Miss Robinson accompanies him on all his trips, usually made by plane, and frequently works long hours a day.

She has frequently ruffled the feelings of prominent individuals by making them cool their heels in Johnson's outer office. Johnson has never been known to reprimand her for these acts. She talks straight out like Johnson and can use language as picturesque as his own.

Johnson declared today:

"At the first meeting of the National Industrial Advisory Board Miss Robinson was appointed personal assistant to the administrator at a salary of $5,000 per year. Robert Straus also was appointed personal assistant.

"Since assuming her duties, Miss Robinson has assumed more and more responsibility. In many ways she knows more about this National Recovery Act and the NRA than anybody else.

"She came to me, not as a stenographer earning $25 a week in her previous position, but as an executive of the RKO. During her service with the Democratic National Committee she was a volunteer worker, receiving only expenses."

3 DIE IN BORDER RUM BATTLE

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Three men were killed and another was wounded in a gun fight between United States border patrolmen and liquor smugglers at the foot of Park street early today.

The dead are Dorne C. Melton, 31, border patrolman, shot through the heart; Francisco Gonzalez, 25, Juarez, and Higinio Perez, Juarez.

American officers seized 150 gallons of mixed liquors.

Patrolmen said more smugglers may have been killed. They saw two men fall into the Rio Grande during the fight and are looking for the bodies.

The battle started when Melton and five other inspectors challenged 16 men who had waded the river with 150 gallons of liquor.

GLACE BAY, N. S., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Four Canadian Coast Guardsmen were captured today by the crew of a suspected rum-running craft, who turned on the guardsmen as they were being towed into port and escaped with their seized vessel.

NRA FARM CODE DISPUTE RAGES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—While President Roosevelt endeavored to restore harmony among the divergent official factions of the AAA today, Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson announced that the NRA probably will modify some of the codes which have been set up in the Agricultural Administration.

The NRA has taken over the code work of the AAA, following a series of disagreements between George N. Peek, AAA administrator, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell.

Both Wallace and Tugwell conferred with the President at the White House today, and Peek later lunched with him.

Reports that Peek's resignation was impending were denied. There was a possibility he may be transferred to the NRA, however, as he and Johnson are friends of long standing.

RYAN CALLS FRICK MINE STRIKE

Ousted as Weighman, Convicted in Fight At Polling Place

UNIONTOWN, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Martin F. Ryan, union mine leader, directed his followers to quit work today after he was denied admittance to the Colonial No. 4 mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, where he has been acting as checkweighman.

Members of the Independent Brotherhood Workers, a rival organization to the United Mine Workers, of which Ryan is a local president, voted yesterday 225 to 32 to dispense with services of a checkweighman.

Members of the U. M. W. A., who had been outvoted by a narrow margin last month in the election to select a pit committee, did not participate in the balloting.

Officials said 86 men failed to report for work, but more than 75 did appear after Ryan called on his followers to quit. A meeting of the U. M. W. A. was called for late today.

The action came shortly before Ryan and a companion, John Bukolich, were convicted on charges of assault and battery in disorders at the Grindstone election booth November 7. The maximum penalty is a $500 fine and six years in prison or both.

Captive Mine Parley On Wage Scale Held

The first conference between "Captive" mine operators and employe representatives chosen at an election under the strike-settlement agreement was held today at Mine No. 3, of the National Mining Company, at Muse, near Canonsburg.

The purpose, according to Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, was "negotiating a wage agreement in conformity with the provisions of the presidential agreement."

After the conference Murray said:

"We have submitted to each other certain suggestions which will be given further consideration by both parties."

It is understood the two sides were still apart on union recognition, the company contending it was dealing with the men as individuals.

Representing the National Mining Company, of which Thomas Moses, head of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, is president, was George Wilson, superintendent of Mine No. 3. Present for the miners were four of their six chosen representatives, Murray, P. T. Fagan, president; William Patton, vice president, and William Hargest, secretary-treasurer of District No. 5, United Mine Workers.

$900 STOLEN FROM SAFE

John A. Freyvogel, undertaker at 3406 Fifth avenue, was knocked unconscious and robbed of $900 by a man to whom he was giving 25 cents for a meal in his office this morning.

Freyvogel was sitting alone in his office when the man, poorly dressed, came in and asked for a "stake to a meal." As Freyvogel reached for a quarter, the man struck him on the side of the jaw, Freyvogel told police.

He was found unconscious on the floor about 10 minutes later by an assistant, J. W. Vandecar.

The safe beside his desk was open and the slugger had escaped with the cash.

Freyvogel was unsuspecting when the stranger came into his office, he said, because daily he has numerous similar requests for help. To reporters he said:

"I don't believe that man intended to rob me it's just hard times and the temptation of that open safe."

Youth Exonerated In Automobile Death

Drew Burkhard, 18, of 1901 Wayne street, Swissvale, was exonerated by the Coroner today in connection with the death of Virginia Demick, 21, of 910 Mifflin avenue, Wilkinsburg, who was struck by Burkhard's automobile during a snowstorm November 26.

Burkhard said he was moving slowly in traffic when the girl ran into the street at Henrietta street and Braddock avenue. The car skidded and hit the girl when Burkhard applied the brakes, he said.

The men in custory were William E. Davis, 53, a reputed Capone henchman, in whose automobile $30,000 in bogus money was found, and Henry Harris.

NEPHEW ADMITS MERCY SLAYING

International News Service.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 7.—Using a heavy clay flowerpot, John Stephens, jobless church worker, beat his aunt to death to put her out "of terible pain," he told authorities today.

"This merciful thing I have done" were the words used by Stephens in telling how he went to the bedroom of "Aunt Allie" Stephens Wednesday morning and struck her over the head "with all my strength." She was suffering from cancer, he said.

Police, however, promptly charged him with murder.

Declaring it was a "mercy slaying," Stephens calmly submited to arrest and said he would not fight to escape punishment. He said:

"If Aunt Allie could speak now I know she would not blame me. She would say she was glad her suffering was over.

"Fo rfive o rsix years she had suffered from cancer and was in terrible pain. I was afraid to wait any longer—she might have asked me to do it and that would have been like suicide on her part."

'Song Bird' Silent As Gallows Nears

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Dec. 7.—(INS.)—The song bird of grim San Quentin was silent today.

Since convicted for the murder of Harry Nelson, an Alameda (Cal.) official, over Nelson's pretty wife, Claude Forbes, 25, has entertained other murderers in "condemned row" with his singing. Under sentence to be hanged tomorrow Forbes was removed to the death cell adjacent to the gallows room last night. His singing stopped.

Fast P.R.R. Trains Late Arriving Here

Minor trouble, both east and west of Pittsburgh, caused delays to several Pennsylvania trains, due here early today. The "Pennsylvanian" and "Iron City Express," both from the East, were 20 minutes late.

Two east bound trains, one from Columbus and one from Mansfield, O., were from 10 to 25 minutes late.

CLERK FREED IN BALLOT CHEATING

Trial of Third Ward Group on Election Charges Started

The government scored its second victory in the congressional vote fraud prosecutions today with the conviction of four of five defendants in the fourth trial.

Albert Diulius, judge; Albert Devine and William Kennedy, inspectors of the election board, Tenth District, Fourth Ward, and Joseph Ridge, election constable, were found guilty of conspiracy to violate the ballot laws at the 1932 election in a verdict read at the opening of Federal Court today.

Charles F. Morrison, clerk, of the board, was freed.

WILL SEEK NEW TRIAL

Attorney E. G. Coll, notified Judge F. P. Schoonmaker that a motion for a new trial in behalf of Diulius, Levine and Kennedy would be filled within four days. Attorney James P. O'Connor made a like announcement for Ridge.

Today's convictions ran the governments's string to seven, three election board officers of the First District, Third Ward having been found guilty last week.

Soon after the verdict was read, Max Broida, of Vine street, called as a government witness in the fifth fraud trial, collapsed from a heart attack in the courtroom. After being treated by Dr. W. F. Bloom, of the government health service, he was sent home.

The jury arrived at a verdi at 5:15 p. m. yesterday, after deliberating three hours and 35 minutes. In the meantime court adjourned. Judge Schoonmaker who presided, left word for the jurors to leave a sealed verdict should they reach an agreement before court opened today.

ANOTHER TRIAL OPENS

Within an hour after the case was placed in the hands of the jury, another election trial in which five members of the election board of the Sixth District, Third Ward, and Harry Kart, are defendants, started before Judge Schoonmaker. The board members are Anthony Sibilia, judge; Jack Frankel and Henry Silverstein, inspectors; Davey Slutzky and Harry Kalson, clerks.

Government Prosecutors Earl F. Reed and James I. Marsh have relisted for trial at the present term of court the first two election cases tried, which resulted in disagreements by the juries.

The defendants are election officers of boards of the Nineteenth District, Fourth Ward, and the Ninth District, Third Ward. In the trial of the latter group, scheduled for retrial on December 13, the jury deliberated 24 hours without reaching a verdict.

In the other case, to be retried December 18, the jury deliberated 30 hours.

CITES STRAIGHT TICKETS

Prosecutor Reed in his opening address of the case now on trial said that the government will show by witnesses that 60 to 70 straight Democrat tickets were cast at the election, but the ballot box and board records recorded only 35 straight Democrat ballots.

Tally sheets of the board, produced in evidence, showed 122 votes having been credited to Congressman M. J. Muldowney, Republican, and 78 votes for Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democratic candidate for Congress; also 78 votes for United States Senator James J. Davis, and 92 votes for Lawrence H. Rupp, the Democratic candidate for the Senate.

U. S. Lifts Ban on Joyce's 'Ulysses'

Gates Open at Last To Most Famous of Barred Books

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The genius of a half-blind Irishman has radiated across the sea and induced a judge to unlock America's gates to a famous pariah of bookdom.

A decision by Federal Judge John M. Woolsey, admitting James Joyce's "Ulysses" to this country, was hailed today by foes of censorship, champions of modern literary trends—and even the federal prosecutor, Samuel C. Coleman.

Burned by customs men, denounced as "filthy" and obscene through years of raging controversy, the massive volume has finally won through to a place of legal respectability.

In a decision that was expected to have far-reaching effect in judicial definition of the word "obscene," Judge Woolsey ruled last night that while the book might be "somewhat emetic" to some readers, "nowhere does it tend to be an aphrodisiac." He added:

"I have not found anything that I consider to be dirt for dirt's sake."

He said the book was a sincere work of art, accomplishing "with astonishing success" a venture into a new literary genre. The short Anglo-Saxon words, whose occasional appearanec in the book drew the wrath of censors were found by the judge to be natural to some characters portrayed.

ROOSEVELT SCORES LYNCHING AS 'COLLECTIVE MURDER'

STAND CHEERED BY CHURCH GROUP

U. S. Won't Sanction Mob Action, Says President

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Lynch law is plain murder, and the American people will not stand for it or for those who condone it.

This was the stinging, brief indictment of recent violent incidents which President Roosevelt made a primary part of his speech to the Federal Council of Churches of Christ here last night.

The President bluntly called lynching "collective murder." Then, in a single sentence and without using names, he sharply condemned Gov. Rolph, of California, for condoning the lynching of two alleged kidnapers. Mr. Roosevelt's reference to this subject was brief. He said:

VILE MURDER

"This new generation, for example, is not content with preachings against that vile form of collective murder—lynch law—which has broken out in our midst anew. We know that it is murder, and a deliberate and definite disobedience of the commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill.'

"We do not excuse those in high places or in low places who condone it."

Mr. Roosevelt followed up his condemnation with an important reference to the courts of the land, and light criticism of the judicial system, too. He called attention to the need for a government strong enough, not only to protect its prisoners, but also to mete out certain and speedy justice. He said:

"That function in many places has fallen into a sad state of disrepair. It must be a part of our program to re-establish it."

The President also said:

"From the bottom of my heart I believe that this beloved country of ours is entering upon a time of great gain. That gain can well include a greater material prosperity if we take care that it is a prosperity for a hundred and twenty million human beings and not a prosperity for the top of the pyramid alone."

ROLPH SILENT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Gov. James Rolph, Jr., who voiced approval of the recent San Jose lynchings, today declined to comment on President Roosevelt's Washington speech excoriating lynching and inferentially rebuking the governor, but not by name.

MINISTER THREATENED

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Because of annonymous telephone threats against his two children, the home of the Rev. Leslie C. Kelley, who recently resigned from the California Athletic Commission, is being given specal protection, police disclosed today.

In his report to police, the Rev. Mr. Kelley said the person making the threats by telephone referred to the minister's criticsm of Gov. James Rolph, Jr., for the latter's approval of the San Jose lyinching of the kidnap-slayers of Brooke L. Hart and added:

"I'm going to make you suffer for your treatment of Gov. Rolph. You're going to know what it feels like to have your children kidnaped. Then we'll see what you think about lynching."

In resigning from the commission recently the minister said his action was partly due to Gov. Rolph's attitude toward the San Jose lynching.

Cabinet Fate Hangs On Chautemps Plan

PARIS, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The French cabinet's life again was in the balance today as Premier Camille Chautemps opened the battle for his financial restoration program.

Solving a State Problem -:- -:- By QUIN HALL

WALLACE SEES NEW RELIGION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—A new concept of a religion to fit the spiritual needs of men and women in a rapidly changing economic picture was suggested today by Secretary Wallace in a speech before the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

He said:

"The problem of statesmanship is to mould a policy leading toward a higher state for humanity, and to stick by that policy and make it seem desirable to the people in spite of short-time political pressure to the contrary. True statesmanship and true religion, therefore, have much in common."

Reviewing the history of the church and the influence of materialism on the Protestant faith, he said that "to enter the Kingdom of Heaven brought to earth and expressed in terms of rich material life it will be necessary to have a reformation even greater than that of Luther and Calvin."

SEEK SUITORS IN GIRL KILLINGS

CRISFIELD, Md., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Earl Collins, 22-year-old oyster shucker from Groten, Va., was hunted throughout the lower part of Delmarva Peninsula as the slayer of Miss Minnie Jones, 19, while she was sitting in her father's store here last night.

Miss Jones, one of 15 children of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jones, died within 10 minutes after being wounded.

WILLMAR, Minn., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—A 17-year-old high school girl was shot to death at a minister's home last night. Police today were seeking a jealous suitor.

The body of the girl, Ruby Haug, daughter of G. C. Haug, president of the State Bank of Pennock, near here, was found, covered with boards, in bushes, 50 feet from the door of the Rev. W. C. Binson.

Five shots had pierced her body.

Police said they were seeking Lyman Solmonson, 31, who had been warned to cease his attentions to the girl as she had complained he was "pestering" her.

TOUHY REMOVED TO CHICAGO

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Federal agents brought Roger Touhy, gang chieftain, and three asserted followers here from St. Paul, Minn., today under heavy guard to await trial in the $70,000 ransom kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, wealthy stock promoter.

Secrecy shrouded the trip here from St. Paul where Touhy, Gus Schaefer and Eddie McFadden were recently acquitted in the ransome abduction of William Hamm, Jr., wealthy brewer. The other member of the quartet brought here this morning was Albert Kator.

Federal agents refused to disclose where the four asserted gangsters were being held.

Trial of the quartet has been set for December 12. Factor, facing extradition himself to London, England, for trial on charges of swindling British investors of nearly $8,000,000, has expressed a willingness to testify against Touhy and his co-defendants.

FESS SEES U. S. HEADED TO RUIN

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, assistant Republican leader in the Senate, predicts Franklin D. Roosevelt will not be President more than three years from now.

It looks, the senior Ohio Senator told Ohio Republican leaders here yesterday, like "we're going to hell."

Senator Fess denounced the administration's monetary course, the operation of the federal relief program and the national recovery program.

Attacking relief administration, which he termed "commendable in purpose but not in operation," Fess said:

"No government can spend itself into prosperity."

The recovery program is a direct violation of the law of supply and demand, he said. Then he charged:

"We're facing the most stupendous deficit in history and that's only a beginning."

Policeman Denies Guilt in Lynching

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—John F. Zook, former policeman and wrestler, pleaded not guilty today to a charge of first degree murder in the death of Lloyd Warner, Negro lynched November 28.

Zook, a packing house employe, is accused of having poured gasoline over the Negro, whose body was burned after being hanged to a tree near the courthouse. Circuit Judge J. V. Gaddy ordered Zook held without bond.

WALLACE BACKS NEW FOOD AND DRUG BILL

Secretary Witness at Opening Hearing On Measure

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Secretary Wallace today personally indorsed the general principles of the Copeland bill to strengthen the pure food and drugs act and said the Department of Agriculture officially favored it.

As the first witness at the opening of hearings on the controverted measure, Wallace said need for broader and stricter legislation has been brought about by increased traffic in foods and drugs, development of cosmetics, new narcotic and habit-forming drugs, and "totally new food constituents and important nutrition elements like the vitamins."

MANY LOOPHOLES

He added:

"Then, too, during the past 27 years of enforcement, officials have had driven home to them many weaknesses and loopholes in the present law. For example, the necessity of the government's proving that a drug product is both falsely and fraudulently represented has proved a great hindrance to effective enforcement.

"I doubt that anyone will wish to appear before this committee in defense of the many abuses which can not be remedied under existing legislation; there is too much grim evidence of the tragic effects that almost daily result from the government's inability to prevent the shipment and sale of dangerous and worthless products.

MANY CHANGES

"In addition to preserving the worthy features of the present law, the bill proposes a number of changes in enforcement powers and policies, including these:

"Cosmetics are brought within the scope of the statute.

LOANS BY RFC FIND WAY TO BANK

Railroads Paid Funds To Chase, Inquiry Reveals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Senate stock market investigators were told today that while Harvey Couch, a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, owed money to the Chase National Bank, the RFC made loans to railroads that resulted in payments of more than $10,000,000 to the bank.

Charles S. McCain, chairman of the bank board, an old friend of Couch's, described to the banking committee half a dozen railroad loans by the RFC which he said permitted payment by the carriers of indebtedness sto the bank.

LOAN TO COUCH

He also disclosed that Couch still owes the bank $153,000 jontly with an associate in Arkansas.

Another loan, made individually to Couch, McCain said, was undercollateralized for six months in 1931, but has since been paid.

McCain said the Chase bank received the following payments from railroads as a result of RFC loans:

Wabash, $1,550,000, August, 1932; Rock Island, $2,000,000, June, 1932; St. Louis and Southwestern, $4,500,000, April, 1932; Chicago and Northwestern, $1,000,000, September, 1932; Baltimore and Ohio, $1,250,000 (no date).

$625,000 ADVANCE

The loan still outstanding by Couch to the Chase bank, McCain testified, was originally a $625,000 advance to Couch and C. H. Moses, of Little Rock.

McCain, who said he and Couch were old friends, testified they jointly borrowed $625,000 from the Chemical aNtional Bank a few years ago, but had repaid it.

He testified that he increased his own Chase loan in 1931 to permit Couch to retire some of his undericollaterized loan.

PIPE LINE KING SURRENDERS

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Frank Parish, a fugitive since last February, surrendered to the United States marshal today on an indictment charging use of the mails fraudulently in the financing of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company.

His $35,000,000 pipe line company went into receivership in the spring of 1932. Several months later a government investigation and audit resulted in the indictment of the young financier and several associates in the direction of the company for use of the mails in a scheme to defraud investors in Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line stock.

Then in December, 1932, Parish was indicted in New York on a grand larceny charge, which he denied.

He elected to go into voluntary exile last February rather than face the mail fraud charge, and his $5,000 bond was forfeited.

Parish has residences at Kansas City and East Orange, N. J. Before he was 36 he had built a $16,000,000 fortune, organized the pipe line company to draw natural gas 1,200 miles from Texas to Illiniois, and bought himself the former presidential yacht Mayflower. The collapse of Missouri-Kansas brought disaster.

FAY WEBB VALLEE

DIVORCE QUEST O. K. FOR RUDY

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Rudy Vallee, orchestra leader and entertainer, may do as he pleases about going off somewhere, to Mexico for instance, and seeking a divorce from Fay Webb.

Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel said so, in effect, when he denied Miss Webb's plea for an order restraining her husband from going outside of New York state to get a divorce. New York recognizes only one ground for divorce.

Under a separation agreement, Miss Webb is to receive $100 a week for life in consideration of her promise not to earn money by appearing on the stage, in radio, in the movies or by pursuing "literary work."

Miss Webb says that her husband's income is about $350,000 a year and that he has an estate of $3,000,000, but he says his income has shrunk to about $30,000.

U. S. LIFTS BAN ON 'ULYSSES'

trials of a modern Ulysses—a Dublin Jew named Leopold Bloom. Judge Woolsey said:

"Joyce has attempted — it seems to me with astonishing success—to show how the screen of consciousness with its ever-shifting kaleidoscopic impressions carries, as it were on a plastic palimpsest, not only what is in the focus of each man's observation of the actual things about him, but also in a enumbral zone residua of past impressions, some regent and some drawn up by association from the domain of the subconscious."

NO LEER OF SENSUALIST

"In spite of its unusual frankness, I do not detect anywhere the leer of a sensualist. I hold therefore that it is not pornographic.

"The words which are criticized as dirty are old Saxon words known to almost all men and—I venture — to many women.

BOOTLEGGED 11 YEARS

For 11 years the book had circulated in bootleg channels in the United States, and (so it is said) studied in at least one leading university.

Joyce, a former teacher of languages, has labored under the handicap of approaching blindness. At times he has had to write with crayons, making huge letters on enormous sheets of paper.

The action of Ulysses is all comprised in a single day. Joyce in recent years has been engaged on another work, dealing with a single night's sleep and extending his exploration of the sub-conscious and his experimentation with language.

REED OPPOSES INFLATION OF DOLLAR

Willing to Support Roosevelt on Basis Of Sound Money

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Saying he believed the NRA had "served its purpose as a temporary expedient," United States Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, today asserted he believed it would be "disastrous" to continue is beyond the immediate emergency."

He predicted in an interview that the "pressure of further inflation will be very great when Congress meets" and added:

"If President Roosevelt has the strength and courage to resist it, as I pray he will, I intend—and I think most of the Republicans there intend—to support him to the utmost of our ability."

The Senator said the battle for inflation will be led by the South and West and named the South as the section which he said would suffer most through retention of the NRA.

TALKS ON MONEY

Reed was in Philadelphia to address a joint meeting of the Board of Trade and the Manufacturers and Bankers Club on "Sound money."

Calling for immediate stabilization of the dollar, the Senator said this should be at its former gold content "as a matter of common honesty to the people who have trusted us."

He mentioned as benefits of the "NRA experiment" a tendency to reduce sweatshops, elimination of child labor and "a very considerable improvement in morale at a time when it was very much needed." He said:

"It has borne very heavily on the small businessman, causing many to operate at a loss. To continue it would have a devastating effect on southern industry because it does not make sufficient allowance for local conditions."

SEES END OF NRA

Reed expressed the hope that the NRA would be abolished before its two-year authorization expires, but declined to predict whether Congress would end it. He said:

"The whole world is on the mend, and the only thing holding us back from sharing fully is the fear of our people about the future of our currency. A vast amount of business now pending would be done if men could rest assured no further change would be made in the dollar."

Reed said stabilization would mean a slight drop in prices, to be followed by a rise in both prices and wages, "quite the contrary" to any suggestion of collapse.

REALTORS HOPE FOR TAX RELIEF

Progress in efforts to obtain reduction in realty taxes was reported by I. Leonard Aronson, president of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League, following the return of a delegation representing the league from Harrisburg last night.

Aronson said, however, there is danger of the Legislature adjourning before relief is granted and that "it is the immediate duty" taxpayers to write, wire or upon their Senators and Representatives in the Legislature to advance the legislation.

by automobile, which costs less than travel by rail.

George Hearst, one of W. R. Hearst's five sons, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, uses neither automobile nor railroad trains, always flies, and says:

"The amount of gas you use from the Oakland airport to Los Angeles, is, as nearly as possible, the amount you would use in a fair-sized automobile on the same trip.

"You use more gas per hour, about eighteen gallons to the hour, but you make the flight in three hours, as against eight or ten hours by automobile or train. You save time, and you don't use up tires, worry about traffic, or run the slightest risk."

THE SCENE OF WRECKAGE AT CHERRY HILL, VA.....TWO KILLED, 10 HURT AS NEW YORK TRAIN RAN INTO A FREIGHT

'Rage Reaction' Blamed For Smith's Actions

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Alfred E. Smith is opposed to some policies of President Roosevelt, said Psychologist David Seabury last night, because of a rage reaction in the atavistic area of his subconscious mind going back to the 1928 election."

Seabury, speaking before the Columbia University Waiters' Club, added:

"Al suffered a traumatic shock when his splendid attempt to rid the nation of one of the worst blots on its escutcheon—prohibition—was rewarded by sectional politicians with the worst sort of trickery and chicanery.

"This gave him a very serious wound and he is now in the midst of an emotional reaction he cannot control. He is having an atavistic explosion of this traumatic shock that is producing a neurotic behavior pattern. I am confident that today he is not the real Al Smith. Al is too good a sport for that."

Film Notables Menaced By 'Poison Tongue' Man

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 7.—(AP.—The "man with a poison tongue," who for several weeks has terrorized film notables and wealthy residents of Beverly Hills and Hollywood with threats of bodily harm, was sought by the District Attorney's office today.

Disclosure of the activities of the man came to light when Nelson Eddy, noted operatic baritone, reported he had been twice threatened in telephone calls.

Blancy Matthews, chief investigator for the District Attorney's office, said:

"I believe the person is a trusted member of that particular society group that is now being annoyed and frightened by these calls. In nearly every case the man has called confidential telephone numbers—numbers he could only acquire through an inside connection or position."

The motive of the man, Matthews stated, was a mystery, as there apparently has been no attempt to extort money.

MURDER SUSPECT CLEARS FIRST WARD POLITICIAN IN THEFT

ZECK 'FRAMED,' PRISONER ADMITS

Cleveland Man Says He Lied to 'Cover' Fund Shortage

A killing suspect's confession of perjury today exonerated Benny (Giggsy) Zeck, 25, small time politician in the First Ward, months after he was whisked out of court here and sentenced in Cleveland to a long term for robbery.

A man held as a suspect in the murder of Mrs. Ruth Gilmore Steese, Cleveland social worker, confessed, according to Cleveland detectives, that he "framed" Zeck in identifying him as a robber.

The confessed perjurer's testimony was solely responsible for Zeck's plight. It carried more weight with the jury than did the alibi testimony of Nathan Averbach, Pittsburgh precinct detective, who said he was talking to Zeck at about the time the robbery was alleged to have occurred in Cleveland last July 22.

10 TO 20 YEARS

Peter Treadway, 39, Cleveland gasoline station attendant, was Zeck's accuser. He identified Zeck as one of two men who beat and robbed him of $300. The jury sentenced the Pittsburgher to 10 to 20 years in the state penitentiary last August. Since then, he has been in the county jail at Cleveland awaiting action on an appeal.

Detective Sergt. Bernard Wolf, of Cleveland, said today Treadway had served time in Eastern Pennsylvania Penitentiary on a murder charge. Sergt. Wolf said the man admitted, while he was being grilled, that he "framed" Zeck. The sergeant said the man confessed he "faked" the robbery story to cover up shortages in his accounts at the gasoline station where he was employed.

PURSUE MURDER CLUE

The Cleveland detectives, meanwhile, said they expected solution of the murder of Mrs. Steese soon. She was found slain in her automobile December 30, 1932.

At the time of his arrest, Zeck was exonerated in connection with the Steese killing.

Zeck was hustled out of court here to answer the robbery charge in Cleveland before his counsel had time to appeal the extradition move instituted by Cleveland authorities. Detective Averbach went to Cleveland to testify unavailing in his fellow First Ward resident's behalf.

LINDY TUNES UP PLANE FOR HOP TO U. S.

Finds Wing Damaged; Anne Goes Sightseeing

NATAL, Brazil, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today tuned up the motor of the monoplane in which he and Mrs. Lindbergh flew from Africa yesterday and it was believed he was preparing to start a return flight to the United States by way of Para (Belem) tomorrow.

City authorities said they believed the next Lindbergh flight would be along the northeast coast of Brazil.

Anne Anxious to Get Home to See Baby

NATAL, Brazil, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—The crowd lining the banks here when Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh landed here yesterday was aware Mrs. Lindbergh was the first woman to cross the South Atlantic in an airplane, but only the better-informed knew that she was the first woman to cross any ocean in an open cockpit.

Mrs. Lindbergh expressed a desire to return home as soon as possible, that she might see her infant son, Jon.

She has been away from him for six months on the present tour, and she is anxious to see how her baby has grown.

McNair Daughter in Hospital

MISS BETTY M'NAIR (RIGHT), 10, AND HER SISTER HELEN . . . SHE SURPRISED HER FOLKS

PLAYBOY SLIPS, GOES BACK TO HOSPITAL

Plan to Gargle Only Fails; Trust Case Arguments Delayed

Harrison R. McCready — or maybe it was the liquor that he only meant to gargle—slipped last night and today the Fox Chapel playboy was back in St. Francis Hospital suffering from what in the old days the boys in the back room called a hangover.

As they put him to bed at 4 a. m., after he'd slipped away from a hilarious party in a downtown night club, he mumbled this plaint:

BLAMES COURT STRAIN

The friend who took him to the hospital in a taxicab sadly shook his head and murmured:

"The strain of three weeks in court was too much. He wanted to be a taster but it gagged him."

Only yesterday the youth who dissipated a $500,000 fortune in three years promised Judge Frank P. Patterson, in Common Pleas Court, to ride the water wagon, at least until a decision in his suit to break the $150,000 trust he established in 1930 for his first wife and child is handed down.

McCready was the last witness and was placed on the stand by Judge Patterson.

ARGUMENTS POSTPONED

Arguments of Charles J. Margiotti, counsel for McCready, and Oliver K. Eaton, attorney for the first wife, were postponed until January when court stenographers said it would take a month to transcribe the testimony.

McCready, who, during the trial delivered three impromptu speeches favoring prohibition and announcing his plans to write two books, added to his prognostications yesterday some advice to William N. McNair, Pittsburgh's Mayor-elect. He said:

"I think it would be a good thing if McNair would put new elevators in—these I have discovered are too slow.

SPEED IS HOBBY

"Speed is my hobby and efficiency always has been one of my special studies—I think that you lose too much time riding in these crates."

McCready, dapperly dressed in a light suit, and sober, appeared composed on the stand. He drew the ire of the bench once when he failed to answer the questions directly.

Oliver K. Eaton, attorney for Mrs. Welfer, then rested his case to await the argument.

BLOOD STAINS SPUR PROBE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The investigation of the murder of Mrs. Marian Constanzo shifted anew to Bradford, Pa., today with the announcement here that stains in an automobile which McKean County, Pa., authorities thought might have been used in the murder were made by human blood.

District Attorney Walcer C. Newcomb said here the automobile belonged to Archie Mure, roadhouse proprietor and friend of Pasquale Costanzo, husband of the slain woman, in jail here without charge while the investigation is pressed. Constanzo was in Bradford when the body of his wife, who had been strangled, was found Thanksgiving Day in an isolated ravine.

Costanzo's car also was blood-stained.

MONTE CARLO'S MYSTERY ENDS

MONTE CARLO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Frederick Elkington, an Englishman, came from Nice last night and identified the body of his wife, whose death created a two-day mystery here.

After jazz music, loudly played on a phonograph, had led to discovery of the body in a hotel room, the dead woman's 17-year-old son at first posed as her brother, gave the name of "Wilson" instead of Elkington, and asserted they were both Americans.

His excuse for not reporting the death, police said, was that he thought his "sister" asleep. An examining doctor said after performing an autosy that the woman was poisoned by an overdose of sleeping potion.

The husband appeared after police found the passport of Caroline Mary Elkington in a bag checked at a railroad station. It was issued by the British consul at Nice, and gave her age as 36.

Fifi and Hill will take a long honeymoon trip as soon as the actress completes a theatrical tour.

Nesbit Case May Reach U. S. Supreme Court

Widow's Attorney Hints Move in New Appeal

Posible appeal to the United States Supreme Court was seen today as Attorney H. Fred Mercer asked the Pennsylvania Supreme Court for a reargument on its decision in the case of 10 bank creditors against the $828,000 insurance trust established by the late Harrison Nesbit for his widow and three children.

The state court, by it decision, November 27, ordering all but $349,233 paid to the creditor banks, raised a constitutional question, according to Mercer. The court misinterpreted the fraudulent conveyance act in holding that it applies to insurance trusts, he declared, adding that the constitution provides that no state shall pass laws which impair existing contracts.

If the state court refuses a reargument, Mercer said, he will appeal to the United States Supreme Court on these grounds.

In its decision, the state court, in effect, upheld the legality of the insurance trust established by the late president of the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., but decided that Nesbit, when he added policies to it in 1929 and 1931, was insolvent.

Beneficiaries under the trust are Mrs. Edith Nesbit and the children, Scott K. and Betty Nesbit, and Mrs. Jerome K. Bowers, of Chicago.

LONG FOES FIRM FOR NEW VOTE

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Refused a primary for the selection of a successor to the late Representative Bolivar E. Kemp, the Citizens Election Committee for the Sixth Congressional District, today announced a firm stand upon their "citizens' popular election" set for December 27 by a district-wide voters' mass meeting held November 28 in Baton Rouge.

The citizens' committee, headed by Edward J. Gay, issued a statement last night terming Tuesday's election of Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, Sr., widow of the Representative, an attempt "by trickery and fraud to deprive the voters of their right of free choice in electing a Representative."

Mrs. Kemp was nominated by members of the Sixth District Democratic Executive Committee, favorable to Senator Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen's administration and went into the election as the "unopposed nominee" without the holding of a primary.

M'NAIR HOME, DAUGHTER ILL

Mayor-elect William N. McNair was home today, his daughter, Betty, was in a hospital, and the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton replied to his criticism that North Side ministers were evading their duty in refusing to recommend a city public safety director.

Betty, 8, was taken to Homeopathic Hospital within two hours after her parents returned from a vacation trip last night. Her appendix was removed, and she was recovering today.

Dr. Shelton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, hastened to assure that he had no criticism for the Mayor-elect, and anent the refusal of the ministers to name a choice for public safety director, he said:

"All we were interested in was the type of man to be named. We weren't interested in the individual."

Dr. Shelton was one of a group of ministers who complained to the Mayor-elect about vice conditions on the North Side. They were, for the most part, the same group that protested to Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., and Mayor John S. Herron.

Yesterday, returning from a vacation in Miami, McNair stopped long enough at Gettysburg to make a speech in which h. said of the ministers:

"They said 'no,' they didn't want to take that responsibility. But I think they should."

WYNEKOOP CASE DISPUTE LOOMS

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Medical aspects of the strange murder of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, slain on an operating table, will form a vital phase of the forthcoming trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, Coroner Frank Walsh said today.

Prosecutors announced that a re-examination of the murdered girl's body confirmed the autopsy report of Dr. Thomas Dwyer, former Coroner's physician, that Rheta was killed by the bullet fired into her nude back.

Dr. Wynekoop, mother-in-law of the slain Rheta, in a signed statement, had declared that the girl died of an accidental overdose of chloroform before the bullet was fired.

Physicians who conducted the new autopsy said:

"We are of the opinion that she was not dead from chloroform when the bullet penetrated."

Dr. Dwyer was suddenly dismissed from the Coroner's staff after making the original autopsy.

Attorneys for the 62-year-old physician said they planned to call both Coroner Walsh and Dr. Dwyer as defense witnesses when the trial gets under way next month.

There was wide speculation in regard to a secret conference between President Ramon Grau San Martin and United States Ambassador Sumner Welles last night.

Today, however, as the city observed memorial day, neither Grau nor Welles would comment.

Duce Sends Priest Here To Fight Birth Control

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Mussolini and the Roman Catholic Church today took official recognition of reported birth control practices of Italian-American women and alleged gangster activities of their sons, by sending the Rev. Father Lorenzo M. Spirali as a missionary to them.

The priest, who is treasurer of the Order of St. Augustine, a missionary and preaching order, arrived on the Italian liner Rex and left immediately for Philadelphia to begin a series of lectures and instructions.

He said:

"We want to talk to the younger Italians in America and imbue them with the spirit of the new Italy and the teachings of their church.

"We have heard of birth control practices and the claim that many of your gangsters in America are Italians. It has been a cause of much worry and concern not only to the church, but to Mussolini.

"In Italy the church and the state are as one in supporting marriage and large families and we hope to bring Italian-Americans back to these beliefs."

Robber Suspect Faces Jury of 12 Women

A jury of 12 women is hearing the trial of Maurice Kaminsky, 35, of 1125 Locust street, McKeesport, before Judge James H. Gray in Criminal Court, on an indictment charging robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Urban, of Versailles, of $9,700 in cash and $4,000 in jewelry on June 14, 1932.

Kaminsky, granted a new trial after his conviction on the same charge last April, is alleged to have gained access to the Urban home with an unidentified companion on the pretext that he was selling furniture polish.

Mrs. Urban was bound and gagged by the robbers, who forced her to open a safe containing the money and to hand them the jewels from an Indian head hanging on the wall. Urban was ill in bed when the robbery took place.

In his previous trial Kaminsky based his defense on an alibi.

Urban had withdrawn the money, representing his life savings, because of his fear of bank failures. Both he and his wife are past 60 years of age.

VOTES BANDITS MISSED BOOST HEINZ TOTAL

The ballots that "hijackers" didn't get when they raided a polling place in the Eighth District of the Seventeenth Ward election night were accepted as valid by the recount judges today.

By the decision, John Heinz, Democratic candidate for Sheriff, gained 137 votes on his Republican opponent, Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, but still trails Gollmar by about 200 votes.

B. Robert Averbach, Republican counsel, announced the election in the district would be contested. Attorney C. A. Jones, counsel for the Democrats, said they likewise might bring a contest because Return Judges Ambrose B. Reid and W. Heber Dithrich did not accept the complete return, including that for the "hijacked" ballots, as given by election board members in testimony at the hearing.

Meanwhile, petitions for contests in 25 districts had been filed. Democrats asked the entire sheriff vote in 29 districts be thrown out, alleging fraud and corruption. Republicans sought to have the votes in four districts invalidated.

HEARINGS SET DEC. 20

After petitions were presented in Quarter Sessions Court, Presiding Judge Sylvester J. Snee fixed December 20 for hearings, but observed all could not be heard for many weeks. He said:

"It looks as though the court will have to assign two Allegheny County judges to hear nothing but these cases, each of which may take a week, and hire a lot of outside judges to come here and run our regular court business for us."

It is said the cost of the proceedings in court costs alone, will be enormous. Judge Snee did not set bonds to be required, but he is expected to ask at least $500 each. This will mean total bonds of $12,500. It is expected 100 or more voters will be subpenaed in each case.

ATTACKED DISTRICTS LISTED

The districts the Democrats attacked are:

Second of the Third Ward, Rankin.

First, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth and Ninth of the Third Ward, Pittsburgh.

First of the First Ward, Homestead.

First, Second and Third of the Second Ward, Homestead.

First of the Third Ward, Homestead.

First and Second of the Fourth Ward, Homestead.

First and Second of the Fifth Ward, Homestead.

Sixteenth of the Fifth Ward, Pittsburgh.

First of West Homestead.

Eighth of the Seventeenth Ward, Pittsburgh.

First of the Second District, Harrison Township.

The recount board was scheduled to adjourn today. It will have recounted 84 districts.

DISPUTE BLOCKS INAUGURATIONS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Finding that ballots from 20 precincts were tampered with between the time of the official count and a recount of votes cast in the November 7 election, the Washington County Court today set January 6 as date for hearing protests involving five county and municipal offices.

The state has ordered a similar hearing for next Monday involving election of the Common Pleas Court judge.

The ruling means the sheriff, one member of the poor board, the Second Ward alderman in Washington and a councilman and tax collector in Canonsburg will not be able to assume office January 1.

Edwin W. Patton, Democrat, elected in the official count and defeated in the recount returns by Fred W. Brady for sheriff, headed the complainants. The two are friends and neighbors in Charleroi.

Benedum Chief 'Angel' For Democrats Here

Donated $3,000 to Campaign While Loaning $20,000

More than half of the Democratic campaign expenses in the general election here came from M. L. Benedum, but mostly in loans, a statement by the Democratic County Committee revealed today.

Benedum, according to the committee's list of receipts and disbursements, filed with Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, gave $3,000 outright, and loaned $20,000.

TOTAL DISBURSEMENTS

Total disbursements were $44,285, nearly $1,000 more than expenditures listed by the Republican committee. Democratic receipts were $45,805. Debts, including Benedum's loans, totaled $25,099.

Some $22,000 was paid for watchers.

Joseph F. Guffey was the largest outright contributor, giving $7,500. David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, and James F. Hillman gave $1,000 each.

Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar filed a list of personal expenses of $637.

The four Democratic Council members-elect each listed contributions of $750 from Benedum, Thomas J. Gallagher listed expenses of $180 additional; Walter R. Demmler, $219 additional; John M. Huston, $518 additional and John J. Kane, $52 additional.

OLIVER EXPENSES

Three expense accounts were filed by George S. Oliver, defeated Republican candidate for Council. His personal account showed $200, of which $158 was contributed. Thurston Wright filed a schedule of $400 spent in his behalf, of which $116 was contributed, and Frank L. Swaney filed a schedule of $120 spent in behalf of Oliver and Councilman W. Y. English, also defeated, of which $100 was contributed.

Councilman English's personal expenses totaled $615.

Judge Ralph H. Smith, Republican, re-elected to the Court of Common Pleas, filed a schedule showing he spent $85 and received $174 in contributions.

The Democratic party of McKeesport filed a report showing $459 expenditures and contributions of $259, leaving a $200 deficit. McKeesport Republicans listed $748 received from State Senator William D. Mansfield and expenditures of the same amount.

LOTTERY BANDIT SUSPECT HELD

Judge Samuel H. Gardner today ordered Morris Markovitz, alias Joseph Markowitz, of Overhill street, turned over to the police of Clarksburg, W. Va., after the prisoner had been identified, according to authorities, as one of three bandits who held up an alleged numbers lottery place at 318½ West Pike street, Clarksburg.

Markovitz denied having been in Clarksburg last July 14, date of the holdup, and his counsel, Attorney O. Hicks Friedman, announced he would appeal the decision. Extradition papers had been signed by Gov. Pinchot.

Markowitz admitted he was at liberty on bail from Franklin, Pa., on a charge of entering a building.

WEIRTON VOTE PLAN IGNORED BY NRA

By JOHN COWAN
Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Ignoring the Weirton Steel Company's set-up for an employes' election December 11, the National Labor Board called a meeting today at Washington of representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and company representatives to arrange for an election of representatives for collective bargaining, as provided by the strike agreement.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the Labor Board, authorized the statement that the announcement of the Weirton Steel Company for an election on December 11 was not agreed upon by the board.

REPORT DUE

At the meeting today a report will be received from James F. Dewey, special representative of the Labor Board, who was detailed to investigate the situation at Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O.

Thirteen thousand workmen are involved in the question to be determined today when it is expected that plans will be completed for an election under supervision of the Labor Board.

Workers' Representative Explains Complaint

Before leaving for Washington last night, William J. Long, chairman of Weir-Cove lodge, Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, and Edward W. Miller, international vice president of the organization, explained their complant to the Labor Board against the Weirton Steel Company.

Notices have been posted at plants of the company in Weirton, W. Va., Steubenville, O., and Clarksburg, W. Va., of nominations to be held December 11, to be followed by elections, December 15.

Notices at the Weirton plant are signed by J. Larkin, chairman, and J. Young, secretary of the rules committee of employes' representatives, "in accordance with the National Industrial Act."

CHARGES BREACH

Such notices are contrary to the agreement reached at the time of the recent strike settlement, Long asserts. At that time it was made plain that election of employes' representatives to conduct negotiations with the company on all questions was to be made solely with the sanction and supervision of the Labor Board.

No date had been set by the Labor Board for an election and no one had been sent to prepare ballots or make other arrangements, according to Long. Instead, the company left all arrangements to its own "company union," which seeks to prevent the Amalgamated from obtaining control.

DEWEY ASSIGNED

J. F. Dewey originally had been assigned to supervise the election at the time of strike settlement, the former strike leader declared, but Dewey had not been advised of the impending election by the company.

Mass meetings of employes at Weirton were to be held tonight, tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon. Gen. Jacob Coxey, leader of the jobless march to Washington a generation ago, was to address the Saturday meeting and to address workers at Steubenville Saturday night.

PACKING FIRM RAISES WAGES

As a result of negotiations between employe representatives and the plant conference board, unskilled male workers of the Pittsburgh Provision and Packing Company have been given a wage increase of four cents an hour, J. J. McAleese, president, announced today. A corresponding adjustment of pay to other male workers will be made, he stated. Rates for women workers were increased August 1, he said.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Higher wages today brought cheer to thousands of male employes of the packing industry.

Topping the list of companies that announced increases of approximately 10 per cent were three big Chicago concerns—Armour & Co., Swft & Co. and Wilson & Co. About 18,000 men were affected.

Engineers Will Hear Dr. Kent R. Van Horn

Dr. Kent R. Van Horn, research metallurgist of the Aluminum Company of America, will address a joint meeting of the Pittsburgh section, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and the electrical section, Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, Tuesday night, on "X-Rays in Industry."

President's night will be January 9, with Prof. J. B. Whitehead, president and dean of the school of engineering at Johns Hopkins University, and Attorney Raymond D. Evans as guest speakers.

Smelting Strike Called by Union

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Union leaders have called a strike of 350 smelting employes at the Langeloth plant of the American Zinc and Chemical Company.

Union recognition, "check off" of union dues and a wage increase are demanded by the strikers, who say they are working about 18 days a month and getting 34 cents an hour.

Start New Night Airplane Service

The Pennsylvania Airlines early today inaugurated a new night passenger service out of Pittsburgh to Cleveland and Washington. The first ship dropped down on the county airport from Washington at 11:55 p. m. last night, and took off for Cleveland at 12:25 a. m. The Cleveland ship to Washington arrived here at 2:30 a. m.

FORD BOOSTS PRICES

The Ford Motor Co. today announced new prices and a step-up in power for the new Ford cars.

F. O. B., lists announced concurrently with a preview of the 1934 models show an advance of $5 to $35 on passenger cars with the new range running from $525 to $610, and reductions of $10 to $35 in commercial car prices. Price increases were necessary, the company said, because of higher commodity costs.

Power with an aluminum head has been stepped up from 84 to 91 horsepower, mainly through double-throated carburetor and dual manifolding. The appearance is only slightly changed. Body dimensions and wheel base remain the same.

Eight hundred Ford dealers from Western Pennsylvania and parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland gathered at the Schenley Hotel to listen to a radio address from the Ford company in Detroit and a preview of the new cars.

There are 11 body types in the new V8. There are refinements in the design of the radiator and hood and more luxurious interior appointments, officials said.

The new cars will be on public display Saturday.

FAUNCE, MOTOR LEADER, DIES

William Vernon Faunce, 64, president of the Faunce Motor Company of Pittsburgh, at one time one of the largest distributors of General Motors products in the United States, died at Palm Beach, Fla., last night of a heart attack, according to word received here.

Mr. Faunce

Mr. Faunce was stricken shortly after dining at the home of a friend.

Mr. Faunce had been engaged in the automobile business 25 years, starting his career in Youngstown, O., as a Ford distributor. At one time he had six distributing houses located in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago, Memphis and Youngstown.

He was head of the W. V. Faunce Corporation, the W. V. Faunce Real Estate Improvement Company of Chicago, and was actively interested in a number of other companies. He was a member of Masonic bodies.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Belle Faunce; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Day, of Pittseburgh; a son, W. K. Faunce, of Miami, and a sister, Mrs. Eva Gillett, of Townville, Pa.

FIANCEE SLAIN, YOUTH HELD

International News Service.

DETROIT, Dec. 7.—A jealous youth was held for questioning today after his pretty 20-year-old blonde fiancee was found beaten and stabbed to death and hanged from a doorknob.

The victim was Jennie Zablocki, 20, who was employed as a governess for the two children of Walter Urkowski. Her battered body was found late yesterday hanging from a doorknob in the Urkowski home. Police immediately arrested Elton Cebelak, 23, to whom Jennie was to have been married February 14. Detectives learned the couple quarreled recently and the girl had returned Cebelak's engagement ring.

GIRD FOR WAR AGAINST DRUG SMUGGLERS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — One of the toughest gangs of smugglers that has infested the American coasts in many years was expected today by well informed officials to be a development of conditions now existing.

Information was received in official quarters that the "respectable" smugglers, who have operated since the enactment of the national prohibition act, had retired and no longer would do business with the rum runners.

The so-called "better" smugglers who brought millions of gallons of liquor into the United States in the heyday of rum row dealt exclusively in liquors, banning the smuggling of aliens and narcotics.

Reports showed that the new class of smugglers are dealing extensively in narcotics and, to a smaller degree, aliens. Government agents familiar with their operations say that the narcotics are unloaded and shipped to the shore first and usually are in sufficient quantities to more than meet the expenses of the trip.

Whatever rum may be landed constitutes net profit. Smuggling of narcotics is a much simpler proposition than the more bulky liquor.

Whereas a few years ago many of the smugglers were Americans operating vessels under foreign registry, most of the domestic rum runners already have retired from the business. The new smugglers were described as a low class of foreign criminals.

Rum patrols will be maintained by the Coast Guard and Customs Service in spite of the repeal of prohibition. While forces are not adequate to take care of a sustained drive on smugglers, it was believed public sentiment against this criminal activity would become more pronounced with prohibition repeal both in this country and abroad where the governments desire to participate in the profitable legitimate business.

Rum running will continue as an annoying activity but it will be in no way as extensive as in the last 14 years, high treasury officials observe. Smuggling was not considered a severe problem before the prohibition law was enacted.

Since the new regime of smugglers has taken over the business officials said there had been a number of killings. They anticipated a "nasty" situation in operations in the future.

LOOKS YEARS YOUNGER

Gets rid of dull, achy feeling—loses perpetual grouch—and so easily too

He couldn't understand why he woke up half-dead nearly every day. Why he had a dull headache . . . no pep . . . no appetite. Knew he was slipping but couldn't imagine what was wrong. Worried and worried until his pal finally told him what to do. Now he looks and feels years younger.

Millions of men and women are in that same lamentable plight today. Ask them what's wrong with them, and not one in ten can guess the cause.

It's Asthenia

(Run-down condition, usually caused by Constipation)

That's the insidious thing about Asthenia—it drags you down, slows your mind, robs you of your joys and pleasures, yet you adjust—realize you're slipping. Would you like for once to brush the cobwebs from your eyes—be ready and eager for your task—experience all the glories of glorious old world? Then rid yourself of Asthenia—and stay rid of it.

The NEW TASTELESS WAY TO TAKE PLUTO

You think that you're not the least bit clogged—you say that you're "regular" as can be—but physicians will tell you that it is only too easy to deceive yourself in this respect and stay doped with poisons. Thus millions of micro-organisms accumulate in the intestinal tract and produce that dull, achy, pepless feeling known as Asthenia.

Decide right now to turn the tables on Old Man Gloom. Take Pluto Water every morning for ten mornings, and see a new world in ten days!

Don't miss a day. Take it before breakfast as recommended—one-fifth glass Pluto Water in four-fifths glass hot water—for ten straight days. Cleanse your system of every vestige of health-destroying impurities. Then you will understand why for nearly 90 years, from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this ten-day Pluto Water treatment. And why physicians everywhere recommend it as a mild and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit-forming.

Taken as directed—one-fifth glass

in four-fifths glass of hot water

Two sizes—20c and 45c—at all drug counters, on trains, steamships, and at hotels. Bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana.

HOW TO SERVE FINE CLARETS FROM FRANCE

By A. ALBERT

Maitre D'Hotel, Hotel William Penn

(This is the second of a series that will specify the proper wine to serve on every occasion; deal with question of temperature, etc.; and list the proper type serving glasses. Mr. Albert, recognized as a wine authority, was born in Switzerland and reared in the wine areas of Europe. He comes of a family of hotel owners and wine merchants. Beginning his catering career at 12 aboard famous liners as wine boy, he was graduated through famous Paris cafes, London's Piccadilly Hotel, New York's old Waldorf Hotel and exclusive clubs in this country, before coming here five years ago.)

Continuing an outline of French wines, consider the qualities of Bordeaux wines. These are correctly referred to as "clarets" when grown in the Medoc district; "Graves" for wines of the gravel soil in the Graves district; "Sauternes" when speaking of wines produced in the Sauterne-Barsac districts; and the term "Cotes" is given to lighter wines from districts of St. Emilion and Pomerol.

The French government guards their authenticity by supervising the annual grape output to prevent excess wine production from the quantity of grapes grown. The wines are not bottled or shipped from these districts unless indorsed by the government as to authenticity and correct classification.

First quality—Chateau La Fite, annual output 180 tons; Chateau Latour, 100 tons; and Chateau Margaux, 150 tons.

Second—Includes 16 famous Chateau bottled quality. I will mention only the famous Mouton Rothschild, 150 tons.

Third—Includes 14 classified growths, but I mention only the Lagrange, 200 tons.

Fourth—11 classifications, including the St. Pierre Sevaistre, better known by Americans as St. Julien, which heads the list at 60 tons. The St. Julien name is derived from the St. Julien community.

Fifth—Of 17 registered growths the famous Pontet Canet, with 200 ton output, is the most popular quantity, especially with Americans.

Claret is a natural wine intended to mature in bottles. It should be stored in a room at the temperature of about 55 degrees. will spoil after being left open for more than four hours.

Claret is kept in wood at least four years before being bottled and is permitted to remain undisturbed on its side more than a year before it is ready for the table.

A choice claret continues to mature for 40 or 50 years in bottles. It will lighten in color and add to its deposit with great age.

Claret should be served at the temperature of the room (60 to 65 degrees). This wine should be brought from a cellar temperature of 55 degrees and permitted to rest at an angle position in a wine-cradle or wine basket, for at least an hour or two in order to take the temperature of the room. Thus its fine qualities will appear, its characteristic aroma soon will be discernable to any connoisseur.

Claret should be served with the entree of a meat dinner. Plain stemmed glasses of five or six ounces should be used, being only two-thirds filled.

If at a formal dinner where two clarets can be served, the first should be of the younger vintage. The second would be served with the meat course. It should be poured at the table, the cord to be removed without disturbing the bottle in its cradle or basket so as not to stir the deposits. It should be poured slowly.

Sauternes, which I consider the best stilled white wines, will be discussed tomorrow.

Rum Return Recalls Famous Hosts Here

Popular Proprietors And Saloons Many In Old Days

Will repeal bring back the class of hosts Pittsburgh knew before prohibition.

With restaurants permitted to retail whisky, drink by drink, there is a good chance that before long there will be a new generation of Billy Hammels and Johnny Newells and Mike Maloneys and such.

These were gentlemen distinguished in their trade before prohibition—gentlemen as unlike the more recent breed of speakeasy proprietors as a finger of old Pennsylvania rye is unlike an ounce of poison hooch.

HAMMEL REIGN RECALLED

Billy Hammel had the saloon in the Jenkins Arcade. Six feet tall, he was almost as wide as he was long. A conservative estimate would put his weight at 300. He was born to the business, for his father before him had been a wine merchant.

Needless to say, he owned a bay window that was the envy of all serious beer drinkers.

But much of that bay window could be traced to the kitchen of Hammel's place, for the food was of the best. Indeed, his place was known first for its menu.

Billy himself was an easy going, generous German, whose first thought was to please the customers. As he moved along the bar getting one customer after another frequently he was invited to halt and have one.

DRANK WITH ALL

A beer, then a whisky, then perhaps a gin, then a bottle of wine—Billy took them all in his stride, and never once was he known to have been intoxicated.

If Billy was the biggest host, in matter of pounds, Albert Menjou was the best dressed. And his son, Adolph Menjou, of the movies, seems to have taken after him in this respect.

Menjou's saloon was in Fifth avenue, a few doors below Newell's. A serious person, he attended to every detail of his business. You didn't raise your voice in Menjou's.

Mike Maloney kept house in a saloon where now stands the City-County Building. Maloney's was known, too, for the food. And many of the customers were lawyers.

CLOSED AFTER DINNER

Over in Diamond street the Goettman brothers, John and George, presided. Fine German food there, but you couldn't drop in any hour of the night, for the Goettmans shut their doors tight after the dinner hour.

Down in Smithfield street Adam Hahn, a strapping figure of a man, catered to the beer trade, and especially to the beer drinkers who were also bowlers. Adam himself bowled to keep in trim and his cohorts of the tenpins usually followed him to his hostelry.

The White Dog Restaurant was in the Farmers Bank Building, and up in the Frick Building was the Union Restaurant, with a chef imported from Europe to satisfy the tastes of Mr. Frick himself and his gallery. At the Union even the silverware and linen were several degrees above the average saloon equipment.

FAMOUS OLD STORIES

They have since applied the story to probably every bar that ever existed, but one of the first locales for it was the Union—the story of the bum who flicked a dime onto the bar and demanded a whisky. The bartender condescended long enough to explain:

'We don't sell 10-cent whisky here."

The bum knocked the ashes from his borrowed cigar, twisted his face into a grimace, and replied:

"Well, if it's the best ya' can do gimme a shot o' that nickel stuff."

Then, of course, you recall the guy who, broke on a cold, rainy day, stumbled into the nearest saloon and asked if he couldn't put his umbrella up for a shot of Sam Thompson.

The kind-hearted bartender agreed, the visitor threw the shot down the hatch, hurried out into the open and put up his umbrella.

Well, it was funny 20 years ago.

BEER HAS 'KICK,' DRIVER FINDS

Take it from C. B. Achenson, 26, cab driver, the new 5 per cent beer is potent.

Arraigned before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today on a charge of drunkenness, Achenson explained he imbibed the 5 per cent beer last night. Magistrate Rothenberg, discharging him, asked:

"How is it?'

Achenson replied:

"Well, here I am. It certainly has the kick."

Of seven others arrested downtown on drunkenness charges, five were old offenders who said "mooney" was responsible for their condition. Each was fined $5 or 10 days in jail. Two said they became intoxicated on bonded liquor and were discharged.

U. S. MEN RAID ILLEGAL STILL

International News Service.

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 7.—Two men were held today in $10,000 bail each as a result of what was believed to be the first federal raid of a still since repeal.

The men were Edward Neiman, 23, of Allentown, and Anthony Manoro, 36, of Philadelphia. Three others escaped.

The raid was staged by agents of the new alcohol beverage unit, who came from New York. They seized a 250,000 gallon still, 1,000 gallons of alcohol, 150,000 gallons of mash in 10 vats, three automobiles, three boilers and an electric light plant.

Taken before United States Commissioner Wyn Armstrong here the men were charged with "possession of a non-registered still and possession of untaxed liquor" instead of the once-familiar "illegal manufacture and possession."

ERIE, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—City police seized a quantity of alcohol, liquor flavoring, cordials and two slot machines in a raid on an alleged speakeasy at 6 a. m. today.

Raymond Beckwith and his wife were named as proprietors.

COURTS TO PUSH RUM CASES

Philadelphia courts may nolle prosse cases against Snyder Act violators, but all those indicted in Allegheny County, even up to 5:30 p. m. Tuesday, will be placed on trial, Judge Sylvester J. Snee, presiding judge of the Criminal Court, declared today. He said:

"Although the prohibition law has ceased to exist, the prosecutions were brought in good faith and the county should not be charged with the costs of prosecution."

Judge Snee added that any of those indicted for Snyder Act violations who desired to plead guilty would be fined only costs. In Philadelphia the judges of the criminal courts ordered the prosecutions dropped and the costs placed on the county.

Pair Celebrates Repeal, One Dies

License Required For All Cars, Boats

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—Railroad and steamship companies must obtain individual licenses for each car or boat upon which liquor is to be sold, the Liquor Control Board ruled today.

The ruling resulted when the Pennsylvania Railroad asked for a "blanket" license for a specific number of cars, explaining such a license would permit interchange of cars.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE THE CHAMPION TRAP SHOOTER

SHOOTING FROM SCRATCH, 25 yards behind the traps, Walter Beaver pulled out of an exciting tie to win the 34th Grand American—the first time it has been won by a limit contestant! He has been a steady smoker of Camels for years, and says: "I like their taste and mildness...they never jangle my nerves."

HOW ARE YOUR NERVES? If you smoke a lot...inside...outdoors...wherever you are...join the swing to Camels. You'll like those costlier tobaccos in Camels. You'll find them milder, better tasting, and they never get on your nerves.

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

WALTER BEAVER, holder of the coveted Grand American Handicap, says:

"Winning a trap-shooting championship is partly a matter of luck, partly the result of practice and partly healthy nerves. I'm a steady smoker. People kid me about it at the tournaments. They say I never have a cigarette out of my mouth. During all these years I've been smoking Camels, not only because I like their taste and their mildness, but also because they never jangle my nerves."

It's no fun to feel that your nerves are ragged—and to wonder why. Check up on your eating...your sleep ...your cigarettes. Get a fresh slant on your smoking. Switch to Camels. Your nerves and your taste will tell you that Camels are a more likable cigarette—and that they don't upset your nerves.

The Liquor Control Board announced there will be no stores in Forest, Fulton, Pike and Union counties. All of the other 67 will have one or more.

WHISKY ARRIVES

The third day of repeal found others busy also. At a Pennsylvania Railroad siding in the Strip the first carload of whisky shipped into Pittsburgh from outside the state was unloaded. The stuff came from the Frankfort Distilling Company, of Louisville, Ky.

Out at Pitt 1,000 co-eds and male students were taking a test to determine whether they are capable of grading the examination papers of the hundreds of Pittsburghers who have applied for jobs in the liquor stores. These examinations will be held December 16. Almost 200,000 throughout the state already have applied for the 2,000 jobs to be filled.

The examinations will be given by Pittsburgh school teachers.

1,352 LICENSES

In Harrisburg the Liquor Control Board announced that so far 1,352 licenses have been issued—837 to restaurants, 332 to hotels, 181 to clubs and two to importers.

The Department of Labor and Industry warned that it is preparing to enforce the laws prohibiting employment of persons under 18 in the handling of liquors.

Rum Board Increases Phila. Stores to 19

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—A storm of protests from Philadelphia was met by the State Liquor Control Board today with the announcement that the number of state stores to be established in the Eastern metropolis has been boosted from 10 to 19.

This marked the first change in the tentative list of stores announced by the board and brings to 240 the total number which will be ready for operation on January 2 under present plans.

The change in the number of Philadelphia stores came today after the board conferred with its Philadelphia renting agent, Frank G. Binswanger, and learned that arrangements have progressed to an extent where it will be possible to have that number ready by New Years.

LIFT RUM SALE BAN ON HOTEL

A permanent injunction of the Federal District Court prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor in the Wolfendale Hotel, 207 Federal street, was modified yesterday by Judge R. M. Gibson, to allow sale of beer and liquor on the premises.

Elizabeth R. Wolfendale, owner of the property, was the first person within the jurisdiction of the court to take advantage of repeal of prohibition to obtain modification of injunctions against properties, which had been imposed under the Volstead act. Her petition was filed yesterday afternoon.

The decree against the hotel was issued March 20. The building was not padlocked, but the owner was under bond against permitting any violations of the liquor law on the premises.

Records of the prohibition enforcement headquarters and United States district attorney's office, revealed that 78 other premises in this district are under permanent injunctions against the sale of intoxicants.

KIDNAPED WIFE FOUND DAZED

International News Service.

MADISON, Ind., Dec. 7.—Mrs. Theresa Dorcy, 45, wife of Frank J. Dorcy, of Cincinnati, who was reported kidnaped two days ago in Cincinnati by three men, was thrown in a dazed condition from an automobile here today. She had been robbed of $250.

After being treated by a physician, Mrs. Dorcy told police here that three men whom she had never seen before struck her over the head in Cincinnati Tuesday, dragged her into an automobile, covered her head with a shawl. The men held her captive all day Tuesday in what she believed was a garage in Cincinnati, then they took her to a farm house and later brought her to Indiana. She was unable to give a very clear description of the places where she had been confined.

MERCY DENIED RACKETEERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Attorney General Cummings said today the Justice Department's general attitude toward prohibition law violators "of previously good character" would be extremely lenient but he promised vigorous prosecution of the habitual criminal type.

He estimated that of 2,219 federal criminal cases pending, 500 were prohibition cases and said that 3,764 federal prohibition offenders were in jail out of a total prison population of 16,557.

Cummings estimated that within the next year there may be as many as 10,000 cases of violations of liquor revenue laws. He said:

"With regard to the racketeering groups and persistent offenders — those criminally minded, with previous records—each case will depend on the circumstances. There will be no disposition to otherwise pursue decent citizens.

"Essential justice is the question. If we can't get a racketeer one way, we will get him another."

U. S. Army Posts Will Remain Dry

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(INS.)—Army posts will remain dry. Secretary of War Dern said today the same liquor restrictions at army posts before prohibition will remain in effect. These prohibited the sale of whisky and other intoxicating liquors at the posts.

With regard 3.2 beer, Dern said the War Department would continue to permit its sale at posts in wet states.

CHEAPER RUM PRICES AIM OF ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Determined to bring the prices for whiskies, wines and other newly-legalized potables into easier reach of slim pocketbooks, federal officials today contemplated increasing liquor importations to swell the domestic supply.

The administration also prepared to use as a club if necessary its authority over the prices charged by distillers, wholesalers, importers, rectifiers and blenders.

Although direct power over retail prices was lacking, the word emanating today from authoritative quarters was that, unless charges to consumers tumbled sharply after the present immediate period of expected confusion, the government would wield its authority drastically to bring about what was termed a better competitive condition.

'STRIKE URGED'

Indications of official displeasure over present high prices were numerous. Representative Cochran, Missouri Democrat, went so far as to urge a drinkers' strike unless quotations came down. Asserting holders of warehouse receipts were gouging the public, he declared:

"Seven dollars a quart for whisky, no matter how old, is outrageous."

In the matter of increasing imports to enlarge the domestic supply, authority already is out for bringing in a large quantity of Canadian bourbon and rye for blending and other purposes. Blanket licenses also have been issued to importers for immediate shipment into the country of 5,000,000 gallons of spirits and wines.

In addition, negotiations were pressed today with foreign nations in exchange for increased importation by them of American products.

DEAL WITH BRITAIN

Secretary Wallace disclosed the first specific negotiation yesterday in speaking of his corn-hog program. He said efforts were under way to allow England to increase its exports to here of Irish and Scotch whiskies in exchange for that country raising its import on meat and other farm products.

From the private liquor authorities, meanwhile, came assurance that prices would come down. Dr. James M. Doran, former commissioner of industrial alcohol, and now spokesman for the Association of Distilled Spirits Industry, said he felt sure prices would drop as distribution difficulties lessened.

Doran said that as soon as his staff was organized he would submit to the Federal Alcohol Control Administration a list of distillers prices. The FACA could reject these prices should they be considered too high.

SNAKES TO ZOO, OWNER TO JAIL

While a half dozen snakes were consigned to the zoo, Don Rex, 50, of 108 Boquet street, identified as their owner, today was headed for a 30-day stretch in jail on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

The snakes, a 50-gallon still and several gallons of alcohol were seized in a raid on Rex's home, police said at a hearing in Oakland Police Court.

The police were told the snakes were used for making snake-oil. W. H. Thompson, 50, held on a charge of visiting a disorderly house, was discharged. Rex went to jail in lieu of paying a $100 fine.

SET CATHEDRAL ROOM ASIDE FOR NEVIN

Those priceless original manuscripts recording many of Ethelbert Nevin's beautiful songs, including "Mighty Lak a Rose," and the rhythmic "Narcissus," will have a permanent home in the Cathedral of Learning.

Last night, at a dinner in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association in honor of Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin, widow of the famed composer, Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, made the first public announcement of an Ethelbert Nevin Memorial Room planned for the Cathedral.

FIRST OF SERIES

There is a plan crystallizing now, he said, to make the Nevin room the first of a series of memorial halls honoring outstanding Pittsburgh men and women who have contributed to the cultural life of the city.

The university's collection of 20 Nevin original manuscripts, the recent gift of Frederic Schaefer, president of the Schaefer Equipment Company, to Pitt, was on display during the dinner. Together with the manuscript of "Mighty Lak a Rose," which is a gift to the university by Mrs. Nevin, the room will house this permanent collection.

In addition, the room will contain the grand piano on which Nevin played and a prized collection of letters, diaries, family photographs, and other personal mementoes of the composer, all contributions by Mrs. Nevin. In making her gifts, Mrs. Nevin recalled that Ethelbert Nevin was at one time a student at the university, then the Western University of Pennsylvania.

DINNER GUEST LIST

The dinner list last night included several guests who once moved in the intimate circle of the Nevin home, "Vineacre," in Sewickley. John C. Slack, of Sewickley; his daughter, Miss Dorothy Slack, a friend of Mr. Nevin's daughter, and Charles Scovel, who was a classmate of Ethelbert Nevin at the university in 1878, and who organized its first alumni association.

Kill that COLD!

Don't Merely Coddle It with Half-Way Measures!

A cold is nothing to trifle with! It may end seriously. A cold, being an internal infection, calls for an internal treatment. It also calls for a COLD remedy and not something good for a number of other things as well.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is direct and internal—and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is taking chances with a cold. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is sold by all druggists, 30c and 50c. Accept no substitute.

FACTS you should Know about NATURAL GAS . . . and Your Gas Company

BACK of the Gas Meter Reader who visits your home once each month, is an organization of thousands of men and women—friends, neighbors and acquaintances of yours, who, like you, take part in the normal social and civic life of the communities in which they live.

This huge organization—your Gas Company—operates hundreds of gas wells and compressor stations, and thousands of miles of transmission lines, so that you, in your own home, may have gas whenever you want it and as much as you want, at the simple turn of a valve.

Continuous, uninterrupted Gas Service is accepted by everyone as a matter of course, with no realization of the tremendous investment in property, equipment, and personnel that is required to insure that kind of service. Gas wells, gathering lines, gas cleaners, compressor stations and transmission lines—geologists, engineers, drillers, riggers, line walkers and countless other workers—all these are a necessary part of Gas Service—seldom thought about, it is true, but nevertheless vitally important.

Here we have it in abundant supply—this perfect fuel! Clean, convenient and easy to use, it has more heating value per pound than any other fuel. And gas rates here, on the basis of actual heat units, are only one-half to one-fourth the rates in many other large cities. No wonder Pittsburgh leads the whole country in gas appliances per home! No wonder gas heat is so popular here! No wonder that each year sees new thousands turning to gas heat for the convenience, comfort and healthfulness it brings!

In industry, too, Natural Gas plays a most important part. Its abundant supply, together with its unusual efficiency and its low cost, has been of vital importance in retaining for the Pittsburgh district its undisputed leadership in steel, glass and ceramics.

CITY'S PAYROLL CHIEF CONCERN OF COUNCIL

What to do about the city payroll is the chief problem which City Council faces as it prepares the 1934 budget.

With the deficit mounting to a point where December payrolls are endangered, Council is called upon to consider next year's expenditures from the viewpoint of living within a reduced income.

There is every indication that economic necessity will force the elimination of a number of the city bureaus which are least vital to operations.

CHECK PAYROLL

That the payroll is going to be closely scanned is indicated in the activities of Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, who has been studying the budget as a representative of Mayor-elect William N. McNair.

Mrs. Smith has been holding conferences with city department heads regarding persons on the payroll, their duties and compensation. She has also been attending the budget sessions with M. C. Conick, auditor for Main & Co.

Mrs. Smith has sent a questionnaire to heads of all city departments asking their names and addresses, budget titles, annual salaries, age, years of service with the city, duties performed and their qualifications. She described it as "just a survey."

KERR OPTIMISTIC

Council has been so taken up with the need of getting cash to meet current obligations that it has had little time thus far to consider the budget. Thus far only $16,080 has been cut from the Mayor's budget.

As to the present need for cash, Controller James P. Kerr believes that the city will be able to meet its December payroll from tax money, but that there will have to be some considerable carry-overs of other bills.

GRACE DARMOND WINS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—R. P. Jennings, wealthy Beverly Hills and Mexico, D. F., theater owner and mine operator, was divorced yesterday by Miss Grace Darmond, former film actress, who charged that he cursed and criticized her in the presence of guests and servants.

The suit was uncontested. Irvin Willat, film director and former husband of Billie Dove, was called as a corroborative witness.

The former actress charged Jennings "inflicted grievous physical and mental sufferings.' She also charged he would assume a "domineering attitude toward her" and was "sullen and morose."

JUNIOR PATROL

Looks like Old Man Winter is with us again, fellows!

And it looks, too, as though the mean old fellow was going to make up for lost time now in handing us some chilly breezes. That pleasant week or so we had was too nice to last in December.

That's why it is so especially kind of that man who has been helping Junior, Spike and Butch to build their clubhouse. The sooner they get the roof on and the window in, the better off they will be. They are going to need a stove, too, to keep warm this cold winter. Cold weather isn't all bad though. It makes everybody feel full of energy and pep for one thing.

We have a short note from a new captain today—Leonard Junior Rogowski, of Box 51, 384 Penn avenue, Weirton, W. Va. He has sent in 16 pledges, and has been elected captain according to rule. Good luck with your patrol, Leonard, and let us hear from you again after you have had a meeting or two. Do you have any good plans for helping others yet?

Here's a letter that makes us feel good all over from Eugene Wurm, of 732 Stanton avenue, Millvale, Pa. He says:

"I am a proud captain now. My boys have received their membership cards and emblems and are proud of them. They have promised to follow the rules and do all they can to help others. I enclose five more application blanks for boys who wish to be in my patrol. That gives me 10 members and I have been elected a captain. Please send me my armband as soon as possible. We are getting along fine. We had our first meeting Monday at my house and have decided that the dues will be 2 cents a week. We are planning a very prosperous future for our club."

That's certainly swell, Eugene. Let us know more about your club as soon as you can. You bet we'll send you your armband.

And Leonard Pariser, of 99 Murray avenue, Uniontown, Pa., writes:

"I belong to the Junior Patrol, but I am not an active member. If I can be of any assistance to you I will gladly do what I can. I can sing nicely and have no stage fright. As we have no members of the Junior Patrol in this neighborhood, we cannot start a patrol. I am your pal."

Oh, sure, you can get enough members for a patrol, Leonard. Don't you have 10 friends in your neighborhood? We would like to see you start a patrol, and thanks a lot for your offer of help.

BOY, 13, BLOCKS TRAIN WRECK

OREGON CITY, Ore., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—On his way to the routine of the classroom, Hubert Bigej, 13, walked smack into unexpected adventure and probably saved a passenger train from a tragic plunge into the Willamette River.

Hubert, who lives six miles south of here, waited till the Southern Pacific's No. 16 northbound passenger train rumbled past yesterday then followed in its wake on the tracks that curve along the bank of the Willamette toward Oregon City.

Suddenly there was a crash and a roar. Hubert quickened his pace. Ahead of him he saw the roadbed slipping and saw a great part of it slide with a splash into the river.

He knew the southbound passenger train was due soon. He ran at top speed back to New Era station, pantingly told William Dustin, the operator, there, of the slide. A telephone call to Portland stopped the train at Oregon City.

Trapped on Bridge Youth Leaps to His Death

MARTINS FERRY, O., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—A boy who leaped from a trestle after he and three others were trapped by an approaching trolley car was fatally injured yesterday.

Harrison Deitch, 15, a high school cheer leader, jumped 30 feet to the railroad tracks below, suffering a fracture at the base of the skull.

The other three waved frantically and the motorman stopped the car in time to avoid hitting them.

Program Head Expresses Opinions

By AIRCASTER

Today, the official prognosticator of CBS takes a whack at playing oracle. He is Mr. Julius Seebach, the CBS program director.

Julius believes we ought to keep this fact in mind:

Radio is rapidly nearing a degree of maturity which precludes the possibility of any one type of entertainment becoming the vogue.

The stock ingredients of vaudeville, movies and variety shows are on the air to stay, he says. And he believes the crooner and comedian will remain with us.

More Symphony

"Symphonic music is now at an all-time high, and going higher," Seebach sees, "and educational and informative broadcasts will command more and more attention."

He agrees with me that 1934 will bring, more than anything else, improvements in dramatic technique.

And, finally, he predicts longer programs.

Jimmy Wallington steps out of his role as announcer and sings with Lonesome Johnny Marvin on a New York stage this week. He hopes there won't be any yolk to match the diction medal on his vest.

Kate Smith will return to CBS-WJAS in January for 30 minutes a week with Jack Miller's orchestra.

Myrt and Marriage

Myrtle Vail Damerel announces the engagement of her daughter, Donna—they are "Myrt and Marge"—to Gene Kretzinger, of the radio team of "Gene and Charlie."

"Marge" and Gene will be married during the Christmas holidays.

Answers

P. N. S., Geranium street—Yes, Eddie Cantor was scheduled on that NRA program, according to the broadcasting company's publicity. We've grown a little wary about the names they list on such shows, and usually say "are scheduled to appear," instead of "will."

Mad Emperor Recalled In Drama

"The Sword of Fate," this week's most interesting and informative radio drama, reveals a definite likeness between the Roman Emperor Caesar Tiberius and Abraham Lincoln—but only up to a certain point.

For years the lives of Caesar and Lincoln are parallel in humane and wise conduct and leadership. Then fate changes Tiberius into a monster, as if a Lincoln had suddenly gone mad.

Eustace Wyatt, internationally known for his stage role of Abraham Lincoln, portrays the dual characters.

The dramatization, a presentation of the American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, is heard today and tomorrow on the following stations:

Today: WFBG, Altoona, 3 p. m., and WKBN, Youngstown, O., 8:15 p. m.

Friday, WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15 p. m.; WAIU, Columbus, O., 7:15 p. m.; WADC, Akron, 7:45 p. m., and WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m.

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

For the past several days I have received many, so many, letters from globe trotters who need something. Some need a job, others want coal, still others would be thankful for a Christmas basket.

I am at a loss in knowing how to answer you who have written. Some letters have been turned over to the welfare agencies, others I have kept.

Every time I sit at the typewriter I see the names of people in want leap out at me from the letters. Words form pictures of widowed mothers with sick or crippled children, almost at their wits' end, yet still holding on.

I want you, you who are in distress, to know one thing at least. It seems selfish to mention it, but I haven't callously turned away from your difficulties. I am sick at heart sometimes with what seems to be the futility of saying:

"It won't be this way forever. Things will be bound to break for the better."

But after all what else is there to hope for? It's jobs that we need for people. Work, so that they themselves can live and in turn help someone else. I hate to think that anyone would call me a professional Pollyanna, but yet there ARE more jobs and if the President's plans work out successfully there will be still more. In the meantime it means still hanging on.

Those that have, can help; not only with money and necessities, but with what is just as important in many instances, CHEERFULNESS. We need that more than ever during holiday seasons when suffering is more poignant because being without at Christmas time permits a lot of pessimism.

Let's look about for ways to bring cheer. There's the Toy Mission, 100 Wood street. Send your toys, broken or otherwise, there. Some mother will take heart and smile because a child's face will light up once with pleasure.

Christmas seals purchased means money to make tuberculosis sufferers happier. The Salvation Army and other agencies that gave Christmas baskets to the needy can be further encouraged by your aid. There are lots of organizations that take clothing, blankets, used articles of household furniture, food, coal and the like. We can give happiness somewhere by utilizing them.

Lets make our Christmases happier by thinking and using all methods, means and agencies to spread CHEER.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

The Cocktail Hour
(Reprinted by Request)

Between the dark and the daylight,
When everyone feels pretty sour,
Comes a lull for a lively libation
That is known as the cocktail hour.

Then's when the orange trees blossom,
And lemons appear by the score;
The frigidaire's merry with music,
And cracker crumbs cover the floor.

The bacardi flows like Niagara;
The gin bottle gurgles its tune—
The grenadine's pink as a rosebud,
Rare as a day in June.

The ice has the shaker all frosted,
The glasses go clinkety-clink,
And when that first cocktail goes in you
You know that you've guzzled a drink.

A feeling of joy sneaks upon you;
Your black flag of trouble is furled.
In other words, baby, you're cockeyed,
And everything's right with the world.

Wallace Cox.

Lethal Ethel

It was at one of those Hollywood parties, and the usual bore was there. You know—the guy who calls everyone by his first name after being in his presence two minutes.

This particular clunk fastened himself on Ethel Barrymore. He kept Etheling her to temporary insanity. Knowing the explosive temper of the stage's First Lady—the other folks just sat back and waited for the detonation.

Finally, Eth reached the berling pernt—and giving the heel a thump on the back, which dislocated his adernerds, cried:

"Ethel Hell! Don't be so formal. Call me Cuddles!"

Clue

A group of us were babbling about this and that at the Vogue the other 2 a. m. The subject of the long missing Judge Crater came up again, and Lita Grey Chaplin, a bit of a clown, observed:

"Have they ever looked for that guy in Einstein's hair?"

"You mean," said George Jessel, "have they ever looked in Ben Bernie's pocketbook?"

Izzy Elinsonism

Bootleg liquor has finally opened our eyes to the failure of prohibition. Too bad the stuff had to blind so many first.

The Retort Dandy

They say that a cub reporter walked up to President Roosevelt and asked the First Citizen the secret of his amazing control and courage when things get on his nerves.

"What do you do, sir," said the cub, "when you get nervous?"

Giving him one of his famous smiles, F. D. R. replied:

"Why, I whistle."

"But," said the lad, "I have never heard you whistle."

To which the President replied:

The Better Similes

Recommended for the best similes dictionary: Bugs Baer: The Senate's determination to divorce crime from politics looks like an attempt to break up a happy couple . . . Andrew Pentland: Hollow as the mockery of making Christmas tree ornaments for the blind . . . Walter B. Pitkin: Personal as false teeth . . . Dorothy Parker: She looked as new as a peeled egg . . . Irvin Cobb: Tastes like a place where an indisposed carrot spent the night . . . Helen Rowland: Non-committal as a magazine rejection slip . . . Ted Cook: Out of place as a harp player in a Harlem jazz band . . . Difficult to pacify as a pacifist . . . Gene Fowler: He was as touchy as a bride's father.

Trapped

"We are in for a burning of animosities," says Harry Hansen, the book critic. "Only the other evening I listened on the radio while Walter Winchell told Rudy Vallee how much he loved him now."

Just as most of us suspected right along. Listening to the radio—instead of reading the books they review, huh?

Ouch!

One of the girls, with an air about her, was breezing along Broadway, and someone who recognized her said:

"There goes the girl who won the Atlantic City beauty pageant."

Oop!

At the Tavern the other midnight Robert Andrews and his squaw were playing backgammon. They were married about a year ago, these two, and there they were indifferent to the rest of us, only interested in each other.

"Ah, me," sighed this dep't, "how I admire you both—you're married almost a year and you still have fun with each other."

"Don't be silly," said Mrs. Andrews, as she threw the dice, "this is for money!"

Boff!

Jerry Lester, the M. C. at the Hollywood, was being insulted again by a ringside heckler, who yelled:

"You're too small for this place!"

"You don't say?" barked Jerry, "and if you pulled up your sox you'd be blindfolded!"

How Love Starts

One of the lovelier legends is that one about how Charlie MacArthur and his wife, Helen Hayes, met.

It was at a cocktail party—and Charlie had a fistful of peanuts. Miss Hayes walked up to him.

"May I have some?" she cooed.

"Of course," said Charlie as his heart thumped, "I only wish they were emeralds."

Dix Stranded In Whirling Sand

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7.—Terribly weakened as he was from pneumonia, Richard Dix ran into a sandstorm on his way to Arizona and, for six hours, sat in his stalled car, shivering over a little heater and undergoing hardships that would have turned his doctors' hair gray, if they had known of it.

Mr. Dix

News of the actor's experience was being told about the RKO studio after the return of his chauffeur.

According to the driver, the storm was one of the most severe in years, completely destroying visibility. It it hadn't been for the heater which Dix had installed just before his departure, the star very likely would have landed back in the hospital.

As it was, he was able to go on to his desert hideaway, which is located in the midst of an Indian reservation. Far away from prying eyes, the actor virtually goes native. If the sun is warm, he even turns nudist, or as close to one as possible.

Rich hopes to be able to return to Hollywood at the end of the week, but so far he is slow in regaining his strength.

Poor Alice White. She had planned so long on a Mexican honeymoon, and now Warners are calling her back on the second day. They want her to play a role in James Cagney's new picture, "The Heir Chaser." As Alice had agreed to do the part, she and her bridegroom, Cy Bartlett, have no choice but to return.

Miss White

Personal business—and she's mysterious about it—carries the oil-heiress, Janet Snowden, East with her film ambitions still unfulfilled. She plans to make it a flying trip, however, and to renew her attempts to crash the gates of the movies.

Hollywood gossip, they say, broke up the romance between Janet and Jack La Rue. The young Italian actor couldn't stand to be considered a fortune hunter.

Janet will come into a sizable inheritance when she is 21.

Seena Owen is just out of the hospital after a painful and unusual accident. She was playing crack-the-whip with some youngsters on Thanksgiving Day and fell, cutting an artery in her arm. . . . This column has it on the best authority that the Mary McCormic-Harry Bannister romance will never get to the altar. . . . For several hours Sally Rand was threatening to walk out on Paramount. The little dancer hit the ceiling when she found they only planned to give her a half dozen speeches in "Bolero." At last reports, and after certain readjustments had been made, peace was reigning again . . . Fifi Dorsay will postpone her honeymoon until she isn't so busy with personal appearances.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Because of the popularity of "Alice In Wonderland" in the Nixon, Eva Le Gallienne has consented to a proposal to give an extra matinee, for children, Saturday morning. It will be held at 10:30 o'clock. The same play, which concluded its evening engagement last night, also will be given, as originally planned, at 2:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Saturday evening performance of "Hedda Gabler" will complete three performances in one day for the Civic Repertory Theater Company, a task seldom undertaken. Tonight's bill will be "Romeo and Juliet," with Miss Le Gallienne as Juliet. The Shakespearean love tragedy also will be given Friday night.

Everett Marshall, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera, singing star of the Ziegfeld "Follies," coming Monday to the Nixon, began his vocal career as a choir boy of a church in his home town, Worcester, Mass. The new edition of the "Follies" is the successor to that which had its premiere here a couple of seasons ago, under the supervision of Florenz Ziegfeld, who presented the first frolic of this type in 1907, with a cast including Bickel and Watson, Annabelle Whitford, Grace Leigh and Grace Larue. The chorus then numbered only 30, as Ziegfeld had not then come forward as a "glorifier" of the American girl. That tradition, however, is carried on in the new edition.

In the Theater of the College of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology, the favorite theatrical organization of Dean Elmer Kenyon will be seen Friday in "The Young Idea," by Noel Coward. Students of the drama department, under the direction of Chester Wallace, also will be seen in this play five nights next week, the engagement closing with the performance Friday evening, December 15.

Engineers Will Give Annual Ladies' Night

Members of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania will have their annual "ladies' night" at Hotel William Penn Saturday night. T. E. Purcell is general chairman.

Protean

"Doc" Baker, quick-change artist, will be seen at the head of his own revue in the Pitt stage bill opening Friday, the screen attraction to be "The Sphinx," with Lionel Atwill.

Dry Era's End On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

New York City gave a joyous reception to the end of prohibition, and the current issue of the Hearst Metrotone News contains spectacular scenes of the celebration with a vivid description by the Globe Trotter. In addition to night scenes on Broadway there are peeps into some of the smarter cafes.

Clyde Beatty and his lions furnish many thrills as the famous trainer puts his huge pets through their paces at Peru, Ind.

Pre-historic monsters made of rubber and inflated parade down Broadway in a celebration preceding the Christmas shopping season.

More than 78,000 fans see the football season end in New York with the biggest upset of the year when Notre Dame beats Army by a score of 13-12. Outstanding plays of the game are pitctured.

Note—Because of the necessity upon theater managers to arrange programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

The Proper Spirit

IN THE City of New York, the patrolmen have their own association. So have the detectives. And so have the mounted police. They are all excellent societies, and have proven of untold benefit to the members. This little yarn, unfolded by Artie Hitchman, deals exclusively with the association of the mounted police.

It seems that, only a week or two ago, a member arose and demanded more courtesy for State troopers who might be visiting our city.

"I was speaking with a couple of troopers the other night," he explained, "and they put in a squawk about the treatment accorded them by the New York coppers. They seem to feel that none of us go out of our way to make them feel at home.

"And I, for one, feel that they may be right. I know that when I go out to Jones' Beach in the Summer and the troopers are on the job, they're pretty nice to me and the missus. I get a parking break because I'm on the force, and there's no reason for them to be decent if they don't want to.

"Maybe it's not very important, but I think our organization ought to pass a resolution to extend more courtesy to visiting State troopers. It doesn't cost us anything. And it can only help us in the long run."

A number of the others were inclined to agree with the speaker. There were no dissenting opinions. So, in due time, the resolution was passed. And the State troopers were forthwith promised every courtesy in the future from any mounted policeman who might cross their path.

All of which, I think, is very nice. It certainly demonstrates the proper spirit, whatever that might mean . . .

We come now to a mounted policeman whom we will call Clancy because that is not his real name. Mr. Clancy is generally to be found in the business districts of downtown Manhattan. But Thanksgiving afternoon saw him in a new locality. Because of the theater crowds, he had been transferred to the theatrical district for the day.

Mr. Clancy, I might tell you at this point, is a credit to himself, his family and the force on which he works. He is honest. He likes his glass of beer. He is fearless And he makes very few arrests. Altogether, a nice cop.

Things were fairly quiet when he saw the two troopers in front of the theater. In complete uniform, but carrying no guns, they stood in front of a musical comedy house and seemed to be gazing with intense interest at the pictures on display.

The mounted policeman needed no more. The resolution that had been passed by his organization was very fresh in his mind. More, this was Thanksgiving Day. Why not give these two troopers a helping hand?

He galloped over to the two men, and dismounted.

"Hello, boys," he cried affably. "You fellows in town on a little vacation?"

Both men nodded.

"Yep," said one. "Took the day off and thought we'd spend it on Broadway. We thought we'd like to take in this show, but I'm afraid the prices are a little high."

Mr. Clancy gave out a superior smile.

"If you don't mind standing," he asserted, "I guess I can get you in all right. Then, if the place isn't too crowded, you can slip into a couple of seats somewhere. Just follow me."

Mr. Clancy approached the manager, and led him to one side.

"These two troopers are friends of mine," he said, "and if it's not putting you out any, I'd like to have them stand in the back. Will it be okay with you?"

The manager was more than agreeable. So Clancy went back to the two men.

"You can go right in, boys," he told them. "And when the show is over, you can look for me on the outside. I'll be off duty by that time and the three of us can knock off a few beers together. How does that strike you?"

The first trooper was more than pleased.

"Great," he replied enthusiastically. "You're certainly being swell to us, and we'll never forget it. Thanks plenty."

"Don't mention it," smiled Mr. Clancy. "You'll find that any mounted copper will be just as nice to you fellows. Enjoy the show, and I'll meet you outside."

When the show was over, Mr. Clancy kept strictly to his word. His horse gone, he met the two troopers in front of the theater and guided them to a favored speakeasy in the vicinity. There the three of them drank several glasses of beer.

When it came time for the bill, the two men wanted to pay their share of the check. But Mr. Clancy would have none of it. He paid the tab, and they all arose.

"Don't be thanking me, boys," he stated. "I told you before that any mounted policeman would do the same as I've done. And you can go back to your outfit and tell the fellows that the same thing applies to any state trooper who ever hits our town."

The two uniformed men gazed at each other blankly.

"Troopers?" said the first one vaguely.

It was Mr. Clancy's turn to look surprised.

"Sure," he muttered. "You two fellows are state troopers, aren't you?"

Both men shook their heads.

"Hell, no," replied the second. "These are the uniforms of the Greyhound lines. We're a couple of bus drivers from Chicago!"

PAN-AMERICANS PARRY LEAGUE

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 7.—(AP.) — The Pan-American conference was expected to decide today whether a committee shall be named to study the requests of the League of Nations, of Spain and of Portugal to send official observers to the conference.

Such a committee to "re-examine purposes" of the requests was suggested to the steering committee by Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the United States.

The proposed committee, it was said, might be instructed to review all three bids. An earlier committee approved admission of observers from Spain and Portugal, but the full conference did not ratify the action.

Argentina urged a Spanish observer. Brazil asked that Portugal have like representation. Some wondered then whether Haiti would propose a French observer.

OLD-FASHIONED NOSEGAY PATTERN NO.486

Nosegay Is Favorite Scrap Quilt

The Old-fashioned Nosegay is one of those patterns that needs no explanation. Its quaint charm—its colorfulness—would make it outstanding in any collections of quilts. The very fact that it is made of scraps of material enhances its beauty, for was not the old-time nosegay that inspired it formed of all the varieties of flowers that the old-fashioned garden boasted of? It can be made with the same scraps repeated in each block as illustrated, or with each block made of different scraps like so many different bouquets.

Pattern 486 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

WOMAN, 78, DIES AFTER CRASH

Mrs. Caroline Malcolm, 78, of Marietta, Ga., near Atlanta, died last night in Mercy Hospital from a heart ailment superinduced by injuries suffered in an automobile accident at Hollidaysburg, October 18, according to a morgue report.

Mrs. Malcolm, a widow, well-known in Atlanta's society circles, and her nephew, A. V. Chappell, 40, of 703 Cochran road, Sewickley, were en route to New York in her automobile driven by her chauffeur when it figured in a collision with another car. Mrs. Malcolm and Chappell were taken to an Altoona hospital and later brought to Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Malcolm's hip was fractured and the injury resulted in the fatal heart ailment, morgue attaches reported. Chappell also suffered a broken hip and brain concussion. His condition today was regarded as fair.

With our thousands of dollars to back us up, we demanded and got the choicest of coats. At $50 we fought for coats that have sold for as much as $120. At $35, models rate as high as $70. MAYOR TRIES TO SELL RELIEF BONDS IN WASHINGTON

Session May Delay Kane's Council Debut

—By MARK SHIELDS—

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—Representative John J. Kane, elected a member of Pittsburgh City Council in November on the Democratic ticket, may not take his seat in the municipal legislative body January 1, when William N. McNair becomes mayor and five Republican members of Council retire.

Mr. Shields

Representative Thomas J. Gallagher, also elected to Council as Democrat, may refrain from taking the oath along with John M. Huston, Walter R. Demmler and William A. Magee, the other three elected to Council last month.

The Attorney General has rendered an opinion based on state statutes and the Pittsburgh charter, that a man may not serve both as a member of the Legislature and city councilman in Pittsburgh.

If the Legislature does not adjourn before Christmas, and recesses over the holidays ,Kane will continue his duties in the state capital. He is intensely interested in the program of social legislation, and feels that he can be of greater service by remaining in the Legislature until the special session adjourns. After adjournment he will resign his membership and take his place in Council.

Of course, if adjournment comes December 21, as some Republicans desire, Kane will be free to take the councilmanic oath in January. There is, however, grave doubt whether the job before the legislators can be completed this month.

Magee Would Hold Deciding Vote

The only thing that might cause Kane and Gallagher to change their minds would be the opportunity for the Democrats through their votes to organize Council by electing a president. Kane himself has been spoken of as a possibility for this place, as has Huston. Each would look for four Democratic votes should he enter the race, with Mr. Magee holding the fifth and deciding vote.

Elected on both the Republican and Democratic tickets, Mr. Magee is in reality a Republican, though it is not believed this party affiliation will influence his vote on the councilmanic presidency.

Councilman Robert Garland, a veteran of municipal service, and a Republican, would like to become Council president. He is reported to have some offers of assistance from Councilmen William J. Soost, Charles Anderson and P. J. McArdle. With his own vote he would have four, a stand-off with the Democrats.

Dissension Blocks Speedy Adjournment

Developments of the past two days in Harrisburg have jeopardized plans for a speedy adjournment, freeing Representatives Kane and Gallagher of attendance at the capital. Republican organization leaders lost control of the House in the caucus preceding yesterday's session, and this defeat was accentuated as the members convened to consider controversial bills.

The old age assistance measure sponsored by Representative Peters, of Montgomery County, which would have placed half the cost on the counties, was defeated, and the Blumberg administration bill was passed. The Peters bill had organized support from some of the more conservative districts, but was fought by Philadelphia and the Democrats, as well as some Allegheny County Republicans.

Speaker Grover Talbot and those who line up with him backed the Peters bill and met with a stunning defeat.

In the caucus the regular Republican leaders had attempted to secure agreement for an adjournment next week. It was their plan to declare that the money was not at hand to finance the social legislation program, abandon consideration of the measures and go home.

They were rebuffed by the majority sentiment among the House members. These, facing campaigns next spring, and aware of what had happened in recent municipal elections, with Democrats victorious, demanded the opportunity to consider the whole social legislation program.

House Members Need Evidence of Activity

That can be done by December 21 if everything runs smoothly, but there is every indication that confusion rather than precision will rule. The Senate is expected to flag much of this legislation, and the result may be some protracted deliberations.

House members are aware that there must be some actual accomplishment, something written on the statute books, if they are to present a good front to their constituents.

The Democrats also are having their party troubles. Representative Robert Fitzgerald, of Erie, yesterday on the floor of the House roughly stated that Representative Wilson G. Sarig, of Berks, chosen as Democratic floor leader, did not speak for the party on many things.

On a number of occasions the Democrats have felt that Mr. Sarig, because of his bitter hatred of Gov. Pinchot, was inclined to get over to the regular Republican reservation.

M'NAIR TAX BILL KEPT ALIVE IN HOUSE

G. O. P. Leaders Using It to Embarrass Democrats

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7.—Mayor-elect William N. McNair's proposal that land in Pittsburgh shall be taxed five times the tax on buildings will be on the House calendar next Monday night.

The proposition, embodied in a bill introduced by Representative John L. Powers, Democrat, North Side, Pittsburgh, was reported yesterday from the House Committee on Cities, of which Representative Joseph R. Lynch, Republican organization follower, is chairman.

Big real estate owners of Pittsburgh will not relish the proposition, upon which McNair campaigned as a candidate for Mayor. There was little thought when the bill was introduced that it would get to the floor, but Republicans are understood to have pushed the bill along to embarrass some Democrats who will vote for it as a party measure, even though they dislike the principle. The Democrats are put in the position either of supporting the bill or repudiating one of the chief platform planks of their party leader in Pittsburgh.

GRADED TAX BURIED

McNair's other proposal to extend the graded tax law to Allegheny County and to school taxes, remains buried in committee.

The House Elections Committee yesterday indefinitely postponed consideration of the "party raiding" bill which would prevent a candidate running in more than one primary. It was introduced by Representative Reuben Howard, of Fayette, and is a Democratic measure.

In the last regular session the bill was passed, but was vetoed by the Governor at the insistence of Judge John Fine, of Luzerne County. In yesterday's Elections Committee meeting, which was attended slenderly, Luzerne County members opposed approval of the bill. They were for sending it to a sub-committee for burial, but their motion was not entertained by Representative Arnold Blumberg, Philadelphia, chairman of the committee.

MEMBERS DISGUSTED

The Luzerne County members were disgusted with Blumberg, as indefinite postponement means the bill can be considered again at any time. If the committee does not bring it to the floor, Representative John J. Kane, of Pittsburgh, and other Democrats intend to move to discharge the committee and force a vote on the bill.

Republicans aware of the recent swing toward the Democrats are eager to run in all primaries. In the regular session the bill passed easily, the only Allegheny County Senator voting against it being Frank J. Harris.

The Harris permanent registration bill for Pittsburgh was reported by the Senate Elections Committee yesterday after the Senate adjourned, and will be up for final passage Monday night.

Senator John Howell, Lackawanna, chairman of the committee, said amendments desired by Senator Harris had been inserted, but that no other tinkering with the bill had been permitted. One amendment would reduce the number of registration commissioners from four to three.

PINCHOT'S PROGRAM

Next week the Senate will be confronted with the first of the Pinchot social legislation program. The Fitzgerald minimum wage bill and the Blumberg old-age assistance bill were passed yesterday by the House after a session in which the regular Republican leadership completely lost control of the membership. Only eight votes were cast against the Fitzgerald bill, and the vote on the Blumberg bill was unanimous.

These were measures the Republican leaders had hoped to kill or emasculate, but when they found the deck loaded against them they surrendered and passed the buck to the Senate.

The House adjourned for the week yesterday in an atmosphere of revolt, which promises fireworks next week. It is a certainty that final adjournment of the special session will not come before December 21, and the probabilities are that the Legislature will be wrangling in January.

SPAN FALL LAID TO TROLLEY CO.

Collapse of Rankin Bridge was due to the carelessness and negligence of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and was no fault of the county, according to County Commissioner C. C. McGovern.

After inspecting the scene of the crash in which four persons were injured and two trolley work cars and a truck dropped 40 feet, McGovern has censured the railways company for allowing the two heavily sand-laden street cars on the bridge. He said:

"The bridge was built for vehicular traffic. These things were railroad trains. The county was absolutely blameless.

McGovern said that the bridge had been repaired, inspected, and painted within the year. He stated the county would not rebuild the bridge, because it was one to be replaced with funds the county will attempt to borrow from the PWA.

Young Southerner In Great Danger Of Capture

He offered her his arm; she rested her slim, gloved fingers on it lightly and lightly walked beside him.

He looked at her gravely. Her enraptured gaze saw things beyond him.

"Si diis placet," she sighed. "I have watched the stars too long to fear the night."

The words were spontaneous. It was only afterward that she realized their theatrical value as a final exit. Some day, if she survived, she would write a play for herself—a sad, sad play—and those very words should end it . . . Even angels and cherubim above should weep.

As Col. Sharpe handed her into the headquarters spring-wagon, known as "the ambulance" and drawn by six frisky mules, the 146th Zouaves were passing, their band leading with a deafening tumult of cymbals, brass and drums. She waved her handkerchief. There was only a battalion of them left. The remainder lay dead below Marye's Heights.

Synopsis

Gail Loveless, beautiful Union spy known as Operator 13, went to Culpeper, Va., to checkmate the work of Antonia Ford, a Confederate spy who had kept Gen. Jeb Stuart so well informed that Gen. Stoneman, the Union cavalry leader, never was able to surprise him.

Operator 13 became Antonia Ford's house guest. At a party she met Capt. Jack Gailliard, gallant Confederate spy, whom she had once outwitted and captured, only to release him. He did not recognize her now because, in their earlier encounters she had been disguised as a colored boy.

Now, however, he declared himself in love with her, and she, in love with him, kissed him and promised that some time she would be his wife. Then she saw him ride away with Antonia Ford on a secret mission.

Antonia Ford was captured, but Gail was exposed in turn and fled on horseback for her life. She reached the quarters of Col. Sharpe, chief of the Federal Secret Service. After a day's rest she was summoned by Col. Sharpe and told that Gailliard was somewhere in the north. She was assigned to hunt him down.

CARNEGIE STEEL TO SPEED RAILS

Several hundred steel workers in the Pittsburgh district were assured pay checks at Christmas as plans were made by the Carnegie Steel Company to start production upon the 42,000 tons of rails to be rolled for the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Edgar Thomson works, Braddock.

The order was part of a 100,000-ton order announced yesterday by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Of the remainder about 8,000 tons will be supplied by the Illinois Steel Company, 44,000 tons by the Bethlehem Steel and 6,000 tons by the Inland Steel Company.

At the same time it was announced that the Oliver Iron and Steel Company had received an order for 3,000 tons of bolts, nuts and washers for tubes to be constructed by the Port Authority of New York. The order amounts to about $178,000, but fabrication will not start until March 1. Steel for the order will be furnished by the Carnegie Steel Company.

The numbers racketeers of the North Side were reported facing financial ruin today following unusually heavy "hits" on yesterday's number.

The "barons," it was reported, avoided their usual haunts. Rumor had it that they were facing the necessity of raising $20,000 to pay off those who had made "hits."

ASK RFC TO BUY $1,400,000 ISSUE

CWA Projects Halted Due to Shortage Of Funds

Shifting their search for CWA funds to Washington, Mayor John S. Herron and City Controller James P. Kerr are today in the capital with the Pittsburgh CWA head, James L. Stuart.

Hoping to obtain immediate funds for city projects, they will attempt to have the RFC purchase the recently authorized $1,400,000 work relief bonds. Sale of the bonds on an open market would require at least five weeks, during which the CWA would be at a standstill in Pittsburgh.

Work in South Park remained muddled yesterday as County Commissioner C. C. McGovern flayed conditions which had the county paying for two steam shovels and five trucks on a job which employed only 10 men. According to McGovern, the shovels each cost $50 a day and the trucks are hired for $1.70 an hour.

MEN FAIL TO REPORT

Harold F. Bucher, employment director, said that 231 men had been ordered for the job, but pointed to transportation difficulties as the explanation of their not appearing. Failure of a large group of men to report for jobs paying $15 a week has been ridiculed in many quarters. It is pointed out that caddies manage to get to the golf course in South Park where they often earn less than $1 a day.

Although McGovern spoke of only 20 men on the North Park job, Stuart said that the "full force" is at work. Bucher defined a full force as 200 men.

Approval of local projects is still coming from the state administrator in Harrisburg. Thirteen were sanctioned yesterday. They will employ 488 more men and will cost about $121,000.

BIG SWISSVALE JOB

Two of the plans sanctioned will provide work for engineers on the surveying of Allegheny County roads, the Ohio River boulevard and the Baptist road. The largest single undertaking will give jobs to 125 men on the grading and draining of streets in Swissvale Borough.

More "white collar" workers will be added to the local CWA payroll if projects proposed by the Civic Club of Allegheny County are accepted. They call for examination of the civil service system in Pittsburgh, study of garbage and refuse disposal, and a probe of the pension system for city employes.

Thirty women are to be among the 40 CWA employes who will assist the weather bureau in compiling data, according to W. S. Brotzman. Through ship records from 1880 to the present, they will check weather conditions all over the globe. Statistics will be used to predict probable wind and air conditions at future dates.

By next week the CWA had hoped to have 25,000 men at work in the county. Jobs for almost 5,000 have already been approved. But approval does not mean men at work, as the condition in South Park shows. How many men are actually on the payroll is not known, even at employment headquarters, where Bucher said it is more than 2,000 but would state no definite figure.

Mother's Faith Cured Child, Priest Attests

The Rev. Father James R. Cox, rector of Old St. Patrick's Church, today said the faith of a mother in her church had miraculously cured 6-year-old Flora May Krista, of Homestead, of chronic meningitis from which doctors are said to have felt she would never recover.

The child was carried into the church two years and six months ago by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Krista. Last Sunday Flora May walked into the church and heard Father Cox announce her recovery.

According to Mrs. Krista, she carried the child to Father Cox after physicians had told her to take her home and "keep her as comfortable as possible and wait for her to die." Father Cox, she said, sprinkled the child with Lourdes water from France and instilled in her the faith that God would effect a cure.

For six months Mrs. Krista made novenas and said special devotions at the church. Two years ago Christmas day Flora May took her first step. Today, Mrs. Krista said she plays and walks as other children.

Affirming the mother's story, Father Cox said:

"It was a miraculous cure. It is concrete evidence that the age of miracles is not ended."

Mrs. Krista, according to the pastor, said:

"God's power to heal, delivered through the church, has given me my little girl. It was nothing else."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 7.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well sir, from what I can read and hear, folks stood the shock of getting a drink (without giving their name), in mighty good shape.

Will Rogers

Course the ones that are clear "out" we don't hear of for days. But it looked like everything went off better than expected.

You see the whole problem is getting people from bad drinks back onto good drinks. You take a good bucking horse rider, he would rather ride a bad horse than a nice gentle one.

So it's going to take time to get 'em to having a sociable drink without watching the deer.

WELFARE DRIVE SEEKS 50,000 $10 PLEDGES

As church leaders of all denominations met in Chamber of Commerce at noon yesterday to complete plans for the Emergency Sharing Plan, aimed at getting 50,000 $10 pledges to the Welfare Fund next Sunday, campaign workers, veterans of four weeks of dogged fighting, brought in $19,907 at their report meeting in Kaufmann's auditorium and raised the total to $2,022,752.

R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the Emergency Sharing Plan, presided, telling pastors an $800,000 shortage in the Welfare budget will throw a huge burden on churches and local communities. He said:

"There are thousands of persons in this county who can afford to give $10 to the fund in addition to anything they have given so far. We cannot accept the failure of our community to meet its social obligations without a final appeal. We believe these citizens will respond."

Appeals for the full co-operation of all pastors were made by Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, Father McBurney, of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, and Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson.

The group pledged its support.

Chairman John W. Lawrence explained the plan:

"The plan will be presented in a five-minute period in the main service to every congregation in Allegheny County next Sunday.

"Teams of workers will be assigned each church desiring assistance. Special cards, pledging $10, or multiples of $10, payable Sept. 1, 1934, will be distributed. Green feathers will be given to those who participate in the Emergency Sharing Plan."

Lawrence announced a final report meeting on Monday will close the general campaign although efforts to obtain additional subscriptions will continue.

TUBERCULOSIS FUND GROWS

For the first time in its history the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh received a contribution yesterday from a group of employes of a business firm, according to Miss Alice E. Stewart, superintendent.

A check for $6.51 in payment for Christmas seals, is the contribution of the employes of the M. Rom and Sons Company, in addition to the firm's contribution.

Wearying Noises

From her bedroom in the St. Dennis Hotel, when she awoke next morning, she could hear the roar of traffic below her lace curtained windows, where ironshod hoof and iron rimmed wheel and the shuffle of passing feet never ceased by day, and merely grew less noisy through the somber gaslit shadows of the night. The racket of drums of passing regiments; the wearying clank and screech of horse cars, clatter of stages, trucks and drays up and down Broadway combined into a kind of perpetual unaccented dissonance, to which, after a while, her hearing adjusted itself and her tired mind submitted.

She breakfasted in Taylor's saloon downstairs, and now was back in her corner suite again. Her bed had been made up in her bedroom; her sitting room had been dusted.

She went to the window and looked out through the lace curtains.

Across Eleventh street was a marble building full of dry-goods. Opposite on the other side of Broadway, where that great thoroughfare bends westward, rose the beautiful Gothic tower of Grace Church amid its trees. Here, along these blocks, was the center of the city's hotel and theatrical life concentrated between Bleecker and Fourteenth streets.

Here the blue Fifth avenue stages, with landscapes painted in oval panels on their sides, and the yellow Madison avenue stages moved slowly as ships in a heavy sea, through the perpetual traffic jam of carriages, hacks, delivery wagons and cross-town cars. Here commerce crowded and fashion strolled; newsboys yelled, stage drivers and teamsters gibed, taunted and swore at one another all day long; and the police were ever pushing through to clear the way for departing regiments.

Callers Arrive

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon a page brought a card to her little sitting room. She read the names on the card—Henry Dodd written in ink. Under it, in pencil, another name: James Cammock.

"Ask the gentlemen to come up," she said. She rose to get her pistol and to close her bedroom door. Then she returned to the sofa in her sitting room.

Presently there came a cautious knock; and, obeying her summons, two serious-minded young men came in.

She said something in a low voice and they both replied almost inaudibly.

Again she spoke and their reply was a whisper.

Then she said quietly: "Where is the path?" And they replied in unison: "Sic itur ad astra."

"Your numbers?" she demanded. "Thirty-nine," said one. "Seventy," said the other.

"Operator 13," murmured the girl. "Won't you be seated, gentlemen?"

When they were seated and the door had been locked and the window shades lowered, Henry Dodd displayed their credentials.

Cammock said: "We don't know for certain that Capt. Gailliard is here, ma'am, but we believe he may be the young man who registered at this hotel late last night and who has not left his room since he arrived."

"What room?" said the girl, startled.

"Across the hall from your door, ma'am. Room 23."

"Under what name is he registered?"

"John Halyard, of New Castle, Del."

Watched Door

Her heart was beating so violently that she couldn't articulate for a moment or two. Then she managed to ask Cammock whether anybody was watching the door of room 23. The spy motioned her to open her own door and look out.

She rose, unlocked the door and peered into the corridor. And saw a shadowy figure in overcoat and soft hat standing at the farther end of the hall.

Operator 13 closed and locked her door again and turned to Cammock. Her pale lips formed a voiceless inquiry; and the spy replied: "He's Operator 00. George Galt. I have the housekeeper's pass key." He showed it to her. "We can enter the room at once."

The girl took the key from Cammock. She had become frightfully pale, but her manner and voice were composed. She said: "I am in charge of this investigation, Mr. Cammock."

"Yes, ma'am, we understand that."

"Please remember it." She began to pace the rose-flowered carpet, as though considering the situation. When her hard-beating heart beat more quietly and her voice was once more under control: "Has anybody a description of this man in Room 23?" she inquired.

"Galt gave us his description. He got it from the hotel night clerk," said Cammock respectfully.

"Very well," she said; "let us ask Mr. Galt."

A Challenge

She opened her door again, Dodd and Cammock started to follow her toward the shadowy figure, but she motioned them to remain in her room and went on alone.

He was a burly young man with a scarred face. He kept his hands in his overcoat pockets and his hat on his head while she was approaching him.

When she was still a little distance away he stepped in front of her.

"One moment miss," he said: "do you know the path?"

It was the first phrase again, of the United States Secret Service challenge; and she answered, as prescribed:

"There is only one path."

"Where does it lead?"

"To the stars."

"Where is the path?"

"Sic itur ad astra."

"Your number, ma'am?"

"Operator 13. Yours?"

"Double Zero. George Galt."

She said calmly: "Tell me about this man in Room 23."

"Registered at 3 o'clock this morning as John Halyard, of New Castle, Del. One valise; no trunk. The night clerk who notified us describes him as a smart-looking young man, dark-ish eyes and hair, small dark mustache, slim figure, about five feet nine, with a polite manner and the voice of a Southern gentleman."

"Any other information?" she inquired.

"No, ma'am."

She said: "I am here to identify Capt. Gailliard. But I have my own plan of procedure. You understand that I am in full charge of this matter, Mr. Galt?"

"Yes, ma'am, I do."

"Very well. Go down to the lobby and wait there until I send for you."

The detective seemed surprised. He looked sharply at her for a moment, then touched his hat with a jerky salute and walked off toward the broad, railed stairway leading to the lobby below.

When the girl returned to her rooms two secret service agents were peeping through the crack of the door, their eyes fixed on the door of Room 23.

"How many entrances are there to this hotel?" she asked.

"Two, ma'am," replied Dodd; "one on Broadway, the other on Eleventh street."

"Then you will please stand watch outside the Broadway entrance, and Mr. Cammock, will you please take your station outside the Eleventh street door? And remain there until further orders."

Suffering

They walked away together down the long, dim corridor. The girl watched them until they had disappeared.

She trembled slightly at moments. There was unutterable anguish in her colorless face.

From the street outside her windows came an increasing roar of vehicles and voices. Newsboys were shouting that a great battle was expected to begin.

The drums of a marching regiment redoubled the din of the streets—Fire Zouaves, a blaze of scarlet as far as the eyes could reach. They were recruits on their way to a transport.

The brazen racket of their drums, cymbals and trombones made her head swim. And all the while her tortured heart and blinded brain were struggling, throbbing with her problem.

As she stood there trembling in an agony of fear and indecision, she heard the sound of a key turning; the door of Room 23 opened; a man stepped out across the threshold, and caught sight of her at the same instant.

"Gail!" he said, astonished.

Her horrified amazement was genuine, for she had hoped it might not be he, and that she might have more time.

"Gail," he repeated incredulously, "it is you, isn't it?"

He came swiftly to her, took both her hands and kissed them joyously; would have kissed the tense, drawn mouth.

"What are you doing in New York?" she faltered, avoiding him.

Gay Youth

He laughed mischievously and drew her into his arms. But the girl shrank away. Her white face and frightened eyes checked and sobered him.

"Why do you look at me so strangely?"

Her restless eyes swept the dim corridor; and when she was sure that nobody had seen them, she motioned him to enter, then locked her door and leaned against it, trying to clear her mind of terror.

"What the devil—" he began.

She felt his arms imprisoning her again, freed herself with a convulsive movement. "Can't you let me have a moment to—to think?" she stammered.

He possessed himself of her hand again, but she jerked her fingers free.

"For God's sake, don't touch me," she whimpered, sinking down upon the sofa.

"What is the matter?" he asked. "What is frightening you?"

"I'll tell you in a moment. Only don't touch me!"

He stood there flushed and troubled, looking down at her out of perplexed eyes while the girl, her pale face rigid, sat looking at the locked door.

He said: "What troubles you, dearest? You look like death."

"Death?" she repeated dully. She lifted her frightened eyes to his without any hope at all. And suddenly, hope glimmered out through mental chaos—as though somewhere a door had opened out of thick darkness showing her the way out. Instantly she felt once more that odd thrill of pleasurable excitement in deadly peril. A vivid color suffused her face.

When she rose from the sofa she was still trembling slightly. Very lovely to look at, now. Lovelier still as she abandoned her slim, white hands to her lover; and presently her lips.

Actress Again

For a while the terrifying reality of life had frightened her out of her art. Now she was mistress of her mind once more; and again the actress, charming, convincing to the tips of her exquisite little fingers so cool against his lips. And she was all tremulous repentance and youthful shyness and feminine fragrance in his arms, striving naively to express her shame at having doubted him.

He did not comprehend her at first.

"I couldn't understand your being here in New York," she explained. "Will you ever forgive me?"

"Did you suppose I had turned traitor to the South?" he demanded. She hid her face against his shoulder, holding closely to him while he laughed and kissed her hair and neck and the delicate curve of one flushed cheek.

"Darling," he said, "it seems too wonderful that I should encounter you on a business trip to New York! With whom are you traveling, Gail?"

She instantly invented an Aunt Sarah who was at that moment supposed to be awaiting her in the restaurant downstairs.

"Wonderful," he repeated. "I arrived late last night, and I slept late. Some friends of mine are coming to see me later on business. But after that, can't we have the rest of the day together?"

"Oh, darling, Aunt Sarah is a rabid Yankee?"

"What of it!" he rejoined gayly. "I'm passing as a rabid Yankee myself."

Hasty Excuses

"But I must dress for the afternoon and join my aunt for the tea at Taylor's."

"When?"

"Can't you arrange it somehow?"

"No. I'm late now." Still busy with her hat and curly hair.

"Gail," he pleaded. "I'm obliged to leave for Montreal at 6 o'clock tonight. Can't you manage to shed your worthy Aunt Sarah and devote the rest of the day to me?"

Operator 13 giggled. "Shall I put on my hat and shawl and run downstairs to Taylor's and tell my aunt that I have a splitting headache?" she asked naively.

"Will you wait here for me?" she asked breathlessly radiant.

"I'd better wait for you in my own room across the hall."

"No! Promise to wait for me here! If you don't I won't go. Promise!-"

"All right," she said, "but if you miss your redoubtable aunt and she comes looking for you here, we'll have to marry before I leave for Montreal!"

At that their laughter rang out unrestrained; then the girl, pretending to distrust him, slipped out of the door and locked him in. And stood for a moment in the corridor, rigid and mirthless, desperate.

GORDON REPLIES TO ATTACK ON BANK POLICY

HARRISBURG, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Defending his policies in liquidating closed banks, Dr. William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking, says his department has "taken advantage of every opportunity to receive assistance from Washington" on behalf of depositors.

Gordon replied last night to the action of Representative Wilson G. Sarig, of Berks County, who introduced a resolution in the House calling for "an explanation of the delay in liquidating closed banks and the failure of the department to take advantage of the offer of the federal government to lend money on the assets of closed banks for distribution to depositors."

Gordon said the department could not "in fairness to the interest of the depositors, accept the disproportionate amounts which were formerly offered under the old plan." He added:

"It now is hopeful, because of President Roosevelt's vision and announced policy of liberalization, to correct the ultra-conservative policy previously followed, of obtaining the highest number of dollars in each closed institution that Washington will make available to it."

"The statement that the United States government has offered the state banking department $100,000,000 as loans on the securities of closed and restricted banks for speedy payment to depositors is not only a mistatement of fact, but absolutely absurd.

"Just yesterday the representative of the Deposit Liquidation Corporation stated that it hoped to make available $400,000,000 for the entire United States by the end of the year and possibly $200,000,000 additional by March, 1934."

Dr. Gordon went on to say that the total expenses of liquidation of banks have amounted to 2.74 per cent of the book value and 4.7 per cent of the appraised value of the assets.

In reply to Sarig's charge that the department had delayed payment of deposits of banks operating under the Sordoni Act, Gordon explained these banks are under the management of their officers and the department has nothing to do with their payment of restricted deposits.

R. F. C. Attack Reported On Pa. Bank Department

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia Record quotes Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania, as stating "Harvey Couch and other members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are outspoken in their belief that incompetency of the Pennsylvania Banking Department is responsible for lack of applications for relief of bank depositors."

The Record quotes Guffey:

"'Officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other federal agencies tell me that they have received less cooperation in this, the Third Federal Reserve District, than anywhere else in the United States and their figures prove it.

"'I can say definitely that a smaller percentage of operating banks in Pennsylvania have applied for membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation than in any other state.'"

CRAFTON BANK OPENS MONDAY

Next Monday has been set for the official opening of the new Crafton National Bank, which will release approximately $400,000 to the depositors of the old First National Bank of Crafton.

The bank has been organized largely through the sale of stock to depositors of the old institution. Sixty per cent of deposits are being made available and the rest are being withhold until slow assets of the bank can be liquidated.

Finleyville Bank To Reopen Monday

FINLEYVILLE, Pa., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—With 75 per cent of deposits available for immediate distribution, the First National Bank of Finleyville will reopen for a complete banking business Monday.

Since the bank holiday the institution has been on a restricted basis, with R. F. Prowls as conservator.

Hawaiian Volcano Hurls Rain of Rocks

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Observers returned from a flight over Mount Mauna Loa today and reported that showers of rocks were being hurled from the Mokuaweoweo crater at the summit, while activity of the molten lava within the pit continued unabated.

For the last two nights the volcano has staged a spectacular show, the molten lava illuminating the sky.

FAIL TO ORDER CWA TOOLS

What, no tools?

While city officials search cellars for stray picks and mattocks the largest tool factory in the country, located right here in Pittsburgh, is turning out 4,000 a day for shipment to Boston, San Francisco, New Orleans and most intermediate points.

CWA workers in all parts of the United States are sending orders to the local tool company, but as yet not one has been received from the city of Pittsburgh.

James L. Stuart hopes to have 10,000 men employed on city CWA jobs by December 15. Yet the city has funds for only 4,000. And even if it had the money to employ more, the local factory could not begin to supply tools until December 18 because of orders already in.

All of which is very disconcerting to everyone but the tool makers, who have more business now than they had during the war-time boom.

BANK GETS NEW CONSERVATOR

Harry T. Aufderheide, of 6580 Beacon street has been appointed conservator of the old First National Bank of Wilkinsburg succeeding Martin L. Moore, according to word received here today.

Aufderheide was formerly president of the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, now in process of liquidation, and until recently had been conservator of a large bank in Bellaire, O.

The First National Bank at Wilkinsburg recently was opened, taking over a large part of the assets of the old institution. The job of the conservator is to convert the remaining assets of the old bank into cash.

HEINZ OUTLINES PLANT GAINS

Business has actually "turned the corner" and world-wide recovery is under way, according to Howard Heinz, speaking yesterday at the forty-sixth annual sales convention of the H. J. Heinz Company in the company auditorium, Heinz and Progress streets, North Side.

Heinz said:

"All statistics give evidence that recovery is on the march and should soon include the heavy industries. As further evidence of improvement is the fact that Heinz factories in the United States are employing 51 per cent more people than a year ago. There has been practically the same increase at our Canadian factory.

"Part of this big change for the better is due to the operation of the NRA in this country, but most of it is the result of increased business and demands for our products."

Heinz executives from all parts of the United States, Canada and England attended.

They are Harriet Ramsburg, daughter of the Charles J. Ramsburgs, and R. Putnam Goldsbury, son of the Royal S. Goldsburys. Officiating at the ceremony, to be attended by families and close friends, is to be the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell, rector of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church of Sewickley.

The bride is to wear traditional bridal satin. Her gown of ivory satin has a high, severe neck-line, sleeves full to the elbow, then fitted to the wrist, and a graceful train from the skirt. Her veil of tulle is to cascade from a cap of old family rose point lace. She is to carry calla lilies.

Bridal Attendant

Her only attendant, Margaret McCready, is to appear in American beauty red crepe with a small hat of velvet in the same shade having a veil of the same color, too.

A reception and dinner will follow the ceremony with about 120 guests attending. After a Bermuda honeymoon, the young Goldsburys will be at home in Sewickley.

December and January events are combined in the currently issued calendar of the Tuesday Musical Club. There is really only one event listed for this month—the Christmas recital which is to be given Tuesday afternoon in the Twentieth Century Club, with tea to follow.

Listed, also, is the seventh annual concert in memory of Stephen Collins Foster to be heard in Carnegie Music Hall January 13 at 8:15 o'clock. Another January event of interest will be the junior clubs' program on the twenty-third in Memorial Hall, with little Jeanne Brideson as soloist. On Saturday morning, January 20, in the hall the club will inaugurate a new venture for the juniors to take the place of the luncheon and business meeting which formerly preceded the annual program.

The annual composers' program will be presented February 6 in place of the piano and vocal ensemble program scheduled for that day, the latter having been postponed until April. February 27 is the date for the club's annual card party.

Real Pride Does Not Hold Back an Apology

Should we apologize when we're wrong?

Maybe you think we shouldn't. Maybe you're "too proud" to admit it when you're to blame.

Cassie's like that. And so—

Dearest Elsie:

I am only 20 years old, but my heart is simply broken, and I feel as if life wasn't worth living any more.

For nearly a year I have been going with a boy of 24. He is an awfully nice boy, and has been wonderful to me. We generally got along fine together, but not long ago we got into an argument, and he went home mad. Since then, we have not spoken. Several times I have seen him on the street, but I dodged into a store, because I didn't want to face him.

The worst of it is, I know that it was all my fault. I wasn't feeling very well that night. I had been working awfully hard, and I was tired and irritable. So when he didn't agree with something I said, I guess I just flew off the handle, and one word led to another till we were in a real quarrel. I said a lot of things I am sorry for.

BOTH INDEPENDENT

I love him deeply, and I know that he loves me, but we are both terribly independent. I know that he won't make the first move to make up, especially since he didn't start it.

But my pride just won't let me go to him and say that I was wrong, and ask him to forgive me. I have thought of it, but I just can't do it. I have never been able to "eat dirt," and I guess I just don't know how to learn.

Can you help me? What shall I do? I hope you won't throw this letter away. He reads your column, too, and maybe, if he sees this, he will know how I feel and come to me, and I won't have to "make the first move." We had planned to be married, but now—

Oh, I am so unhappy! I just can't stand it.

CASSIE.

NOT REAL PRIDE

So you're "too proud to apologize!"

Stop kidding yourself, youngster. "Pride" isn't holding you back. Real Pride is a fine thing. It is based on self-respect, and it despises cheapness. Real Pride wouldn't let you be unfair. It wouldn't let you rest until you had squared things. I would make you apologize. I would glory in the courage, the good sense and fairness of such an apology.

So it isn't pride, but cussedness and conceit—and those qualities will continue to spoil things for you, all your life, unless you get rid of them.

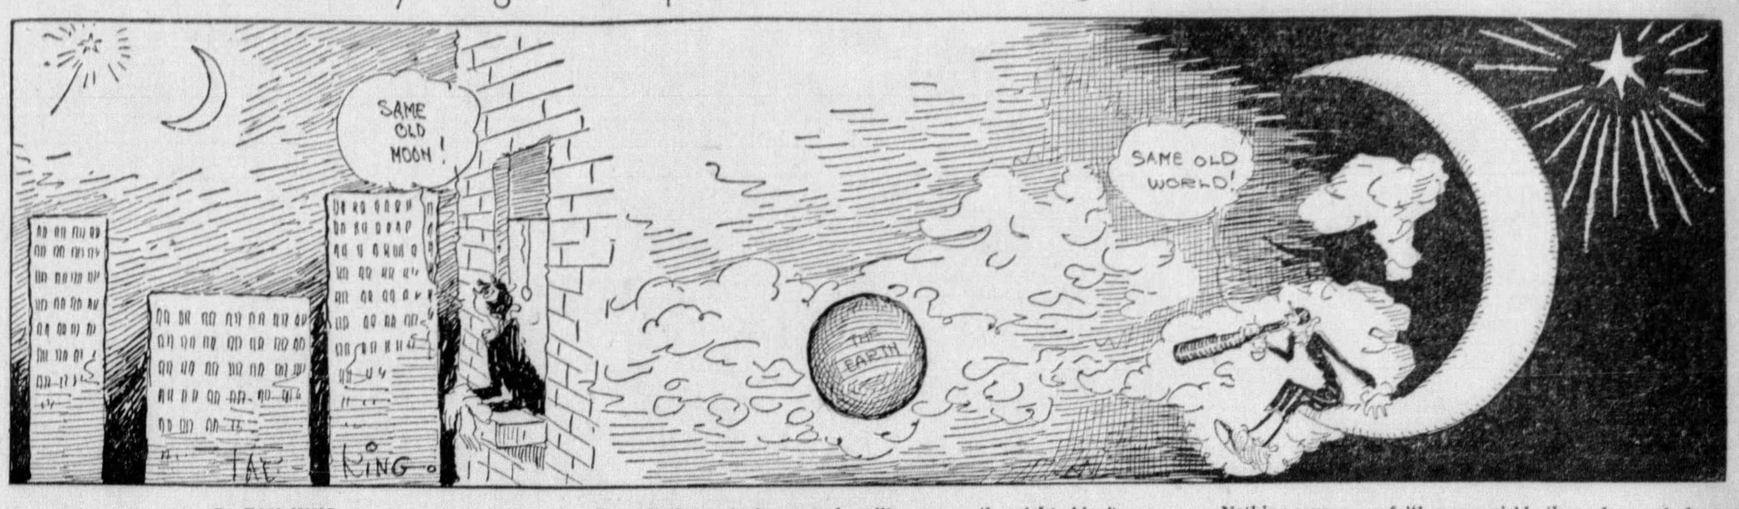
Fay King Contemplates the Immutable Pageant of the Stars



By FAY KING

Countless many lately looked up into the early evening sky to view the beautiful spectacle of the crescent moon and the bright star Venus side by side.

"Same old moon," we thought, "that billions have watched through the centuries serenely sailing across the night skies."

"Same old world," we might have said too, had we been on the moon viewing the earth instead.

Sometimes we lose faith in the world. There is nothing wrong with the world, but man has made it so.

Nothing renews our faith more quickly than when we look upon God's plans which are forever beyond the blunders of man.

The sun, the moon, the stars, the dawning day, and setting sun, these shall endure and outlast all.

Raccoon Coats for Town

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The raccoon coat, left, is seven-eighths length, lined with a bright woolen lining, and given a scarf to match. The half-moon muff has a zipper purse. Note the slim coat line.

Above is fitted full-length raccoon coat for city wear, worn with a plaid velvet beret and scarf. Left, a sports coat of raccoon with swagger, jaunty lines, and an active length.

THEY used to make jokes about the boys who made their subway journeys 'round town in raccoon coats, but the joke died a death some time ago, throttled by imaginative coat designers. Lots of citified raccoon coats ride the subways these days, on boys and their Mommas, too, not to mention all the rest of the family.

For with slim fitted lines, a new process of the furriers which takes off much weight and no warmth from the pelts, and some dressmakery stunts about gay linings and accessories, one no longer looks for a team of mushers or a bob sled when one sees a raccoon top coat. They are as divorced from these as are polo coats from horses.

There are full length, hip length and seven-eighths length models among the new ones, and muffs which are fitted with pockets big enough to carry along mad money, cosmetics, address books, and all the rest of the dear, dear possessions of the female.

Contrary to the old-time notion, a college degree is not demanded from everyone who owns one, and grandmothers who never heard of the sweetheart of Sigma Chi are trottin' about, warm from top to toe, in their decorous raccoon coats.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Memories of a Near Tragedy Are Revived

As Dr. Edwin Braithwaite looked over Mary's head at Katherine Bickett, I saw his wife's hand go swiftly, unconsciously to her throat, and wondered if that old miserable business of misunderstanding and jealousy was to begin all over again. But I saw that Harriet Braithwaite's eyes were fixed, not on Katherine's face, but on that of her husband, and Edwin Braithwaite's eyes held no expression that could cause jealousy in the breast of any wife if she were not a half-crazed neurotic.

As Harriet Braithwaite is one of the sanest and most perfectly poised women I know, I was not surprised to see her hand drop limply to her side, her tautened facial muscles relax and her eyes lose the tortured expression that had come into them when her husband's eyes met Katherine's.

That first moment of suspense had passed, but I knew that in the minds of these three—Katherine Bickett and Harriet and Edwin Braithwaite—was the same vivid memory of a time long past that was in mine.

Etched unforgettably upon my memory also was the picture of Katherine Bickett—then Katherine Sonnot—as she first appeared to me when she was sent to us as nurse for my mother-in-law through a severe attack of pneumonia in the early days of the World War. Petite, slender, brown-eyed, brown-haired, with a face like a cameo, she combined beauty, lovable charm and high-powered efficiency to the nth degree.

UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE

I had been instrumental in getting her the chance to go to France—her flaming ambition—in the hospital unit headed by Dr. Braithwaite. It was during her sojourn there that she met Jack Bickett, my distant cousin, and brought to him, in his great love for her, complete healing for the imaginary hurt he had suffered in my marriage to Dicky, which had sent him to France.

But before her marriage to Jack had come an experience which nearly had spelled heartbreak for herself and for the Braithwaites. The eminent surgeon, worn out by his labors, had been stricken with a virulent illness. Harriet was equally insistent with him that Katherine should be his chief nurse.

Her skill undoubtedly saved his life—his physicians said so—but his illness ravaged him to the point of exhaustion, and his convalescence was a long and up-hill fight for strength. Then it was that Dr. Braithwaite could have been cited as an instance of that pernicious old tenet—that all men in convalescence fall in love with their nurses.

This knowledge, possessed also by Harriet, did not make it easier for that faithful wife, however. But with courage, sympathy and discretion she not only kept her husband from suspecting her jealousy, but was a tower of friendly strength to Katherine during one of the most trying experiences a girl could have.

GENUINE AFFECTION

I had not dreamed that any trace of fear or jealousy had remained in Harriet's heart, until I saw that involuntary gesture of her hands to her throat and caught the tortured look of her eyes. But the sight of her recovery followed so closely upon her emotion that I breathed more easily, and then Katherine, easy, poised, took the situation in hand.

She crossed quickly to Harriet Braithwaite's side and held out her hands to the elder woman, giving a bright, casual little nod to the big surgeon as she did so.

"It is so good to see you again," she said warmly. "I came down on purpose to find you. Baby Faith is awake, and very anxious to receive the homage of the aunt and uncle who have not yet seen her."

I guessed that remorse for that sudden doubt was equally responsible with genuine affection for Katherine, in prompting the warm kiss and embrace Mrs. Braithwaite gave my little kinswoman. As she released her, Dr. Braithwaite put one hand upon his wife's shoulder and stretched the other hand to Katherine.

"It's wonderful to see you again," he said heartily. "And please don't lose a moment in taking us to see that blessed baby. We've been looking forward to seeing her for so long."

"How about the parents?" Katherine looked mischievously at me. "They will have to be in on this visit of inspection."

"Also mother." Harriet said hastily, with what I sympathetically recognized as a clear understanding of my mother-in-law's propensity for finding slights where none were intended.

"Shall I get Uncle Dicky and Granzie?" Mary said, at my elbow.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Squeezing Out the Winning Trick

One of the requirements of successful play of a hand at Contract is to retain as many methods of making the contract as is possible when there is a chance that more than one road may be available to the game or Slam.

It was an appreciation of this fact that permitted Mrs. Lewis Osborn in a recent game at a prominent club in New York to make a game contract which was not fulfilled by any other player holding her cards. The hand is interesting in that the correct line of play involved not the slightest risk compared with the incorrect line. When the contract is for game and you have already lost all the tricks you can before obtaining the lead, it is necessary at that time that you reserve all possible methods of taking the remaining tricks.

The hand was:

East, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ J 10 ♡ A Q J 8 7 6 ◇ Q 3 ♣ J 9 5
♠ 6 ♡ 9 3 2 ◇ K 5 4 2 ♣ A K 7 4 2	North West East South	Mrs. Osborn ♠ A K Q 4 3 2 ♡ 10 4 ◇ A 10 7 6 ♣ 3
	♠ 9 8 7 5 ♡ K 5 ◇ J 9 8 ♣ Q 10 8 6

The eventual contract where the accurate play was made was four spades. A few players had stopped at three, but with the length and strength in the spade suit, the game contract is no doubt justified.

The Opening lead was the heart King, followed by the low heart, which was won by North. Another round of hearts was now lead. Obviously East could not afford to ruff this heart with an honor as that must in itself establish at least one trump trick for the opponents. Therefore Mrs. Osborn played the spade 2, which was overruffed by South with the spade 5. South then shifted to the club 6, which was won with the Ace in Dummy. This is the crucial point in the play of the hand.

The contract now appears very doubtful. The Dummy does not contain sufficient entries to establish a long club to discard a losing diamond. One chance of making the contract would be to find the Queen-Knave of diamonds blank in either the North or South hand, but this is a remote chance, indeed, and other contingencies should be provided for. A second chance—much more probable than the first—would be to find South with four clubs and three diamonds. This holding makes certain the success of the contract by means of a squeeze if the groundwork for the squeeze is laid early enough.

Mrs. Osborn took all this into consideration and led the other high club, and then continued with a low club, which she ruffed in her own hand. Trumps were then drawn and continued, the seven of clubs being retained in Dummy. The result of this planning was that a perfect squeeze developed as South could not defend both diamonds and clubs. The situation, when it was East's turn to play at the tenth trick, was:

	♠ — ♡ J 7 ◇ Q 3 ♣ —
♠ — ♡ — ◇ K 5 4 ♣ 7	North West East South	♠ 3 ♡ — ◇ A 10 7 ♣ —
	♠ — ♡ — ◇ J 9 8 ♣ Q

The lead of the last spade completed the discomfiture of South. Obviously, the club must be retained, as otherwise the seven in Dummy is a trick-winner. Therefore, the 8 of diamonds was discarded. Dummy's club now was useless, so was discarded, but there was no defense that could now prevent East from winning the remaining tricks.

Today's Question

If the bidding goes:

South	West	North	East
1 N T	Double	Pass	?

and you are East with the following hand:

♠ A 9 7 ♡ K J 6 ◇ J 9 7 5 ♣ J 10 5

what do you bid?

Answer—You should make a Penalty Pass, for you and your partner should defeat South's one notrump doubled by at least 2 or 3 tricks.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Value of Transfusions in the War on Disease

It is interesting to browse through old medical books. They display rare and unusual illustrations. Some of them are rather startling.

In reading any text book on medicine you would learn that "cupping" and "bleeding" were practices resorted to in all baffling ailments. The modern physician knows that blood is precious and, rather than permit his patient to lose any of this vital fluid, he makes every effort to conserve it. Indeed, in some cases, the physician advises additional blood be given the patient.

Dr. Copeland

No doubt this radical change would astound the old-time doctor. He would be just as astonished at the method used to give the sufferer more blood.

This procedure is called a "transfusion." This consists of pumping healthy, normal blood into the blood vessels of a person who requires it. His deficiency may be the result of a severe hemorrhage, an illness or infection. The needed blood is obtained from a healthy individual known as a "blood donor."

Blood donors are licensed persons who are willing to dispose of a quantity of their blood for transfusion purposes. Certain states require these donors to report for periodic health examinations. They must supply satisfactory evidence that they are in perfect health and free from any disease.

If you could witness a blood transfusion you would be amazed at the simplicity of this procedure. After it the patient is comfortable and suffers no pain. But what is more amazing are the beneficial results obtained from a transfusion.

Prior to the transfusion, the sufferer is pale, listless and weak. Shortly after the transfusion, and, in some cases, even before it is completed, color appears in the cheeks of the sufferer, his lips assume a natural color and strength returns.

The borrowed blood mixes with the patient's weak blood, giving him strength and energy to combat disease and infection. It stimulates the bone marrow, liver, spleen and other organs that manufacture new and healthy red blood cells. The donor's blood acts as a tonic and its beneficial action cannot be overestimated. This procedure has preserved the life of many an individual who otherwise would have been doomed to death.

I am frequently asked whether a member of his own family can furnish the blood for the stricken individual. If the relative has the "type" of blood that corresponds with that of the sufferer he may be used as a donor.

There are four types of blood, referred to as "groups"; namely, groups one, two, three and four. The person supplying the blood has to belong to the same group as that of the individual receiving the blood. This is determined by means of a simple test called "typing". This must be performed before the transfusion is permitted.

Of course, it is only the trained physician who can determine the wisdom of the transfusion. But in suitable cases its good effects are amazing.

Household Hints

If when putting oilcloth on shelves or anywhere you use small drawing pins instead of tacks you will not split the wood.

Mayonnaise sauce that turns oily will thicken if another yolk of egg is added and the mixture stirred quickly the reverse way.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Beau catchers have taken to wandering. Once they dangled over beau catching eyes, now they peek out from under side locks and march across the nape of the neck; it is one way of disposing of short ends, when ends not quite so short are formed into curls and puffs and go skipping up the back of the head. All very enchanting.

To match hair to the color of the evening frock is no trick at all, not to the foxy hairdresser who knows how to do it. The beauteous one who would be the sensation of the party, takes a sample of her gown to the vender of pulchritude. Her locks are shampooed and finger waved, sprayed with brilliantine. Over the coiffure is sprinkled a colored powder-green, blue, bronze, gold, silver, any tint she likes. The brilliantine holds it fast. A fixative is applied, also by means of an atomizer. The effect is ravishing. Sometimes two shades are used. The fly in the ointment is this: next morning grandeur must be removed, hair shampooed, wave set again. But the glory is lovely while it lasts.

Correct Manners

Thanks for Passes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I received several passes from a certain young man. I thanked him for the passes, but I want to do the correct thing and send him a note of thanks. I want the note to be sincere, but not too friendly and not too "stiff." How shall I word this note?

T.

I am glad that you have decided to add a note of thanks to your spoken words of thanks. Such thoughtfulnesses as this deserve special gestures of appreciation.

Something like this, perhaps:

Dear Bill:

Please let me say again how very much I appreciate your goodness in thinking of me and in making such kind plans for my happiness. I have enjoyed, more than I can tell you, using the passes that you have given me, and this is a note to tell you so, and to thank you again for your friendliness and generosity.

All good wishes and friendliest greetings, and the hope to see you soon.

Most sincerely,

Don't 'Meet the Wife'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a husband is introducing his wife to a friend, which is the correct thing to say: "Meet my wife, Mrs. So-and-So," "Meet the Mrs," or "Meet my wife?"

V.

None of these forms is correct . . . In fact, please let me urge you to delete "meet" from the form of introduction that you use. And please throw all of these forms that you have suggested out of the window . . . they must not be used.

When a husband is introducing his wife, he may say, "Mrs. Allen, this is my wife," or "Miss Allen, my wife," and "Mary, may I present Mr. Walters," or "Mary, this is Mr. Alan Walters." When he is introducing a very close friend, one of whom Mary has heard a great deal and who has heard a great deal of Mary, he might say, "Mary, this is John," or "Mary, this is Alice Grant."

To the "TOO STOUTS" and the "TOO THINS"

You can REDUCE your weight or INCREASE your weight—by drinking milk. Astonishing! . . but true. If you're underweight—milk builds you up. If you're overweight—milk supplies what your body needs to maintain health and strength on a restricted diet.

Milk has other "magical" properties. It contains elements that prolong life—ward off disease—beautify the skin—keep your body trim and physically fit.

The milk you drink must be pure and fresh—of course. And that's the kind of milk Rieck has been supplying Pittsburgh for years.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL SHOWS INCREASED ATTENDANCE

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Two Pitt Stars Honored. Picked to Play for East. Officials Need Deflating. Hauser May Come Back. Baseball Trades Blocked. Trojans Crush Outsiders.

SKLADANY AND WALTON GOING TO COAST

That not all of football's best minds have been as unwilling to recognize the merits of the Pitt team as were those who gave the Panthers a hurried go-by when selecting Stanford's opponent for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, on New Year's Day, is evidenced by the fact that two of Jock Sutherland's regulars of the recent season have been chosen for a different feature on the Coast on the same date. Joe Skladany, all-America end, and Frank (Tiger) Walton, star tackle, have been picked by Coach Andy Kerr for his all-East team that will meet an all-West eleven in Kezar Stadium at San Francisco on New Year's Day in the annual game for the benefit of the Shriners' Hospital. Both players have accepted the invitation.

Joe Skladany

In recruiting his team each year for this charity event, Kerr endeavors to line up from the leading major elevens of the East the best performers among the senior stars who have completed their college gridiron careers. So the selection of Skladany and Walton is quite a tribute to the ability of those players themselves, as well as to the quality of the Pitt team. It will be the second trip to the Coast for both Panthers, as they played for Pitt against Southern California in the Rose Bowl game last January. In the last East-West game, Coach Babe Hollingbery's West team was the winner, 21 to 13.

OFFICIALS OVERESTIMATE OWN IMPORTANCE

Even if the football code-makers don't consent to make desirable changes in the rules—such as moving the ball in 15 yards instead of 10 when downed in the side zone, letting the defensive side run with a recovered fumble, and eliminating the dead-ball provision when a loose player touches the ground with any part of his body except his hands or feet—it is hoped the gridiron powers in another department will take steps to deflate some officials next season. Some officials ignore certain rules, and then go to extremes in enforcing certain others when an opportunity offers for the pulling of the dramatic. They like to appear important before the crowd.

It is recalled that Billy Evans once was delegated by the other umpires in the major baseball leagues to call on Commissioner K. M. Landis and demand the same share of World Series money that the players received. The response he got from the commissioner was: "Has it occurred to you and the other umpires that no one ever bought a ticket to a ball game to see umpires perform?" It has been suggested that that would be an excellent thing for football officials to keep in mind.

REDS MAY BRING HAUSER BACK TO MAJORS

The prospect that the National League ball will be livelier next year is causing some of the club owners to look around for batters who specialize in long hits. They're willing to overlook age, slowness or fielding faults.

Joe Hauser

One of them, Larry McPhail, the new boss of the Reds, goes so far as to talk of bringing old Joe Hauser back from the minors. McPhail, formerly head of the Columbus club, says he was impressed by Hauser's slugging for Minneapolis, in the American Association, last season, and believes that with a livelier ball in play Joe would be a good man for Cincinnati. He admits Hauser is getting along in years, but says the veteran still can ride the apple and the Reds will need hitters of that type.

Hauser last season established a new all-time record for home-run hitting, making 69 for Minneapolis. He made 49 for the same club in 1932, 31 for Baltimore in 1931, and 63 for Baltimore in 1930. Since he started playing in 1918, Joe has poled 354 round-trippers. He was with the A's for six seasons and spent part of 1929 with the Indians. His top homer mark in the majors was 27 for the A's in 1924. He started as a pitcher, but later shifted to the outfield and then to first base.

FORCED TO RETAIN CUYLER AND FERRELL

The announcement that the Chicago Cubs have signed Kiki Cuyler to a 1934 contract, and are counting on him again for regular duty in center field, doesn't mean that reqorts of an attempt to trade Cuyler several weeks ago were unfounded. A deal to send Cuyler to the Cincinnati club, with Pat Malone and Jim Mosolf, in exchange for Chick Hafey, was all set for closing, only to be blocked at the last moment by a sudden change in the ownership of the Reds. If the Cubs keep Cuyler it will be only because they couldn't get the man they wanted in exchange for the former Pirate outfielder.

The Cleveland club finds itself in a similar corner in the case of Pitcher Wes Ferrell. At the Galveston meeting last month the Indians offered to trade Ferrell to the A's for Pitcher George Earnshaw. Connie Mack turned the proposal down flatly, saying he thought Ferrell was washed up, while feeling sure that Earnshaw was not. With other American League managers sharing Mack's opinion of Ferrell, there probably won't be a chance to trade the Cleveland right-hander, so the Indians now announce that in all likelihood the pitcher will be retained and given a chance to try a comeback. It is said Ferrell will be offered a bonus contract calling for a very low base salary and the opportunity of earning a comfortable wage by winning 20 or more games.

TROJANS LEAD IN INTERSECTIONAL GAMES

Though Southern California is not to represent the Coast in the coming Rose Bowl game, the Trojans still are the outstanding team of the Far West, or of any other part of the country, for that matter, in the intersectional football records.

Howard Jones

Since Howard Jones took charge as head coach in 1925, he has carried on so successfully a drive started by Elmer Henderson in 1923 and 1924, that Southern California has surpassed all other colleges in defeating outside opponents.

Last Saturday's 31-to-0 victory over Georgia was the twenty-first scored by the Trojans in a total of 25 intersectional games played since 1923. Notre Dame has been the only team to beat the Coast stars in games of that type, all four of the intersectional defeats suffered by Southern California having been administered by the Irish. The Trojans have beaten Notre Dame four times; Pitt, Georgia, Utah and Utah Aggies twice each; and Carnegie Tech, Penn State, Syracuse, Tulane, Iowa, Missouri, Colorado, Denver and Hawaii once each. In the 25 games, the Trojans blanked their foes 11 times, and scored a total of 711 points against 158 for opponents, an average of better than 28 points per game against a fraction above six for the opposition.

MODIFIED MAT BOUTS FULL OF ACTION

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

Wrestling that was wrestling was served up at Motor Square Garden last night as the grapplers paid heed to the instructions of Dr. W. D. McClelland, the new boxing commissioner, and confined most of their activity to striving for and breaking holds and spent most of their time on the mat instead of outside the ring. Slugging was reduced to a minimum, generally just preceding the finish, and the fans got more straight wrestling than they have seen here in years on a single card.

Commissioner McClelland expressed himself at the finish as being highly pleased with the efforts of the grapplers and the promoter to live up to the instructions he imparted at a meeting in his office yesterday afternoon, and the fans also seemed well satisfied. The crowd was not as large as for the first show in the Garden, two weeks ago, which may have been due somewhat to the disgust of the patrons at the Joe Savoldi show at the Arena last Friday night, when the matmen gave them the entire "works."

GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

Staged in the new setting of the Garden, which has been entirely reconstructed inside, with elevated seats for lacrosse and other sports, and newly decorated, with fine vari-colored lighting effects, the show really was a good evening's entertainment, and a few more like it should go a long way toward finally giving wrestling a home here.

Gino Garibaldi, of Italy, threw Sun (Us) Jennings, Haskell Indian, in 23 minutes 49 seconds in the main bout, using a body slam for the fall in a hot finish.

Jim McMillen, former Illinois football star, disposed of Joe Devito, of St. Louis, in 15 minutes 4 seconds with a series of head butts and a body hold.

SCISSORS HALT NELSON

Paul Jones, of Texas, made Farmer Bill Nelson, St. Louis veteran, holler "enough" and resign under the pressure of a hook scissors after 18 minutes 33 seconds in probably the most interesting battle of the night, and Pat McGuire, of New Orleans, tossed John Kazanas, of Tennessee, with a body hold in 16 minutes 33 seconds.

The second bout was the only one to go the limit. In it, Orville Brown, rodeo star, won the decision over Milo Steinborn, the German Strong Man, in 30 minutes packed with hard wrestling.

Karl Davis was to have met McMillen, but is ill in New York, and Devito, who was to wrestle McGuire, was substituted for him, while Kazanas took Devito's place.

Between Rounds

Ted Yarosz received a slight cut on his left eye in his bout with Paul Pirrone in Cleveland last Monday night, but it will not prevent him from boxing Tony D'Alessandro in Boyloke, Mass., next Monday night. He leaves tonight for Boston to see the Vince Dundee-Andy Callahan title bout tomorrow night.

Commissioner W. D. McClelland tomorrow will attend his first meeting of the State Athletic Commission since he was returned to office. The contab in Philadelphia, was set back from yesterday.

Both Young Terry and Jimmy Smith, who meet in the main bout of the next boxing show in his Arena, on the North side, Friday night of next week, will arrive here three days ahead of the show and finish their training on the scene.

Matchmaker Lew Raymond announced today. The winner probably will box Ted Yarosz, over whom Terry already holds a decision, while Smith was one of the first opponents to defeat Lou Brouillard.

The Arena has arranged with Jack Curley to have his wrestlers tone down their stuff in future shows, and is angling to have Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight boxing champion, who started out as a wrestler and now has gone back to the mat, appear in one of the bouts of its next show.

Believe It Or Not (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By Ripley

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: RUSSIA'S MAN OF STEEL—Josef "Stalin," the virual ruler of Sovet Russia, was born in Gori, Georgia, in 1879, the descendant of many generations of peasant cobblers. His mother, who now resides in a palace in Tiflis, originally intended him for the priesthood, but he was expelled from the seminary for revolutionary activities. Between 1898 and 1917 he was arrested and exiled six times. He escaped five times and was liberated the last time by the advent of Kerensky. As the secretary general of the Central Committee of the Communist party, he is the virtual ruler of the Soviets, the largest workers' organization in the world, he who never has done a day's manual labor in his life. THE SPEAR POINT OF THE CRUCIFIXION—Etchmiadzyn, Armenia, is the ecclesiiastical capital of the Armenian Church and seat of the Armenian primate. Its principal church was built by Saint Gregory for the express purpose of receiving the head of the very spear with which a Roman soldier pierced the side of the Saviour. THE GROWING GRAVE—The grave of St. Daniar (Daniel), in Samarkand, which now is 60 feet long, 6 feet wide and appears to be filled by a colossus, has grown steadily ever since the Russians occupied the country. The natives believed that the grave is destined to reach the rock opposite, and that the hour of liberation from the Russian yoke then will have struck. The Russian sentries stationed before the grave to prevent the priests from adding to its length were unable to stop the inexplicable growth.

Lacrosse Squad Reports Saturday

Pittsburgh's lacrosse squad, which will play the box or indoor form of the sport in Motor Square Garden as a member of the National League this winter, is due to arrive in Pittsburgh Saturday morning and will work out that night for the opening game next Tuesday night.

The players are being imported from Canada, where lacrosse long has been a popular sport.

LOWER TICKET PRICES AID COMEBACK

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Based on figures gathered by the Associated Press from all parts of the country and tabulated today, college football attendance for 1933 increased 13 per cent, as compared with the previous season, and appears to have recovered approximately half the business lost at the turnstiles during the 1931-32 decline.

Reduced ticket prices generally have helped the gridiron recovery program, but the extent to which popular support has been rallied to the sport, following two somewhat disastrous seasons from the financial viewpoint, has exceeded the most optimistic expectations of college leaders.

PRO TEAMS GAIN

This year's increase compares with a decline of 15 per cent in national attendance in 1932 and a drop of 10 per cent in 1931.

At the same time, reports from eastern clubs in the National Professional Football League indicate increases in attendance this year ranging as high as 50 per cent. Figures for the entire circuit have not been made public, but official sources today revealed the attendance for games in New York was doubled.

The cross-section of college attendance, on which the national figures are based, comes from the detailed reports of 46 institutions. Of these 35 show increases, ranging as high as 100 per cent in the cases of Fordham, St. Mary's and Santa Clara, while only 11 show decreases for the 1933 season.

The aggregate attendance for the entire 46 colleges and universities was 7,026,408 as compared with a grand total of 6,109,015 for the previous season. This represents a gain of 917,393 or approximately 13 per cent.

The middle west recorded the biggest gains, with 13 colleges exceeding the previous year's total attendance by 350,000. The increase among far western schools, 14 in number, totaled 326,000. Eleven Eastern institutions showed an aggregate increase of 219,000.

SOUTH HOLDS OWN

The South, on the basis of reports from eight schools, barely held its own with an increase of only 21,000.

Following is a comparison of the section figures for this year and last:

	Colleges.	Attendance 1933.	Attendance 1932.
East	11	2,296,478	2,076,533
Far West	14	2,220,436	1,894,408
Middle West	13	2,032,667	1,682,415
South	8	476,827	455,659

By W. A. ALEXANDER
Member, All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

Since there are so many good football teams in this section, it is quite possible to select an all-star eleven and include not more than one man from each school. The writer has done this through personal observation and recommendations of coaches and scouts from all over the broad area included in this survey.

Naturally, with so many good football teams in the field, many men deserving of a place on the first eleven were omitted, yet it is likely that the team selected here represented the best players judged on consistency of play at each position. The selections range from North Carolina to Texas. In the list of honorable mention are only those players specifically recommended by coaches and scouts.

THE ENDS

Petty, of Baylor, and Geisler, of Centenary, are two of the best flankmen this section ever has produced. Jim Tom Petty weighs 165 pounds, and plays an unusually smart game defensively. He is a great pass receiver and, in addition does all of the punting for his team and does it well.

Geisler, of the strong Centenary team, is rated one of the best ends in America by officials and coaches who have seen him play for three years. He made several second All-America selections last season on his rugged defensive play and his exceptional skill at receiving passes. He weighs 190 pounds and stands 6 feet 2 inches.

Huston, of Alabama; Rogers, of Duke; Slocum, of Georgia Tech, and Reasor, of Mercer, were close to these men in effectiveness over the season.

THE TACKLES

It would be hard to find two better tackles in any season than Lester Olsson, of Mercer, and Charles Cummings, of Texas A. & M. They are 200-pounders, fine physical specimens, who can vary their charge and know football. They have been consistently good all season.

Lee, of Alabama; Tharpe and Williams, of Georgia Tech; Booth, of Loyola, and Crawford, of Duke, are other outstanding players who will be named on many all-star selections from this section.

THE GUARDS

At guard, Barclay, of North Carolina, is one of the best defensive men the writer ever has seen in action. His play has been the standout feature of every game the Tarheels played this year. He never let up, although cast with a weak team.

Chambless, of Auburn, was the wheelhorse of the Auburn line and never failed to play a fine game, win or lose. Both men have speed and know how to block perfectly. Moorehead, of Georgia, was an exceptional guard whose effectiveness was cut down in one or two important games by injuries. Hupke, of Alabama, and Ellis, of Tennessee, were above the average in their positions.

THE CENTERS

Kent, of Louisiana State, was the best center in this section. He is a senior and scales 197 pounds. He backed up the line in great fashion, and no better man could be found for dropping back into pass defense. He was consistent from start to finish.

Robinson, of Tulane, a sophomore, is a real comer who cannot be omitted from future consideration. Maples, of Tennessee, had the misfortune to be injured in one or two important games and his great ability was lost to his club.

THE QUARTERBACKS

Jack Griffith, of Georgia, was one of the best quarterbacks seen in the South in many a season. He seemed to be the best field general of them all. His errors, if any, were on the conservative

J. J. FREUND

Want to know something about the new basketball season?

Something about the rules changes, the status of the officials, the college, school, pro and independent teams and all of the latest gossip in the game?

Well, if John J. (Johnny) Freund can't tell you what you want to know you'll have to get a committee to supply the information, for he's a walking encyclopedia of basketball, in addition to being the king of local promoters of the sport over a long period of years.

Tonight, at 7 o'clock, Freund will be guest speaker of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE, in an interview with Harry Keck, sports editor.

Y. M. H. A. FIVE FACES AKRON

One of the best basketball attractions of the season will be staged on the Y. M. H. A. floor tonight when the local Y passers engage the Akron Y. M. H. A.

BIG TEN MAY ADMIT NEW MEMBER

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The door may be opened for either Notre Dame, Nebraska, Michigan State or Marquette to join the Western Conference, better known as the Big Ten, before another football season rolls around.

Proposed plans to merge the University of Chicago and Northwestern University, a move that would automatically reduce the Conference's membership to nine and leave a spot open, were reported progressing so rapidly today by its proponents that the consolidation may be effected by the time the 1934 fall term opens.

Under the merger plan, Northwestern would become strictly an undergraduate school, and Chicago would revert to a post-graduate university.

Of the four probable candidates for membership in the Big Ten, Michigan State was regarded as the most probable choice of the conference leaders. Nebraska was considered too far removed from Conference territory as well as belonging to the Big Six, an enterprising group; the old feud between Fielding H. Yost, of Michigan and the late Knute K. Rockne probably would block Notre Dame's request for admission, whereas Marquette's football team last season was far below Big Ten standard.

LOCAL BOOTERS FACE BUSY CAMPAIGN

By TOM BIRKS

Fans of the district are going to see plenty of soccer between next Saturday afternoon and New Year's Day. All of the local league games must be played by the first of the year, which means that the Keystone, Panhandle, Mon-Yough and Allegheny Valley circuits will be kept busy.

Then there are the national open and amateur competions, which have preliminary rounds under way now, and the West Penn senior and junior cup duels to be played.

This list of tussles will be topped by the annual international match, featuring the home-breds opposing the foreign-born players scheduled for Greenlee Field New Year's Day. This will be the only soccer game on that day. This season the Western Pennsylvania commission has taken different steps to select the teams for the battle. In previous years a committee was appointed by the president of the local governing body, and it selected the teams.

Now managers will have to submit the names of the players on their teams they wish to see in the important match.

GRID DEATHS SHOW DROP FOR 1933

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Despite increased participation by high school and sandlot players, deaths from football in the season just closed show a decline from the high marks of 1931 and 1932 in a survey made by the Associated Press.

Reports from all sources show 26 deaths directly attributable to the game and 10 more in which injuries in play may have been a contributing factor. One of the deaths was that of a 13-year-old girl. These figures compare with 50 deaths recorded in 1931 and 38 last year.

Not one college varsity player is on the list and only five college freshmen, of which number only two can be listed as definitely having died from injuries received in supervised games or practice.

The deaths, including the 10 "doubtful" fatalities, are segregated as follows: college five; high school 16; sandlot 13; semi-pro and athletic clubs, two.

The record leads Floyd R. Easterwood, of New York University, who conducted a similar survey for the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, to the conclusion that, on the whole, the game appears to have been played more safely this year than ever before. New rules and newly devised safeguards for the players seem to be accomplishing their purpose.

GIANTS' STAR CLASS OF LEAGUE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Just as Chuck Klein stole the batting show in the National League this year, so did Carl Hubbell make a runaway race of the pitching competition.

Official averages of the Heydler circuit published today show the Giants' great left-hander to have established the best earned-run mark in the league since the heyday of Grover Alexander.

LOW IN EARNED RUNS

Hubbell, winning 23 and losing 12 games for the Terry Clan, allowed only 1.66 earned runs per nine-inning game. This represents the best effort since 1916, when Aleck the Great allowed only 1.55 tallies per game. Carl pitched the most innings, 309; he won the most games, 23, and pitched the most shutouts, 10.

Lonnie Warneke, Cubs' star, who was off a bit in his victories, finished second to Hubbell in the point of earned run efficiency with a mark of 2.01. Hal Schumacher, of the Giants, was third with 2.15.

PAUL SHINES IN DEFEAT

Much was made of the fact that Paul Derringer, Reds' big right-hander, lost 27 games to top the hurlers in this unenviable direction, but it has not been brought out that Derringer's earned run average is better than that of stars like Tex Carleton, Red Lucas, Ray Benge, Si Johnson, Bill Hallahan, Walter Beck, Heinie Meine, Owen Carroll and Pat Malone.

The figures disclose that Derringer actually outpitched the flingers enumerated, but with the Reds behind him he was almost a sure shot to lose each contest.

DEAN STRIKEOUT KING

Jerome Dean, of St. Louis, pitched in the most games, 48; struck out the most batters, 199, leading for the second successive year, and with Lonnie Warneke, of Chicago, tied for most complete games pitched, 26. Dean established a new modern record (since 1900) by striking out 17 Chicago players in the first game of a doubleheader played at St. Louis on July 30. The former record was 16, made by Frank Hahn, of Cincinnati, against Boston, May 22, 1901, and duplicated by Christopher Mathewson, of New York, against St. Louis, October 3, 1904, and G. Napoleon Rucker, of Brooklyn, against St. Louis (second game), July 24, 1909.

Lyle Tinning, of Chicago, is the leading pitcher on the won-and-lost basis, with a percentage of .684, winning 13 games and losing 6.

LARRY FACES MANY

Larry French faced the most batters, 1,209, and for the third consecutive year allowed the most base hits, 290.

Leroy Parmelee, of New York, hit the most batters, 14, and made the most wild pitches, 14.

Nine pitchers, six more than last year, were in 20 or more complete games.

Carl Hubbell, of New York, established a new National League record for consecutive scoreless innings, with 46, from July 13 to and including August 1, breaking the former record of 44 made by Edward M. Reulbach, of Chicago, in 1908.

KENTUCKY BID IS DECLINED BY LAYDEN

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Chet Wynne, head coach at Auburn, today appeared to have the inside track leading to selection as head football coach of the University of Kentucky after Elmer Layden, Duquesne coach, said he was "not interested" and "satisfied where I am."

The University of Kentucky athletic council, seeking to replace Harry Gamage, who has resigned, deferred its selection after a meeting yesterday at which Wynne and Capt. John McEwan, coach of the Brooklyn professional team, were interviewed.

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman, said the council still was considering the applications of Wynne, McEwan, W. T. Van De Graf, Colorado College, and others, but that it was unlikely that Paul Jenkins, Kentucky alumnus and coach of Ashland High School, would be selected.

Maj. Ralph Sasse, former Army coach, has withdrawn his application. It was understood in campus circles that Wynne's application was highly favored by the council.

Peabody High Squad Gets Title Trophy

The Fintex Trophy, emblematic of the City High School League football championship, was presented to the Peabody High School eleven at an assembly held in the school auditorium this afternoon. The presentation was made by Melvin Morgan, local head of the Fintex Corporation.

Peabody won its first City League championship by defeating South Hills High School in a post-season game at Forbes Field, 13 to 0. Peabody was the Section I champion and South Hills the Section II titleholder.

D. E. Miller, principal, was master of ceremonies. Among the speakers were C. L. Walsh, supervisor of the department of hygiene; Clarence E. (Buddy) Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

SPORT VIGNETTES

This, as Milo Steinborn, the German Strong Man among the wrestlers, placidly said, truly is a small world.

Milo was on the card at Motor Square Garden last night. He arrived in town a few days before the show and sort of strolled around and met people, and, whether intentionally or not, did some good missionary work for his cause.

He is a stocky, burly man of the real strong-man type that you see advertised in the physical cultural magazines. He speaks with a German accent, although he has been in this country since 1921.

He was keenly interested in our wrestling situation at the moment, with Commissioner Dr. W. D. McClelland insisting that the grapplers do more grappling and less of this and that and so forth. He said:

"Well, when you're in Rome you must do as the Romans do, and when you're in Pittsburgh you do as they tell you. I am going to have a talk myself with my brother wrestlers before they go into the ring and tell them what's what, and we'll show you some real wrestling.

"It has been only in recent years that we have been putting on all of this rough stuff, because the fans in many cities demand it. I was on with Ray Steele in New Haven just recently and we were doing some mighty fine wrestling. I haven't worked so fast in a long time. We both were getting a kick out of it because we were doing good, scientific work, but you would have thought we were in a church, it was so quiet. So then we began to mix it up and the crowd awoke and gave us a hand.

"That's the way it goes. But we wrestlers are adaptable. If the people of Pittsburgh want wrestling with the carnival stuff left out, that's what we'll give them. All we want is a fair chance. A few shows with the fans bearing with us and I think we'll go over in a big way. Real wrestling really is easier for us than the rough stuff. It's no fun to find yourself thrown out into the third or fourth row of the seats, for the floors are hard and they haven't invented rubber chairs yet.

"You know, Pittsburgh has been a dead spot for so long in a wrestling way that we'll do almost anything to put our stuff across here. I remember my old friend, Youssof Hussane, the Terrible Turk, with whom I broke in, back in 1921, telling me about two big gates he drew here with Joe Stecher that year. I've never forgotten it and often have wondered why this fine start never led enywhere."

"So you knew Hussane? Well, THERE was a fellow. Well do I remember his two bouts with Joe Stecher at the old Exposition building, down at the Point. Both of them drew around $5,000. Then he disappeared. What ever became of him?"

Milo smiled his rugged smile, saying:

"So you, too, knew my old friend, Youssof? What a small world this is, after all! Youssof now is retired. He runs a hotel near Constantinople, and has a son about 28 years old. He is well fixed. But tell me something about those bouts between Youssof and Stecher. He often talked about them. They seemed to be high spots in his career."

"But it's a long story."

"Time is no object—tell me about them. Some day I will run into him again, and I want to tell him I played a part, years later, in rebuilding wrestling in Pittsburgh, which he remembered so favorably and so well."

"Well," I began—

But it's a long story, as I remarked to Milo, and tomorrow's Vignettes will tell you what I told the eager Milo Steinborn.—HARRY KECK.

ALL-SOUTHERN HONORS SPLIT

side. Now and then he called surprising plays that succeeded because of their audacity. He was a superb blocker, a good passer and punter and an able defensive man.

Williams, of Auburn, was a senior quarterback who did exceptionally well in handling his team.

THE HALFBACKS

There seemed to be more good halfbacks than ever before in the South, and any effort to select two of the number as best leaves the selector wide open to criticism.

For one of them I take Beattie Feathers, of Tennessee. The big Indian is a crafty cunning player who never was caught napping on defense. He is as fast as any man with a football under his arm, yet he weighs 195 pounds. This weight makes him a hard runner to stop on bucking plays, and when an extra yard was needed Feathers could get it on any team. He was the type of runner who could go to work and score on any team even when his own men were failing to do their assignments. He is a punter as good as any in the country, and an extra good pass thrower and receiver. No all-Southern selection could omit Feathers.

Howell, of Alabama, is a genuine triple-threat star who runs, passes and punts above the average. He is invaluable to his team as a safety man. He was certain to get away for a long punt return in every game.

The other halfbacks mentioned in the honor roll were all exceptional as blockers or ball carriers.

THE FULLBACKS

Jack Phillips, of Georgia Tech, I feel safe in putting into the fullback position without hearing a single dissenting voice. He weighs 195 pounds, and is a 60-minute player. He is a powerful plunger, a fine blocker and is without a superior in throwing bullet passes. His defensive play in backing up the Tech line has been outstanding in every game over a hard schedule.

Chapman, of Georgia, was a hard line-cracker and a first-class defensive player. He was injured in two important games, but his play was effective every time he started.

MOVAN LOSES TO KOBEDA

The defeat of Teddy Movan, of the McKeesport A. C., and the victory of Johnny Ungerman featured the Allegheny County 147, 160 and 175-pound elimination bouts of the Western Pennsylvania amateur boxing tournament at the Palisades, McKeesport, last night.

The bouts originally were scheduled for a two-night stand, but due to an early start and to the fact that a number of boxers failed to appear, it was possible to stage the trials in a single evening.

Movan, who has set a sensational pace as an amateur, suffered a badly cut eye in knocking out his first opponent of the evening, Charles Prisalac, of Braddock, in the first round. The injury proved to be a severe handicap, and he lost the decision to Steve Kobeda, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, in his second bout.

147-POUND CLASS.

160-POUND CLASS.

James Wolfe defeated Tony Rizzo, McKees Rocks.

George Lupanacci defeated Eddie Nichols.

KELLY DEFEATS GREENLEAF

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The world pocket billiard tournament was in a state of turmoil today following the sensational defeat of the defending champion, Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, 125 to 85 in 25 innings, by George Kelly, of Philadelphia.

The stunning upset occurred last night and knocked Greenleaf, 12 times champion, out of a five-way tie for first place and gave the winner his first victory in the tournament.

As matters stood today Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland; Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia; James Caras, of Wilmington, Del., and Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., were left alone in the undefeated class with one victory apiece. Ponzi meets Pasquale Natalie, of Chicago, and Rudolph plays Charles Seaback, of Astoria, N. Y., this afternoon, while tonight Caras, last year's runner-up, tangles with Benny Allen, of Kansas City.

STOCKS POINT TO HIGHER LEVELS

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Creeping stocks pointed toward higher levels today notwithstanding the absence of important news from either the political or economic sectors.

The dollar firmed in terms of pounds and French francs as the domestic gold rate was unchanged, but currency fluctuations were rather narrow. Equity specialties were in moderate demand and gains of fractions to more than a point predominated in the early hours. "Quiet accumulation" was the phrase used by bullish commission houses. Grains, cotton and other commodities were mildly mixed. Bonds, including U. S. Government securities, were somewhat irregular.

Although stock dealings were still almost entirely professional, brokerage firms reported some nibbling by outsiders and a pick-up in odd-lot business. With the inflationary stimulus lacking, many of those who bought shares as a hedge against currency expansion were said to be holding because of indications that trade and industry over the next several months will show substantial improvement.

That the President in his speech last night did not touch on the administration's monetary program probably was disappointing to some, but occasioned no surprise among those who have been watching closely the developments at Washington. Banking circles, while hoping for some "sound money" pronouncement in the near future, feel that the domestic and international situations are such that a definite stand on the money problem is not likely at the moment.

The recent strength of the dollar in terms of leading foreign exchanges was attributed by various dealers partly to short covering by European speculators because of continued stabilization rumors broad. At the same time, financial houses with foreign connections report there has been some repatriation of American capital that fled to pounds and francs some months ago due to inflationary fears.

Some financial quarters believe that the foreign short position in the dollar is extremely heavy despite the recent sporadic covering. Rumors that Washington and London had agreed to hold the dollar-pound rate between $5 and $5.25 were not taken seriously by usually well-informed bankers. The opinion, however, was expressed that both the British and American authorities would prefer quieter exchange markets, at least for the time being.

WHEAT FIRMS AFTER SAG

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Grain prices developed firmness today after a wavering start. Commission houses became rather active buyers on setbacks in values. Opening at ¼-⅝ decline, wheat afterward rose to above yesterday's finish. Corn started ⅜-⅝ off and subsequently rallied.

Failure of wheat market upturns to hold well led subsequently to some increase of selling that carried prices lower than before, but with rallies again following. Provisions were responsive to upturns of hog values.

ORTHODOX NOW HETERODOX IN FINANCE

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—With the administration at Washington testing out the advanced monetary theories of Prof. George F. Warren at Cornell, heterodoxy is now in the seat of power, and has become the orthodoxy of the period.

Mr. Rukeyser

As a result, the classic orthodox economist is now in the position of critic and agitator, and the spokesmen for the orthodox view, including Prof. O. M. W. Sprague, of Harvard and E. W. Kemmerer, of Princeton, are somewhat on the defensive. The controversial tables have temporarily been turned.

WITHHOLD ADVICE

With the monetary debate raging, the theories of specialists have again become first page news. The professors are prescribing through the press but on a continued story basis. They are using the technique of dramatic suspense, teasing their readers and withholding advice. However, by the time Congress meets in January, the full story will have been told.

Meantime, though recognizing that the doctors disagree, President Roosevelt has made a definite choice of remedies, and is testing out its efficacy.

In the heat of the argument, some of the reactionaries make it appear that the patient wasn't even sick, forgetting that when Mr. Roosevelt took office, the banking system of the country, overdosed with "sound money," was in a state of temporary collapse.

MORE BUSINESS GOAL

As a matter of fact, as a statesman Mr. Roosevelt should be concerned chiefly with objectives, rather than technique. He need have no pride of theory, and if after adequate test he finds the Warren method deficient, he need have no hestitancy in turning to another. The goal should be to raise the gross value of business and employment. As a natural consequence of such a stepup in the circulation of goods and services, there would doubtless be an improvement in the general price level, which would be brought nearer to the plane which prevailed when debts were incurred.

The Treasury is regularly checking the gold policy against measurable economic results, and is of the opinion that thus far it has coincided with, if not caused, an improvement in the general business situation. The administration is encouraged by the curbing of the downward trend in prices and in volume.

The American recovery program is unquestionably the outstanding economic factor in the world situation. This is because normally more than 4C per cent of the world's total turnover takes place within our borders.

INFLATION HIT AT PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer, economist, today had announced that 10 members of Princeton University's department of economics, out of a staff of 25, had signed a declaration warning against the dangers of currency inflation.

Inflation, the declaration states, would be harmful to the nation at large, adversely affecting: (1) working people whose wages would increase less rapidly than the cost of living; (2) beneficiaries of life insurance; (3) bank depositors, and (4) hospitals, colleges and other institutions whose endowment funds are invested in bonds and mortgages.

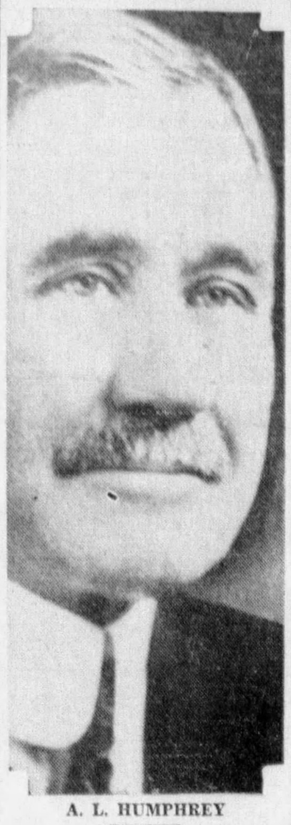
New Chairman



A. L. HUMPHREY

'BRAKE' ELECTS A. L. HUMPHREY

Marking the culmination of 30 years' service and leadership with the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, A. L. Humphrey has been elected chairman of the board. Formerly an executive director and president, Humphrey fills an important post left vacant by the recent death of H. H. Westinghouse. His election also marks the passing of the chairmanship from the immediate Westinghouse family for the first time since the founding of the company in 1869.

Starting his career as a machinests' apprentice in 1877, Humphrey later rose to hold several commanding positions with western railroads.

He relinquished the position of superintendent of motive power of the Chicago and Alton Railroad in 1903 to join the Westinghouse Air Brake Company as western manager with offices at Chicago, coming to Pittsburgh in 1905.

TREASURY ASKS BILLION LOAN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Owing to uncertain market conditions the Treasury's December 15 offering of $950,000,000 in one-year certificates carried the somewhat higher than usual rate on this class of securities of 2¼ per cent interest, the highest since 1931.

Announcement of the issue was made today by Acting Secretary Morgenthau.

The proceeds will be used to retire about $725,000,000 in ¾ and 4¼ per cent certificates, maturing December 15; about $114,000,000 interest on the public debt and other normal and emergency expenses of the government.

As a result of the issue the public debt will be increased by more than $222,000,000 to about $23,770,000,000, the highest figure since 1920.

Morgenthau said that preliminary reports showed the issue had an excellent reception from the investing public. He added the Treasury considered short term certificates the most advantageous type of financing at this time from the standpoint of the public and the government.

LONDON LOWERS GOLD PRICE

International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The international gold price was lowered 11 pence (about 22 cents) today to 126 shillings per ounce, with a premium of seven pence over the French rate.

This was equal to about $32.19 in American currency at today's opening exchange rate of $5.11½ to the pound sterling.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP.)—The government continued a six-day-old gold price today as it entered the money market to borrow $950,000,000.

The RFC quotation of $34.01 an ounce was the highest since gold buying began. But it was the same fixed just before Thanksgiving. Since that time, with the price for newly-mined domestic gold the same, the government bond market has been firmer.

Life Insurance Leaders Urge Stabilization

By B. C. FORBES

WHICH CONSTITUTES the largest group in America—exclusive, of course, of consumers?

Mr. Forbes

Not wage-earners—according to the last census there were 48,830,000 persons gainfully employed.

Not farmers, of whom there are about 32,000,000.

Not stockholders and bondholders, estimated to exceed 20,000,000.

Not savings bank depositors, totaling over 39,000,000.

There are 66,000,000 of them.

I learn that the leaders, the champions, the safeguarders of the interests of this colossal army plan to address a communication to President Roosevelt, either direct or publicly, earnestly urging prompt stabilization of our currency on a gold basis, and warning against setting money-printing presses in motion.

Presidents of companies representing almost nine-tenths of all life insurance issued in America have gathered in New York for their annual convention.

THEY ARE greatly perturbed over currency uncertainty. In private talks they have impressed upon me their opposition to any and every newfangled scheme for hatching a "commodity dollar." They recount the disastrous experiences of countries which attempted to meet government expenditures simply by turning more and more reams of paper into "money;" they liken unsecured printing-press money to dope or other drugs which have to be used in ever-increasing doses—until total collapse occurs.

The representatives of our 66,000,000 men, women and children who are interested in maintaining the worth, the purchasing power of their savings are not disposed to presume to tell President Roosevelt or Congress just how much the dollar should be "devalued," just what gold content should be fixed, whether on the old 100 cents basis (which is generally recognized as entirely out of the question) or 75 cents or 60 cents or 50 cents.

Insurance policyholders form the largest class of creditors in the whole land. They carry policies aggregating a hundred billion dollars, equal to fully three times the present market value of all the 1,292,000,000 shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Hence their interest in being able to look forward to receiving—and having their beneficiaries receive—dollars possessing reasonable purchasing power.

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER L.

"I think I begin to understand it all," gravely said Tony O'Brien.

"I had no right to deceive you so. I'm sorry. I'm sorry at the very heart of me," said Nollie Day, "and now you'll never believe me again."

Tony said nothing for a moment. He stared into space. Then he drew a long breath, and asked: "And what about Jack Brilling?"

Nollie had known that this would come.

"I worked in his office, as you know. One night, when I'd worked late, I did a foolish, an indiscreet thing—I took supper with him."

"Where?"

"In a little restaurant on the corner of Broad street. It came about quite casually. I didn't know he was engaged—or anything."

"So?"

"His fiancee heard about it. She came in the office next day. She was—angry with me."

"I know that Madeleine made a scene," he said, "I knew that for months and months she'd been jealous as the dickens of any woman who came within a mile of Brilling."

"There was no cause whatever to be jealous of me, Tony. I never had any designs upon him."

"But you resigned your job?"

"Well, call it that. She made it impossible for me to stay. But I do think——"—Nollie smiled with a certain pathetic bravery—"I made my exit with flying colors."

Rhoda had motored over to the Galbraith place with Madeleine. In making this departure Rhoda had her own motive.

Save her face. Don't have the laugh on her. Tony had proposed to and been accepted by this little upstart of a secretary!

WEDDING ARRANGED

Ted White's plot had failed. Whatever he had tried to do, he had been foiled. He had departed from the ball early in the evening.

Mrs. Judson had announced the news toward the conclusion of the ball. When Rhoda had shown intense surprise, Mrs. Judson had snubbed her.

"For the love of Mike, do try to be a sport. If you act otherwise, they'll only think that you are jealous."

That had gone home. It had been true. Rhoda wasn't a woman of the world for nothing.

"Sour grapes," everybody would think it, if she tried to make trouble for this girl and Tony O'Brien . . .

They all knew she'd had "a pash" for the young Irishman.

Best carry the matter off high-handedly.

Rhoda was nobody's fool, she told herself, and she wouldn't give the cats cause to say she had been "jilted."

* * *

"The wedding shall be from here," announced Mrs. Judson in her clear, determined voice, "and I shall invite everybody and we shall have a grand celebration."

"No, please. Let it be quiet," said Nollie earnestly.

Tony echoed her wish.

Their wedding day would be their own great day. Why should they have a lot of curious spectators?

Jinny Judson finally gave in . . . or rather compromised.

She—and an old beau of her's who was arriving from Europe and would visit her ranch—would be the witneseses.

Nollie was in a marvelous dream of happiness.

Love! It had come to her at last! The greatest miracle in her life had happened to her!

"D'you know, she and Madeleine Galbraith had a plot against you in conjunction with that little rat of a Ted White?" said Jinny Judson.

BORN ANEW

Now Nollie hadn't said a word to any one about Ted White's intrusion in her room the night of the big party, nor of his exit from the same, considerable knocked about by Tony.

So why speak now? Let sleeping dogs lie! Wasn't that a sensible proverb?

Yvonne sewed well, and she was fond of Nollie.

"Whatever plot they had—if it is so—didn't come off—and so let's forget it all," said Nollie to Tony.

Tony and Nollie were married on a glorious, sunny day, with the light filigreeing down on them through the birch and pine tops.

Oh! beautiful the marriage service was! She would be worthy of it all—of this wonderful Tony!

The greatest thing in the world had come to her.

She was born anew, or—apter still—she'd never lived before. Glorious vistas were opening before her.

"Do you take this woman for your lawful wife . . . to have and to hold, 'till death do you part?"

The words of the marriage service were a sanctimony.

"Nollie . . . my little wife!" Tony whispered when he had set the ring upon her finger.

"My husband!" breathed Nollie, very low.

The Interstate Commerce Act (1887) to regulate enterprises affecting community at large (mainly railroads), the Dawes Act (1887) conferring citizen ship to Indians, the restoration of 80 million acres public land from usurpation, marked the new era.

MARRIAGE OF QUEEN VICTORIA TO PRINCE ALBERT

After a Painting by Sir George Hayter, R. A.

Victoria's reign over Great Britain (1837-1901) was long, prosperous and comparatively peaceful. Married in 1840 to Albert, Prince of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, she gained an able councellor, trained in statesmanship and possessing wide knowledge of international politics; he tactfully and prudently avoided meddling into state affairs. Prince Albert's appeasing suggestions were instrumental to avoid war between England and the United States in 1861, when the Federalists had seized two Confederate envoys from the British mail steamer "Trent" on the sea. Soon after Prince Consort Albert died, mourned by his Queen until death.

TAPPING STEEL OFF A TILTING OPEN HEARTH FURNACE

Open hearth process—to make steel from pig iron—originated with the Siemens brothers and Pierre Martin in 1864. The open hearth furnace has a wide saucer-shaped hearth, lined with magnesite ("basic process;" the "acid process" having silica lining) and a low roof (right).

First limestone, then scrap iron or iron oxide ore are dumped into the hearth, finally pig iron is charged; producer-gas or oil-spray is burned in an airblast over the hearth melting the charge. Impurities, C, P, S, Si are burned out or fused into the slag. Fuel and air are preheated by passing through a checkerwork of firebricks that has been made red hot previously by combustion gases. Process takes 8-12 hours. At tapping, high carbon steel, Mn, and other desoxidizers are added to obtain the desired composition. Slag flows out last, overrunning ladle.

WILD BLACK CHERRY (PRUNUS SEROTINA)

The Rose family (Rosaceae) — trees, shrubs, herbs — comprises about 100 genera with 1,500 species. The wild black cherry, genus Prunus, belongs to it. It has alternate, simple, serrate leaves, perfect flowers in drooping racemes. Fruit is purplish black, juicy drupe in drooping clusters with stony seed. Range: Nova Scotia-Texas, growing on fertile soil. Its wood is medium heavy, hard, strong, durable, valuable for furniture, finish, tools, implements.

STEAM HEATING SYSTEM (General Science)

Boiler generates steam led into the radiators, where it condenses giving off latent heat (cca. 537 calories pr. gram water) conveyed to the surroundings by convection and radiation. Condensed water leaves radiators practically at boiling temperature, the usual temperature of radiators in operation.

Above: Steam heating system and its main parts.

Steam heat utilizes about 65% of the heat value of fuel, gives clean, quick heat, is suitable for tall buildings. Disadvantages: High initial cost, lack of ventilation, space taken by radiators, need of greater care.

ARTHROPODA, JOINTED FOOTED ANIMALS

Arthropods make the twelfth and greatest animal phylum consisting of about 632,000 species including crustaceans, spiders, insects and miriapods. Crustaceans (about 16,000 species) are the crayfish, lobster, crab, shrimp (latter listed erroneously under molluscs, 11th phylum) and other aquatic animals. Their bodies are protected generally by a limy external skeleton, head and thorax united; they breath by gills, have two pairs of antennae.

Now that the stuff is as legal as a lawyer's wig we will stand on our head in a tea cup and read the leaves.

First, last and first again, we do not expect that repeal will better us morally. Only financially.

Taxes will flow into the U. S. Treasury on a rip tide. The economic actuaries figure that $36,000,000,000 went to the hotchbooters in 10 years.

If that $36,000,000,000 was nesting in our spangled vaults at this moment we would have so much money we wouldn't know what to do. So you can check that item off because we don't know what to do anyway. Round even.

Second, it is useless to tell a man what to do after he has done it. There will never be reform by legislation. Every brand saved from the burning started another fire in a different place. You are either good or bad. And if you are too good, that's just too bad. The saving of future generations is much like meeting a train a week ahead of time. Why should the dancing Highlanders have a monopoly of flings?

If you are striding along the straight and slender path of rectitude and sobriety we admire and compliment you on your cautious behavior. But neither prohibition nor repeal will bleach a souse's nose. Ten days in the city dungeons are but 30 meals to him. Let him go his way and we will go ours. Nor heed the beckoning of a distant thumb.

We tried government pressure for 13 years and attained the maximum of success with the minimum of tangible results. We didn't get rid of the saloon. Like the farmer chasing the mice we scattered the family. The corner saloon moved upstairs to the second floor. And added to the joys of alcohol the delight of falling out of a window. How have you been?

It was a noble experiment. We would like to get the bird who started the fire under the mule and burned the wagon. We are starting all over again with a new rig and scorched harness. Whether the future abode of liquor be drug store, bar, restaurant or dispensary, get it back on the ground floor. We hate parachute jumps.

We are waiting to meet our first bouncer with the beetle brow, the swivel jaw, banjo hands and muscles bulging his sleeves like eggplants in paper bags. Like the Spartan youth, we shall return either victorious or later. Don't wait up for us. Leave the key under the doormat. We have read the handwriting on the canvas.

Election Reform Needed

Prompt Reporting of the Returns to Some Central Office Should Be Required.

Republican legislators have done well in rejecting the proposal that the Legislature adjourn without acting on the social legislation and election reforms advocated by Gov. Pinchot.

These reforms are badly needed and the people demand them. We believe that the representatives from many districts would be committing political suicide if they should ignore the demand, as was suggested by some of their foolish leaders in the state Republican organization.

The Child Labor Amendment of the United States Constitution should be ratified and minimum wage laws passed to abolish sweatshops.

We note with satisfaction that Senator Frank J. Harris has introduced some measures to protect the voters from fraud and inefficiency in the conducting of elections. The trials now being held in the United States District Court show the need of changes in the election procedure.

The people would appreciate legislation providing for the prompt reporting of election returns to some central office at the Courthouse. Under the present regulations election boards sometimes let days elapse before announcing the results in their districts. This is inexcusable.

With teamwork and zeal for the state's welfare the Legislature can consider and enact the desirable humanitarian and election reforms without unduly prolonging the session.

A Good Man for the Job

The Suggestion That Mayor Herron Be Appointed On The "County Authority" Is Excellent.

Word comes from Harrisburg that if the Legislature authorizes the formation of a private corporation to be known as the "county authority" to carry out the County Commissioners' program of self-liquidating public works, the Commissioners may appoint Mayor John S. Herron as one of the three members of the "authority."

The "authority," if created, will borrow $31,000,000 from the federal government and build toll bridges and other improvements which will provide work for 15,000 men for 18 months.

To superintend so vast an enterprise men of broad experience in large affairs, men of superior executive ability, will be needed. Mayor Herron meets the requirements. And his term as Mayor expires in a few weeks.

Pitt on the Defensive

The Trustees Will Be Expected to Give Good Reasons For Rejecting Federal Aid.

It is a shame that the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning remains unfinished.

Congressman Henry Ellenbogen has engineered a plan by which the federal government will give 30 per cent and lend 70 per cent of the money required to complete the job.

But the university trustees are reported to be reluctant to accept federal aid.

If they reject the offer, the people of Pittsburgh will expect them to furnish strong, convincing reasons for their action.

A Health Campaign

This annual health campaign is of inestimable value.

The funds realized from the sale of the seals are used not only to protect the community from tuberculosis, an activity in which signal success has been attained, but also in combating other ills.

Sixty per cent of the Christmas Seal money is used to finance special activities such as community nursing, medical inspection in the schools, dental clinics and dental hygiene service. Every section of the county has shared in these benefits.

Buy Christmas Seals and help to keep your community healthy.

Non-Residents

Before Suggesting Appointments to Mr. McNair Be Sure The Proposed Appointees Are Eligible.

Mayor-elect W. N. McNair made public the other day a long list of persons recommended to him by an unnamed organization as suitable for appointment to various important offices in the city government.

Among those suggested for places in the Mayor's cabinet were at least two who do not live in the city and are accordingly ineligible.

That was a mistake that is often made in considering appointments to municipal jobs. Business and professional men who have offices in Pittsburgh, who are in their offices every day, who spend the greater part of their waking hours in Pittsburgh, and are intensely interested in the city's affairs, are commonly thought of and spoken of as Pittsburghers; and yet their homes may be in the suburbs, beyond the municipal boundaries, and legally they may not be Pittsburghers at all.

It seems regrettable at times that Pittsburgh cannot avail itself of the services of men of outstanding ability who are to all intents and purposes Pittsburghers except that they sleep outside of the city limits.

Ghosts and Jazz

A Strange Tale Is Told By an Orchestra Leader.

An English song writer and jazz conductor says he was terrified "while conducting" by a ghost, sent out by Richard Wagner to warn him against jazz.

The conductor should not be too quick to believe his eyes. Instead of a ghost frightening a man conducting a jazz orchestra, it is more reasonable to believe a story stating that a jazz orchestra frightened a ghost.

What chance has a spook against a moaning saxophone and a St. Vitus drummer?

Unhitch That Sled!

By Nelson Harding

That wagon has too great a load
To carry on an unhill road.
The jaded horse cannot be made
To pull it all and make the grade.

But now the driver turns his head
And sees the riders on the sled.
The plan is clearly in his mind
To take his whip and "cut behind."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—In the hail-fellow circles they are called the "cut-in boys." Highly polished, correctly spruce fellows who are found at the choice cafe tables with orchidaceous companions. Many are black sheep who have drifted into this form of polite racketeering.

Unlike the gorillas, they do not carry gats and their conversation has a drawing room hoity-toity. Because of this veneer they are able to scrape up acquaintance easily, especially after a few drinks. At a lull in conversation, one begins to toy idly with a pair of dice.

A confederate chances along and banters: "Shoot a quarter!" In no time at all a small stake crap game is in full rattle. The come-on is invariably drawn in. The polished gentleman and his lady finally suggest that all repair to their apartment where they will be undisturbed.

So smooth is the innocent jockeying, the sucker does not realize the whole thing was planned for him. The rascals know all about him even to his Bradstreet rating. His loss often runs as high as $10,000. If he welches on checks, there's sinister phoning. And he pays. The "cut-in boys" get their divvy.

Someone tells me that on an excursion from Princeton to Broadway Prof. Einstein was attracted by the lights of a flea circus. In a whimsical moment he decided to drop in, but thought better of it. He might have innocently blockaded Broadway, for barkers have a custom of heralding celebrities within.

It was perhaps just as well Prof. Einstein did not succumb to his whim. One look at that wild and flowing mop of hair and even Gustave, the best trained of fleas, might have sighed: "Sorry, comrades, but this is where I leave you!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

Why Should Women Stick Together?

Mad letters. Why do I criticize women so much? "Women should stick together."

But why should women stick together?

I know what you're going to say. All about their ages and ages of suffering under Man, the Brutal Oppressor. How men have done us girls wrong ever since Adam, the big cry-baby, blamed that apple onto Eve. How we've been sold on slave blocks, locked in harems, branded, beaten, deprived of human rights, rated as cattle. And so, of course, women had to stand together if they wanted any rights at all.

Yes, indeed. But why bring all that up? Things were tough for ladies, certainly. However, if you'll dig down deep enough, you'll find that they weren't so sweet for the men, either. Men, also, were sold on slave blocks, branded, beaten, locked in galleys, rated as cattle.

But all that is ancient history. Now it's 1934—with equal rights, and everything. Yet women are still "sticking together" against the monster man. And still they perpetuate the old sex suspicions and antagonisms. Why?

There's a reason. But it isn't a pretty one and it certainly doesn't do us proud, sisters.

WE'RE PERPETUATING THIS "MALE MONSTER" MYTH BECAUSE IT'S A SWELL RACKET.

We know perfectly well that the modern male isn't a monster and the modern female isn't oppressed. To the contrary, the average American Missis, 1933 model, can outsmart and outyank a dozen average males with one arm tied behind her. Yet, to hear us tell it in the divorce courts or over the bridge tables, you'd think we were the Helpless Victims of Man's Ruthless Brutality. All for what?

ALL BECAUSE IT MAKES SUCH A PERFECT ALIBI FOR OUR OWN CUSSEDNESS.

The simple truth is, sisters, that Equal Rights aren't as much of a treat as we thought they'd be. We're quite willing to accept all these new privileges and liberties—but we're not so keen on the responsibilities that go with them.

Slavery might have been confining and humiliating, but it certainly had its points.

We didn't have to keep office hours—or our word. We had unlimited opportunity to lie around and be sorry for ourselves—without having our graft jeopardized by the good-natured, sensible, efficient little secretary down at the office.

But now, under this Equality program, we've got to snap out of our ancient lolligagging and act regular.

AND LOTS OF US DON'T LIKE IT!

Stick together for what?

Stick together so we won't have to grow up and act human!

Stick together so nobody will call our bluff—so nobody will dare criticize us, and make us bear our own responsibilities and face our own consequences.

But men stick together? Yes, but not in the sense which women demand for themselves. Men stick together on long established masculine habits. But they do not stick together on issues merely because they are males. All fathers do not rally around a father merely because he is a father. Men know perfectly well that one can be a husband and father, and yet a tramp.

This fact also applies to wives and mothers. But can you get most women to admit it? Try to do it!

However, don't be too contemptuous, gentlemen. Your own record in this matter isn't unblemished. You realize and despise the little game we're playing—but why do you stand for it? BECAUSE IT FLATTERS YOUR VANITY. We know you're not a monster, but what a bang you get out of being treated as such! And so the razzle-dazzle goes on.

But cheer up, Old Human Race; we're getting somewhere, in spite of everything. Real women—and there are millions of them—ask no odds, seek no exemptions. They are proud of their equality and accept all it implies. They do not demand that "women should stick together." They only demand that "women should stick together." They only demand that human beings should stick together, and that women should be treated as human beings.

So why won't this column help gang the gentlemen? That's why, girls. IF WE DESERVE EQUAL RIGHTS—AND REALLY MEAN TO WORK AT THEM—WHY SHOULD WE NEED TO?

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Love A-La-Carte and Table D'Hote

If the average man knew as much about his wife's emotions, nerves and temperament as her doctor does, there would be no divorce question.

Perhaps, if we spent the same time and ingenuity in putting a little color and flavor into marriage as a man wastes in coloring and flavoring a cocktail, wedlock, too, might be more stimulating and less soporific.

The difference between love and marriage is like the difference between dining a-la-carte and table d'hote. In the first case you can choose what you like; in the second you have to take what you get.

* * *

Marriage is like vaccination. If it doesn't "take" the third time you try it, you might just as well give up and stop irritating yourself.

If it were not for woman, men might still be conversing in signs, dressing in leopard-skins and eating their frog-legs raw. But then, if it were not for man, woman might still be wearing a string of beads instead of a backless evening-gown and counting with seashells instead of playing politics. They have a CIVILIZING effect on each other.

According to a good lawyer "cruelty and desertion" are what a man is guilty of, when he tells his wife that she's too old to wear these foolish little new hats, and then goes out and slams the door.

Somehow, it gives a woman a certain amount of satisfaction, to call up her husband's office and find out that his stenographer doesn't know where he is, either.

If the modern man's heart were merely made of flint, it wouldn't be so discouraging; it is the fact that it is made of elastic that baffles a woman.

Famous Manuscripts That Have Been Lost—Mass-Suicide of the Lemmings

By Edwin C. Hill

SIR PHILLIP GIBBS tells us of the most anguished hour of his life. His heart turned to a lump of ice when he discovered that he had left the manuscript of his first novel, "The Street of Adventure," in the waiting room of a railroad station. The book had cost him so much nervous exertion that the loss of the manuscript seemed like the death of his soul. He never would have had the courage to rewrite it. But luck was with him. The manuscript was found and returned intact.

Some of our finest pieces of literature have survived by sheer chance—call it luck, if you will. Lord Tennyson, after writing "In Memoriam," left it behind when he moved from one flat to another. It was recovered by his friend, Coventry Patmore.

Thomas Carlyle, after the terrific toil of completing the first volume of his "French Revolution," destroyed all his notes and sent the finished manuscript to John Stuart Mill. Mill's housekeeper, looking for waste paper with which to start a fire one winter morning, picked up a sheaf of papers from a table and used the papers to build her fire. It was Carlyle's precious manuscript. When Mill reported the loss, the crusty Scotchman felt physical agony, as if an iron hand was squeezing his heart. But down he sat and rewrote the volume from end to end, and we will never know how the second labor compared with the first, great as the second was.

Joseph Conrad lost the manuscript of "Almayer's Folly" in a railroad station restaurant in Berlin, and nearly lost it again in Africa.

Remarkable Poem Saved for World

BUT the most remarkable piece of fortunate chance was the salvation of a poem which many consider one of the finest ever written in the English language. Rudyard Kipling, fired with patriotic fervor, wrote a poem of five stanzas. When he had crossed the last "t" and dotted the final "i," he read it over, frowned with distaste and threw into the wastebasket what he considered pretty poor stuff.

But Mrs. Kipling, finding the discarded sheets in the wastepaper basket, was thrilled by the lines and sent the poem to the London Times, signing her husband's name to the accompanying letter. The old Thunderer was so delighted and moved by the poem that it gave it nearly a whole page, setting it out in big, boldfaced type—something it had never done before in a hundred years.

The Times sent Mr. Kipling a blank check, telling Kipling to fill in any figures he pleased. Still in a bad humor over what he considered inferior work, the greatest of modern story tellers returned the check with the curt comment that he was not accustomed to being paid for his patriotism. And the story is that he was angry with Mrs. Kipling for rescuing the manuscript from destruction.

That poem today has taken its place in the literature of the language—of all languages. You know it:

"The tumult and the shouting dies;
The captains and the kings depart;
Still stands thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!"

British Liberals Desert Government

ONLY a few years ago the Liberal party under Mr. Lloyd George ruled the roost in England. But so enormous have been the mutations of those few years that the snow-white head of the astute Welshman now is barely visible on the horizon of world affairs, and the party he once ruled has been split into factions. One of these factions, with 33 members in Parliament, now declines longer to support the government. Solemnly the devoted 33 leave the government benches and cross the floor of the House of Commons to sit with the chuckling Laborites.

All of this prompted the London Times to the amused comment that this flight of the Liberals makes one think of those strange little creatures called lemmings, which, every so often, and for no reason that man has ever been able to divine, leave their homes in the woods and fields of Norway and Sweden and in great masses rush blindly to the Atlantic Ocean and plunge in.

The allusion made by the old Thunderer of Fleet Street brings up one of the most curious facts in all nature, this mass-suicide impulse of those little mouse-like creatures, the Scandinavian lemmings. They are very like a miniature woodchuck, with soft, yellowish-brown fur, marked with spots of dark brown and black, and are about five inches long. Pretty little things which dwell in the dells and glens of the great central mountain chain of Norway and Sweden. They are restless, courageous, pugnacious little animals and they have to be, for they are constantly pursued and harassed by bears, wolves, foxes, dogs, wild cats, weasels, eagles, hawks and never spared by man.

At certain intervals every few years, hundreds of thousands—millions—of these tiny creatures feel the impulse to march to the distant ocean, and the whole vast army takes up the march, moving in a straight line, over or under any obstacle; climbing mountains, swimming rivers; never stopping until they reach the blue Atlantic into which they plunge. None ever returns.

There is an ancient belief that these little lemmings came originally from the lost continent of Atlantis, lying now somewhere on the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean. The peasants of Sweden and Norway firmly believe that the lemmings are stirred and swept away, every so often, by that mysterious yearning for the home their ancestors came from, thousands of years ago.

Roosevelt's Popularity High, Election Shows

By James T. Williams, Jr.

OUT of West Virginia has recently come an emphatic indorsement of the leadership of action raised up by President Roosevelt to meet the challenge of the national emergency created in part by a world-wide depression.

In the third Congressional district of that border state, at a special election to fill a vacancy in the House caused by death, the Democratic nominee was elected to Congress over his Republican opponent by a majority of approximately 5,000 votes.

The Roosevelt candidate ran on the record of the Roosevelt administration. He pledged himself, if elected, to give his hearty support to the Roosevelt program for national recovery.

Next year the Roosevelt program will be the issue in every Congressional district in every state in the Union. In the November elections of 1934 the entire membership of the House and one-third of the membership of the Senate will be chosen.

This is in accord with the constitutional provision which limits the term of a representative in Congress to two years and the term of a Senator to six years. One-third of the Senate's membership is renewed every two years. No state elects both of its two Senators in the same year, unless compelled to do so by reason of an unexpected vacancy.

Able Senators' Terms Expiring

AMONG the 32 Senators whose terms expire with the present Congress early in January of 1935 are some of the ablest members of the upper house. And the list of states holding senatorial elections next November extends literally "from Maine to California."

Of the 32 senators who will be candidates for re-election next year, 17 are Republicans, 14 are Democrats, and one is the sole representative of the Farmer-Labor party in the Senate.

Due to the national emergency, the people are giving more serious thought to the general qualifications of a senator than in ordinary times. The courage and the intelligence with which a senator fights for great public causes will probably count more than party affiliation in determining the senatorial elections in many states next year.

Senators who vote with the President on measures for building up the national defense afield and afloat, for building up an independent American merchant marine, for keeping out of entangling political alliances with foreign countries, for reforming and unifying the banking system of the country and for other progressive measures that cut athwart party lines, are likely to stand a better chance of renomination and re-election than are the "party regulars" whose habit is to vote as the party bosses or organized minorities dictate.

Administration Has 'Working Majority'

THE Roosevelt administration already has a "working majority" in the Senate. It would not help the administration to have this majority too greatly increased and the Senate thereby reduced to a docile auxiliary of the executive branch.

For example, Senator Stephens (Dem.), of Mississippi, and Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, do not always vote with the administration. Both the President and the Senate, however, recognize in statesmen of their type patriotic legislators who represent not merely the people of their respective states but also the people of the United States.

Daniel Webster, of New Hampshire, gave the American people a vivid description of what the framers of the Constitution intended the United States Senate should be when he said:

"This is a Senate, a Senate of equals, of men of individual honor and personal character and of absolute independence. We know no masters, we acknowledge no dictators. This is a hall for mutual consultation and discussion, not an arena for the exhibition of champions."
